MAN WAS FINED $20

He Was Charged With Larceny
of Six Coal Bags

Peter O'Neil and George Paquette were arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning, the former being charged with the larceny of six coal bags, each of the value of $35, the property of John P. Quinn, while Paquette was charged with receiving stolen property. O'Neil entered a plea of guilty and after being found guilty was ordered to pay a fine of $20 or be committed to jail for three months, while Paquette was found not guilty and ordered discharged.

Mr. John P. Quinn, the complainant, testified that O'Neil had worked for him at different periods and about two months ago he became suspicious that some person was stealing his coal bags. He made a count and found that 314 bags were missing. As a result of what he learned he reported the matter to the police and last Friday swore out a warrant against O'Neil and subsequently Paquette was summoned in to court. Mr. Quinn during the course of his testimony said that he paid $30 a piece for the bags, each of which bore a large letter "Q" but that the letter on the bags which he found at Paquette's coal yard had been obliterated by the use of black paint.

John Bean, a young man who was to have appeared as a witness in the case Saturday, but who disappeared rather suddenly and who was later arrested on a capias, testified to having worked for Mr. Quinn and was with O'Neil when the latter sold the bags to Paquette. Witness said that he told Paquette that the bags belonged to Mr. Quinn, but that Mr. Paquette did not pay any particular heed to the remark. According to Bean all that seemed to disturb Paquette was how he would remove the letter "Q" on the bags and O'Neil said that he would take care of that and accordingly went over to a hardware store, purchased 10 cents worth of paint and with a brush succeeded in covering up the letter.

Paquette testifying in his own behalf said that O'Neil in selling the bags sold him in business himself and had sold out and was anxious to get rid of a number of bags which he had on hand. The witness said that he could not read, write or speak English and did not know what the letter on the bags stood for.

O'Neil testified to selling the bags and this concluded the government's case. A. C. Hamel, who appeared for Paquette, started to argue, but Judge Hadley stated that an argument was unnecessary and finding Paquette not guilty ordered him discharged. As above stated O'Neil was found guilty of larceny and ordered to pay a fine of $20 or be committed to jail for three months.

DIAZ TO RESIGN

President of Mexico Says He Will Give Up Position

MEXICO CITY, May 8.—Gen. Porfirio Diaz last night issued a manifesto to the people of Mexico declaring his intention to resign the presidency as soon as peace is restored.

In this manner the president has virtually acceded to the demands of Francisco L. Madero that he make announcement of such an intention.

MADERO'S ORDERS

EL PASO, Tex., May 8.—When Gen. Madero heard of the dispatch from Mexico City concerning President Diaz's resignation, he immediately gave orders to his troops to stop marching. Couriers were sent ahead to halt advance guard.

"I am naturally very glad to hear that President Diaz has made the announcement," said General Madero to an Associated Press representative.

"I am going to send a telegram to him at once congratulating him on his patriotism, for it certainly was an act that required the highest kind of personal sacrifice and patriotism."

tem," but it is an admitted fact that teachers cannot successfully teach children who are not in school. Sometimes they are able to promote children who do not attend more than half the time, but they will not promise even as much as that. Mr. Whitcomb would demand proof before admitting that a single child, not mentally or physically defective, well prepared for his grade, when he entered it and regular in attendance, has failed of promotion in the year.

"In failure to know whether a child is normal," said Mr. Whitcomb, "we are more at fault. In Boston an expert, Dr. Jolly, examines all doubtful cases, and decides what shall be done with them. If he finds them normal, or nearly normal, he continues them in the school they have been attending; if feeble-minded he advises that they be sent to the state school at Waverley; and if abnormal, or sub-normal to a degree which unfit them for the ordinary public school, he orders them sent to one of the twelve special schools which the city provides. This method of dealing with such cases is excellent, and Lowell might well copy it. In fact, something of the sort is one of Lowell's greatest needs at present, for the number of abnormal or sub-normal children is much greater than is generally supposed. In Rochester, N. Y., recently 300 backward children were examined by an expert who pronounced 180 of them sub-normal, and for them twelve special classes have been formed. Physical defects which inhibit work and prevent promotion are being well cared for by school physicians and teachers, but mental abnormalities have not yet received the attention which justice to the individual, and the welfare of the schools as a whole, both demand."

PREPARED FOR ATTACK

EL PASO, May 8.—Residents of Ciudad Juarez, the Mexican city across the Rio Grande, awoke today to see that they had been spared a real battle which might have resulted in one of the deadliest conflicts of the Mexican revolution. Creeping along in the thick of the night the insurrecto army, supposedly on its way south because it feared American intervention if it attacked Juarez, was about to deliver a telling blow at the federal stronghold last night when an Associated Press despatch from Mexico City stating that President Diaz had announced his intention to resign was carried to the front. The despatch quickly changed the situation from one of gravity to hilarity. Today members of the Madero family are sending messages to President Diaz telling him what a fine man they think he is and how he has saved the country.

Negotiations have been begun for another armistice with General Navarro as well as a resumption of the peace conference which adjourned on Saturday. The unanimous opinions of representatives of the warring factions is that complete tranquillity for Mexico now is in sight. Arrangements for the extension of the armistice to cover the entire country are expected to be made today. Peace negotiations will be hastened and no one anticipates any difficulty as to the government concessions on points other than the Diaz question which have been well known and acceptable for some time.

Facts of the secretly planned attack on Juarez became known today. Francisco Madero had announced his intention of marching his forces southward and abandoning the attack on Juarez for fear of international complications. Military leaders had accepted the decision with resignation. They gathered secretly, however, upon a plan of attack, notwithstanding their chief's orders. It was arranged that General Madero would be persuaded to leave camp first and proceed to El Paso, 11 miles away. With their chief out of reach they were to have pursued the attack with all the force which had been pent up in them since the various armistices began. Col. Garibaldi and his detachment had begun to move slowly in the early evening in one direction, while Colonels Villa and Blanco had set out for an entirely different route, supposedly scattering for various parts of Chihuahua and Sonora.

The insurrectos under cover of darkness instead crept back toward the federal outposts and lay in a position to open fire simultaneously at night. Not a light was burning, and movements of the advance guard were slow and noiseless. It was an unusually thick night and a drizzle of rain fell almost continuously. The advance guard of one of the rebel detachments which moved southward fired a farewell salute into the federal trenches and the rebels returned the compliment. The troops under General Navarro were on the lookout but did not expect an attack. The news that President Diaz had submitted to the rebel demands by announcing his intention to resign came two hours before the time of attack and the insurrectos turned back to their camping grounds, where, today, they are celebrating what they believe to be the triumph of the revolution.

Today the same cottonwood grove through which insurrecto scouts crept last night in their secret advance on Juarez will be the scene of a resumption of peace negotiations between the rebels and the federal government, broken off after a single day's conference because the latter had not answered the principal demand of the revolutionists.

THE FOREST FIRES

Caused Great Damage in New England Yesterday

BOSTON, May 8.—Dozens of forest fires raged in many sections of New England yesterday, being far more serious and numerous than at any other time this year.

While up to Sunday comparatively few buildings had been destroyed, flames in several places yesterday for a time got the better of the fire fighters and consumed dwelling houses, barns, ice houses and other buildings. Thousands of acres of woodland were burned over and thousands of feet of prepared lumber were destroyed as well as considerable cordwood.

Serious Fires in Maine
The most serious fires were at Biddeford and Sanford, Me. At Biddeford the coast artillery was called out by riot call, so serious was the situation. Nearly three miles of timber land was burned over and a house and barn destroyed.

Sanford, Me., was entirely surrounded by flames which started in three different places and large ice houses at Curtis lake were destroyed. There was little sleep for the villagers last night, for many houses in the outskirts were in grave danger.

At Bangor, Me., 150,000 feet of spruce boards and 500,000 feet of pine boards went up in smoke and flames with a loss estimated at close to $30,000. Rhode Island had fires at Pascoag, Masonville and Glendale. The former burned over 600 acres and was not brought under control for 24 years, while in the two latter villages 200 acres had already been burned over and the fire was still spreading late last night.

Of the Massachusetts fires, one of the most serious was at Wakefield, where flames, which started in the grass, spread to the icehouses of the reading Citizens' Ice company, on the shores of Lake Quannapowitt, destroying the buildings with a loss of about $3000. The firemen of Wakefield and Reading prevented further spread of the fire with difficulty.

Uxbridge Property Burned
At Uxbridge a house and two barns were in the pathway of the forest fire and all were last night in ruins. The fire covered 400 acres of timberland and burned up 300 cords of firewood with a total loss estimated at $8000. Two hundred acres was also burned over at North Uxbridge.

Chatham, N. S., the scene of another battle which during the day destroyed a dwelling house, threatened many summer cottages and left two square miles of woodland a waste.

The village of Pleasant lake, near Harvard, Mass., was the scene of three fires, one of which destroyed the residence and another building of Joseph F. Clark and also cottages.

In nearly all parts of New England there has been but little rain during the past weeks and the undergrowth is extremely dry. In some portions of Maine wells have gone dry and farmers are obliged to carry water for their families and cattle many miles.

FELL OVERBOARD

GIRL WAS DROWNED WHILE

BOATING AT LAKE SABATTUS

SABATTUS, Me., May 8.—While boating on Lake Sabattus yesterday Miss Nellie Kingston of Lewiston fell overboard and was drowned. At a late hour last night her body had not been recovered.

Miss Kingston, a waitress in a Lewiston hotel, was in a rowboat with a friend, about 200 feet from shore. She started to change her position, when she lost her balance and plunged headlong into the water.

She did not come to the surface and the rough water made efforts to rescue her futile. This is the first drowning accident of the season at this place.

BOXING LAW

CHICAGO, May 8.—Hundreds of letters and telegrams urging members of the lower house of the legislature to vote against the bill legalizing six round boxing contests were sent to Springfield today. The bill, which has passed the senate, will come up in the house tomorrow.

Nearly every minister in Illinois took occasion to refer to the bill from the pulpit last night and asked church members to use their influence to defeat the bill.

DOMINICAN FATHERS

Open Two Weeks' Mission at
St. Michael's ChurchMission at St. Patrick's Church Closed Sunday Evening With Large Congregation of Men

A band of three of those most noted missionaries, the Dominicans, opened a two weeks' mission at St. Michael's church yesterday, the first week for the women and the second for the men. The preachers are Rev. Fr. Foley, Kelly and Donahue.

The mission opened with high mass yesterday sung by Rev. Fr. Mullin and the preacher was Rev. Fr. Foley, an eminent pulpit orator, who after outlining the program of the mission preached a most effective sermon on "The Christian Home." Fr. Foley is a most impressive talker and his remarks were listened to with great attention by a congregation which taxed the seating capacity of the church.

The regular evening services opened at 7:30 o'clock and it was necessary to place chairs within the sanctuary to accommodate the large number of women who were in attendance. At the evening service, Rev. Fr. Kelly recited the rosary and gave eloquent instructions on that devotion, after which Fr. Foley preached a powerful sermon on "The Christian Mother." During the two weeks of the mission the masses with instructions will be held at 8 o'clock and 8 and the evening services at 7:30 o'clock.

St. Patrick's Mission
One of the most successful missions ever conducted at St. Patrick's church came to a conclusion last evening when a congregation that crowded the great edifice to the doors heard the final sermon and received papal benediction from the zealous priests who have been conducting the missions. The Dominican Fathers who conducted the mission were most gratified at the results.

PROPOSED SITE OF CONTAGIOUS HOSPITAL

DIAGRAM SHOWING LOCATION OF SITE SELECTED FOR NEW CONTAGIOUS HOSPITAL.

A. shows the Chelmsford Street hospital. The buildings being about 500 feet from Chelmsford street. B. shows the location of proposed hospital. The center of which would be about 250 feet from the Chelmsford Street hospital and the same distance from Chelmsford street. The star shows the location suggested by Dr. McCarty. The black line shows the present sewer through Chelmsford street. An extension of about 1000 feet would be necessary to reach location indicated by star.

From the above diagram it will be easy to judge the merits of the controversy now going on between the contagious hospital commission and the city board. The latter claims the site chosen is too near the public street and too near the present Chelmsford Street hospital. It would be almost directly in front of the present buildings of the pauper department, and most people would thereby be led to suppose that it was part and parcel of those buildings. Then the general public might have some qualms in riding past there in the electric cars. The owners of property on the opposite side of the street are protesting against that location and it is better to understand now whether the city would be liable for damages by placing such a hospital so close to the public street and so close to private residences that nobody would care to reside in the vicinity and that in consequence private property would thereby be reduced in value.

and he had sent word that it would be impossible for him to attend the meeting because of business, that did not admit of postponement.

The meeting was called for the purpose of considering and discussing the sketches submitted by Henry L. Rourke, architect, on Saturday. On motion of Dr. McCarty the meeting was adjourned to Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock in order to have Mr. Robinson and Mr. Rourke present to participate in the discussion.

Dr. Martin called to order at 11:50 and the records of last Saturday's meeting were read by the secretary, Dr. Lamoureux. The doctor also read a letter from Edward P. Stephens of 9 Park street, Boston. Dr. Lamoureux had written to Mr. Stephens, who is a consulting engineer, and the latter replied that he is about to go to Germany to study hospital construction there. He said he would return during the latter part of June and would be pleased to assist the commission in such services as he might render were desired.

Wells Not Endangered

State Board of Health,
May 5, 1911.

Dear Sir:—It occurred to me that perhaps you, chairman of the contagious hospital commission, might be interested to know the opinion of the board relative to the effect upon the water of the Cook wells of the proposed contagious hospital, and I am therefore enclosing herewith a copy of the communication which has recently been sent to the Lowell water board.

You will notice that this is simply a confirmation of the opinion expressed by me at the time of our visit to the proposed location.

Yours very truly,
Rufus M. Whitte,

Office of the State Board of Health,
State House, Boston, May 4, 1911.

To the Lowell Water Board,
Lowell, Mass.

Mr. J. W. Crawford, Secretary.

Gentlemen:—In response to your request of May 1, 1911, for advice as to whether the use of certain lands formerly connected with the city farm in Chelmsford street as a location for a contagious hospital is likely to affect the water of the Cook wells, so called, the board has caused the locality to be examined by one of its engineers and has considered the information presented.

It appears that the site selected for the hospital is on the easterly side of Chelmsford street, north of the driveway leading from Chelmsford street to the city farm, and that the building is to be connected with the public sewer in Chelmsford street and all modern apparatus for thorough disinfection and sterilization is to be installed. The hospital will be located more than a quarter of a mile from the wells, and, considering the circumstances, in the opinion of the board the construction of the hospital, as proposed, on the lands indicated would not be a menace to the purity of the water of the Cook wells.

By Order of the Board.

Dr. Martin said he had talked with Mr. Rourke this morning and the latter told him that he did not consider the plans or sketches presented by him on Saturday to be working plans and he said that were he awarded the contract he would draw up a set of working plans that the commission could present to the builders. The sketches which he submitted on Saturday, he said, represented a great deal of labor and expense but he realized that in preparing and submitting them he was taking his chances to win or lose. It was the opinion of the commission that the plans could be modified to suit a considerable extent but no definite action was taken. Dr. McCarty moved that the meeting be adjourned to Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock and it was so voted.

Germany Objects to Them Occupying Fez

BERLIN, May 8.—Germany has warned France of the dangerous consequences which would be likely to follow the occupation of Fez by French troops. Further than this the government has taken no step, though watching developments in Morocco very closely. There is no truth in the rumor published this morning that Germany had decided to send three cruisers to Moroccan waters in order to display the flag at Casa Blanca, Rabat, Mogador and El Arish.

In view of the hint from Berlin, it is believed here that the French flying column from the southwest, which has been hurrying to the relief of Fez will be halted outside the capital.

Attended Reunion of West Point Men

NEW YORK, May 8.—Seven of ten surviving members of the West Point class of '61, the first to be graduated by the military academy during the civil war, held a reunion last night on the anniversary of their graduation. Gen. J. W. Baylow, lately chief of engineers in the army, presided. The others present were Senator H. A. du Pont of Delaware, Col. E. B. Beaumont, Gen. J. Ford Kent, Gen. Adelbert Ames, Gen. A. T. Huntington and Col. Charles H. Gibson.

The three members of the class who were unable to attend were Gen. John Rodgers, who is in El Paso; Gen. J. B. Hawley the Col. Wright Rivers.

HAPPY REUNION

Two Sons of Mr. and Mrs. Larose Married

A happy reunion of relatives took place today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Larose, 61 Beaulieu street, the occasion being the marriage of the latter couple's two sons, Alphonse and Joseph, Jr.

Alphonse Larose and Miss Alvinia Paris were married at a nuptial mass celebrated at 7 o'clock at St. Jean Baptiste church, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Fr. Ouellette, O. M. I.

The witnesses were Messrs. Joseph Larose, Sr. and Alphonse Paris.

While this wedding was being performed, a brother of the groom, Joseph Larose, Jr., and Miss Evoline Beaudette were being married in Manchester, N. H. The nuptial knot being tied at a mass celebrated at St. Augustine's church by Rev. Fr. Chevalier.

The witnesses were Mr. Elphège Beaudette of this city and Mr. Geoffrey Beaudette of Manchester. Immediately after the ceremony the couple and their witnesses left for this city arriving here in time to partake of a wedding breakfast served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Paris, 34 Lakeview avenue, parents of Mrs. Alphonse Larose.

The two happy couples then returned to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Larose, Sr., where a reception was held in the afternoon, to be continued this evening. Tomorrow evening the couples will be tendered another reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Desrochers, 75 Austin street. The two couples will make their home at 91 Beaulieu street.

POPULAR OFFICER ASSAULT CHARGE

Man Arrested for Lawrence Police

The many friends of Police Officer John H. McKay, one of the most popular members of the local police department will be deeply pained to learn of his death which occurred yesterday at his home, 130 Bartlett street. Deceased while not feeling well of late had been able to perform his duty as an officer up to within a week and was able to be about within a few days. Stomach trouble was the cause of death.

Officer McKay was 49 years of age and had been a member of the police force since 1881. No man in the department commanded higher respect from his fellow officers than did the deceased. He was the soul of kindness, quiet, modest and retiring, but pleasant and genial under all circumstances. He was scrupulously faithful in the performance of his duties and possessed of sound judgment at all times. He is survived by his wife, Belle; four children, Anna, James, John and Gertrude; his mother, Elizabeth; one brother, Thomas P., the well known baker, and three sisters, Elizabeth T. Catherine B. McKay and Mrs. Michael Sullivan. Funeral notice later.

Tony Silva was arrested in this city last night by Inspector McCloughry for the Lawrence police who wanted him for alleged assault with a knife. According to information received in this city, Silva figured in a stabbing affray and after using the knife, boarded a car for Lowell. The Lowell police were immediately notified and the inspectors were ordered to keep tabs on the Lawrence cars. An inspection of the car on which it was thought that Silva would come to this city, failed to locate him as a passenger when it arrived in Merrimack square, but the inspector thinking that Silva might have left the car before it reached the square started over Bridge street and was just turning into First street when he ran across a person who answered the description of the man wanted by the Lawrence police.

Silva was taken to the police station where he denied his identity, but when searched, a knife which was covered with blood was found concealed in his trousers leg. After the knife was found he admitted that he was the man who was wanted in Lawrence. Word was telephoned to Lawrence and an inspector came to this city and took him into custody.

BANDIT KILLED "LOWELL'S STANDARDS"

Desperate Fight Took Place In a Schoolhouse

JEFFERSON, Ia., May 8.—Marshal Busby of Paton and a bank robber were killed and a highwayman was seriously injured in a fight between a sheriff's posse and the bandits early yesterday at a schoolhouse two miles from Paton.

The highwayman broke into the postoffice at Paton, blew open the safe and took several hundred dollars in stamps and money. The noise of the explosion was heard by a man in the street. Marshal Busby was called, and he and armed deputies started in pursuit of the robbers, who fled south. A posse also was organized at Dana. A search was made of the whole neighborhood.

Marshal Busby and several men, after dividing the pursuers into searching parties, with instructions to scour the country, started back to Paton, believing that some hiding place had been overlooked. When they came to a schoolhouse near Paton, using no precaution whatever, the marshal went to the door and opened it. The report of a gun was heard and the marshal fell dead. One of the robbers dragged the body into the schoolhouse. Then a fusillade began between the robbers and the deputies.

The lifeless body of Busby was propped up in the window and from behind it the robbers fired on the deputies. By this time Sheriff McBride Wilson and his assistants had arrived and Wilson called on the robbers to surrender, but he received a volley in reply. The officers then poured bullets into the windows and doors of the schoolhouse. Finally one of the robbers staggered through the front doorway wounded, saying: "I surrender, but my pal is going to fight till you get him."

Sheriff Wilson gave the injured bandit a chance to surrender, but he refused and the fight was renewed. The firing lasted 30 minutes. Finally the officers saw the robber stagger and Busby's body fell from the window. A rush was made for the door and the robber was found dead, with a bullet through his heart.

The wounded robber refused to give his name. One of his legs is shattered and will have to be amputated. A key from a hotel in Des Moines and papers bearing the postmarks Sing Sing, and Chicago were found in his pocket.

It is believed these men are the ones who blew the safe in the Bayard postoffice a few weeks ago. They are about 25 years old. The injured bandit was taken to Sioux City.

Pastor Willmott Says They Are Low in Some Cases

At the First Congregational church, Sunday night, the pastor, Rev. B. A. Willmott spoke on "Lowell's Standards." The speaker referred to the vote of Lowell's representatives on the bar and bottle bill and said they were on the side of the school. He also told of the evil influence of the Sunday picture show. In part, he said:

"What, after all, is a standard? Are not the standards which govern our civic life a coming together of the opinions of men about things? In a democracy is it not true that the ultimate court of appeal is public opinion? I sat next to the president of the Senate the other evening, and he said, 'The men sent to us are not there to give their opinions; they are there to express public opinion.' If this be true, it is a most vital question that we should consider the standards of judgment or morals or civic well being which dominate our lives as citizens of the city."

"We must never forget that frequently we take the noisy and clamorous utterances of a public speaker as reflecting the consensus of opinion, whereas a majority of men are in disagreement with the noisy speaker. We must never forget that back of (all our politicians who speak glib, noisy platitudes in public and rob the treasury in private, there lurks a steady, abiding public opinion which does not voice itself until the crisis comes. But we do well to remember also that if silent on these great questions, we give people the impression that the noisy politician interprets the real standards of morality and judgment. And so we do well to speak, at all times, our judgment on questions of civic righteousness."

"It is sometimes discouraging to a man who is trying to serve the public either as a preacher or in public service, to have good men silent and bad men noisy; to be forgotten by all good men, and surrounded by the clamor of the self-seeking, greedy politician."

"I have been impressed with the false standards of judgment in two or three things lately. Here is one. Quite recently a body of men and women who have lived most of their lives among the poor and given their lives for social settlement work, brought before the Massachusetts legislature a bill known as the bar and bottle bill. It was not foisted upon the public by extremists, but was put before the legislature by such men as President Eliot and the social settlement workers of Boston, and was a measure not remedial, but preventive. It was designed to save the boys and girls from the drunken orgies that take place in the home after the saloons are closed in the evening."

"Who protested? Men who had a financial interest, men who had invested large sums of money in this business. Did they care for the public? Did they care for the home, the children or the school?"

"Meanwhile, we have sent to the general court in Boston, men to represent us—men who are supposed to express our standards of right, and almost without exception, where were they? They were on the side of the saloon. What was their excuse? It could not be that the devil's representatives had bought them; you can scarcely conceive such a thing. It could not be that their consciences approved of it; if so, then to what depths have we descended! The only reason is, that they reflected our judgment, our standards; that they did what they thought we wanted them to do. That is the only charitable surmise."

"Is that the standard by which we test men and measures—that a thing is profitable and therefore it is right? I cannot believe that this city has any such standards as that. And this measure was not to do away with the sale of liquor; it was merely to take away one of the disastrous effects of it. If our legislators reflected our judgment, they reflected standards that are false."

"Here is another instance: The picture shows are running Sunday, and we are told that the foreigners want them. I notice that mostly English-speaking people are running them; and they are doing it for money, not to give to the people something good on the Lord's day. Within a short time a clean wholesome boy was taken into court as a thief. He told the judge that first he had been reading bad books, and second, he had been to the picture shows, and seen how men and boys evaded the police, and thought he would like to try it. Yet no evidence that I have seen, has given voice to protest. Our public servants seem to care little about it. We are bringing into the world boys and girls with the instincts of criminals, and training them to evade the law."

"In these two things, Lowell has a low standard. They could not exist, if our standard were high enough to condemn them. Your clerk and in your tolerance you have failed to appreciate the fact that it is erected for money alone that has asked for these licenses."

CHASE PROPERTY

Was Purchased by St. Columba's Parish

At all the masses in St. Columba's temporary church yesterday, Rev. Fr. Degan, the popular pastor, made the interesting announcement that the Josephine M. Chase homestead and its accompanying two acres of land

REV. FR. DEGAN.

In Mammoth road had been purchased for a new church for St. Columba's parish while the homestead will be utilized as a parochial residence.

The deeds were passed Friday afternoon conveying the property to the nonan Catholic Archbishop of Boston and the sale was made through the office of Robert E. Crowley & Son. Fr. Degan also announced that Contractor Patrick O'Hearn, would have work today on an addition to the barn 50x60 feet which will be used as a temporary church with a seating capacity of 500. The permanent church will be located on the south side of the homestead facing Mammoth road. The temporary structure will meet the demands of the parish for the present and will afford them ample comfort.

In order that the parishioners may inspect the new house, Rev. Fr. Degan will hold a reception and a visit party at the Chase residence tomorrow evening.

CARBONOL For Sanitary Housekeeping

Wherever there is dirt there are disease germs. Carbonol destroys these. These germs lurk even in comparatively clean places—such as rugs, draperies, corners, closets, etc. A few drops of Carbonol in the water used in cleaning or a dust cloth wrung out of such water, at once makes these germs harmless.

A few drops used in the dish water dissolves the grease quickly. A little sprinkled in kitchen corners and cracks drives away water-hugs and roaches. Try it. 10c and 25c a bottle.

FOUND IN RIVER

Man Was Missing Since April 24

BOSTON, May 8.—The body of Wm. G. Muirhead, 28 years old, of 35 Cleveland street, Arlington, was found floating in the Charles river on the Cambridge side, near the Charlesgate hospital, yesterday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock. Patrolman Joseph Doherty discovered the body, which was but a few feet from the shore. He drew it ashore and notified police headquarters.

The body was fully clothed, the hands gloved. A small amount of money, together with a Boston elevated employee's ticket, with the number 11,765, was found in the pockets. On one hand was a seal ring with the initials W. G. A.

Medical Examiner Thos. M. Durell of Somerville was notified and ordered the body removed to Litchfield's morgue, Lafayette square. After viewing the body he said that it probably had been in the water two weeks. In his opinion death was due to drowning. Muirhead had been missing from the home of his sister, Mrs. C. W. Smith, in Arlington, with whom he lived, since April 24. He had been employed by the elevated road as timekeeper on subway construction. He was a native of Chatham and was unmarried.

Three months ago his mother died, and since that time he had not been his usual self.

MAY PARTY

FOR CHILDREN AT THE FIRST TRINITARIAN CHURCH

The children of the cradle roll, kindergarten and primary departments of the First Trinitarian Congregational Sunday school were given their annual May party Saturday afternoon in the vestry of the church in Dutton street, and as usual the effort drew forth a large attendance.

The children under 1 years of age enjoyed their games in the intermediate room under the charge of Miss Nellie Jenkinson, while the children from seven to ten years of age were entertained in the main vestry under the charge of Miss Elsie M. Cragin. After the games, which lasted from three to four o'clock, an entertainment consisting of recitations by Isabelle Roy, Greta Pickering, Harold Sundberg, and several others with a song by the kindergarten was given under the direction of Mrs. George E. Ames.

Mrs. J. T. Roy presided over the festivities and refreshments were served. The affair was under the direction of the superintendent of the three departments of the school, Mrs. George E. Ames, of the primary department, assisted by the teachers, Miss Elsie Cragin of the kindergarten, assisted by Miss Nellie M. Jenkinson, and Miss Mary J. Martin of the cradle roll, assisted by Miss Louis M. Kitteridge. The National association assisted largely in the success of the party.

THE FIRE DEPT.

Was Kept on the Jump Yesterday

The local fire department was kept on the jump yesterday, answering alarms for grass and brush fires. About three o'clock in the afternoon a portion of the department was called to extinguish a grass fire which broke out in Tenth street. The fire, however, was quenched before any damage was done.

Later in the afternoon a fire broke out on Allen street dump and shortly after the dump fire a grass fire broke out in Middle street.

At two o'clock an alarm from box 125 was sounded for a fire in a bundle of rags in a tenement in Dummer street. The damage was slight.

The alarm from box 74 Saturday night about 9 o'clock was for a brush fire in Campus road which kept the department members busy for more than an hour. No damage.

An alarm from box 76 shortly after 8:30 o'clock last night called the department to a grass fire on New Moody street. There was no damage.

THE OPERA HOUSE

One of the biggest and greatest treats in store for the patrons of the Opera House on Thursday, May 11th, is the coming of Frederic Thompson's biggest success, "Polly of the Circus," with dainty and winsome George Oly as Polly.

Mr. Thompson has provided a cast of well known players and a grand array of circus talent, among whom are the Dutton family of equilibrists, the Farlow dog and pony show, "Little Flip," a performing elephant that does everything but talk, the Forber family, aerial and horizontal bar acts, clowns, acrobats, gymnasts and bareback riders of note, also carrying horses, dogs, ponies and the greatest performing elephant in the world, "Little Flip."

This play is a sermon on narrow-mindedness, is simple, sweet, natural and charming, and deserves critical and popular success. It is a play for mothers, wives, sisters and sweethearts.—Adv.

RICHARD CARLE

To make the hard working public laugh is quite as laudable a mission as to instruct those who really prefer relaxation, so that a musical comedy constructed solely for laughing purposes and interpreted by the funniest comedian of the day and a strong cast, should be a welcome visitor in these strenuous days. Such is "Jumping Jupiter," in which Richard (himself) Carle has been making the record run of the season in Boston, and which he will present at the Opera House on May 24. Carle, of course, wrote the piece to fit his own unique talents and personality, but he has also constructed a number of other excellent roles which find capable interpreters in the persons of Edna Wallace Hopper (specially engaged), Will H. Phillips, Ina Claire, Joseph C. Miron, Helen May, Helen Raymond, Burrell Barber, and a large contingent of pretty girls.

Karl Roschina, of "Madame Sherry" fame, wrote the charming music of "Jumping Jupiter."—Adv.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Lovers of good music should not fail to visit the Merrimack Square theatre this week. The feature number, given by Pierce and Roslyn, operatic troubadours, is the highest-class musical act seen on a local stage in seasons. Both are excellent singers and their offering gives both ample opportunity to display their wonderful skill. Miss Roslyn is a soprano of reputation and her songs include some of the classics from the best masters of the world, while Mr. Pierce possesses a sweet, baritone voice of considerable range and volume. Their program is most entertaining, one that should meet with the approval of all. It has in all of the western cities where they have appeared and surely should delight local audiences, for Lowell theatre-goers are noted for their appreciation of good music. This pair will appear

HATHAWAY THEATRE

This week will give the theatre-goers of Lowell a final opportunity to see the Donald Meek stock company until next fall, as the company closes with the week and is presenting as a closing attraction, that uproariously funny and high class comedy, "The Bachelor's Honeymoon," one of the great laughing hits of the past season, with Donald Meek and Severin DeDeyn in particularly attractive roles. The play tells the story of a young old man named Bachelor who is the father of twin daughters of the susceptible age and the brother of an exasperated sister who handles the family fortune. In the absence of the sister and daughters from home, the "Bachelor" marries an actress to whom he represents himself as a bachelor and takes her to his home for their honeymoon in the absence of the others who suddenly return unexpectedly to find a strange woman presented as the new housekeeper in the house. The attempts of the head of the house to hide the identity of his wife and the suspicions of the other women cause innumerable ridiculous complications which keep the audience in roars. The play abounds in funny situations and bright dialogue but is absolutely free from coarseness or vulgarity. It is beautifully staged and elaborately costumed. It will be given twice daily all week. Beginning May 21st, Donald Meek returns to the John Craig stock company at the Castle Square theatre, Boston, where he will appear as "Kid Burns" in Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway.—Adv.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC

The vaudeville features for Monday include Valerino and Lapore, European comedy acrobats, Dainty Diane, dainty singing and dancing comedienne and Mullen, Bartlett & Co., in the screamingly funny farce entitled "The Janitor." Three reels of the latest motion pictures will be shown.—Adv.

STABBED TO DEATH

Body of Man Was Found in Front of His Home

Alleged Murder Occurred at a Drinking Party at Chrisholm, Me.—It is Thought That Three Men Were Involved—Man was Stabbed in the Neck and the Right Side

LIVERMORE FALLS, Me., May 8.—Stabbed to death by one or more fellow-countrymen, according to the opinion of town officials, was the fate which befell Domenico Ventrelli, whose body was found early today in front of his home on Church street at Chrisholm. Broken glasses, an empty beer keg, smashed furniture and bloodstains all over a room in the house furnished evidence of the scene of the crime and that there had been drinking. Officials learned that three men thought to have been concerned in the affair, especially as Ventrelli had been accused of paying unwelcome attentions to the wife of one of them, had left town during the night.

WM. N. OSGOOD

Addressed the Boston Central Labor Union

Hon. William N. Osgood was the educational hour speaker at yesterday's meeting of the Boston Central labor union, speaking on "Scientific management and scientific co-operation." In the scientific management of industry, Mr. Osgood indicated as a first step the squashing of the "water out of capitalism" as a means of stopping one great item of waste.

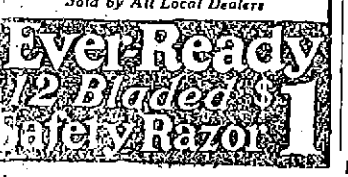

WILLIAM N. OSGOOD.

On railroads alone, he computed from the railroad manual, the people of the United States paid about $1,000,000 a day in dividends or interest more than they ought to pay. This, he argued, was sheer waste, looked at from a national standpoint, though it was obviously regarded as a cherished privilege by those who received the money. Added to the above sum, he indicated other sums running into the millions of inflated capital in industrial trusts and public monopolies exploited by private corporations. These sums were characterized as a perfectly needless waste of effort, entailing, as it was held to do, added labor and energy by the mass of people to keep up the flow of dividends and interest on capital that represented no original contribution to the public weal.

captains do not appear to be philanthropists, but cold, calculating men, impelled by bloodless science. We are reminded that science has no innate need of a heart and a circulatory system, and that it may pertain to the stars or the insensible rocks.

The systems which our imaginary group may evolve may be mathematically correct and unassailable as a system if it were to be applied to machines and inanimate things. But this would be a science of management is also to be applied to living men, women and children.

How to control and manage employees without arousing their suspicions of additional burdens, and new exploitation seems to disturb the slumbers of some directors of modern industry and to excite their powers of invention. Their engineers advise them to go slowly, to use great tact and diplomacy and to convert one employee at a time to divide and then conquer.

"Scientific management will surely tend still more to destroy personal contact between employer and employee, already too nearly destroyed. It should not be narrowly applied. To be of great value it must embrace not only the improved welfare of labor and capital devoted to a single industry, but also the improved welfare of all labor and all capital devoted to all industry."

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE QUARTER OF A CENTURY CLUB

The annual meeting of the Quarter of a Century club of the J. C. Ayer Co., was held at the clubroom Friday night and the reports of the various officers were read and accepted.

The secretary's report showed a loss of one member during the year, Mr. Thomas Wood, who at the time of his death was the oldest member of the club. The treasurer's report showed a comfortable balance in the bank.

Through the courtesy of the treasurer of the J. C. Ayer Co., the club celebrated the birthday of Dr. J. C. Ayer, by an outing in Boston, attending in the afternoon, the production of "La Boheme" in the opera house, and in the early evening enjoying a dinner in the new Venetian room of the American house. Most of the members returned by train at an early hour.

The membership of the club at this time is David Dewar, president; Cornelius P. Calnan, vice president; J. A. Butler, secretary; John Buckley, treasurer. C. Oliver Barnes is now the oldest employee of the J. C. Ayer Co. in point of service. The other members are John A. Henderson, Arthur Best, Albert L. Lombard, Harry Bellamy, John McPherson, William Sawyer and Miss Harriette Mahoney.

EXPERTS SAY BURNS WILL MAKE WOLGAST SHOW TRUE FORM

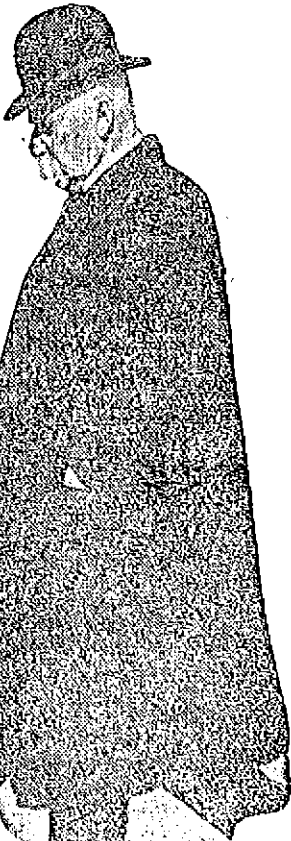

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—Many fight critics predict that Ad Wolgast, the lightweight champion, will more than have his hands full when he meets Frankie Burns, the local boy, here May 20. The latter is in great shape for the battle. Experts who have visited him at the training camp say he has improved wonderfully in the last few weeks and will make the champion go some to win out. Burns has a decision over "One Round" Hogan to his credit. Within the last few months he has defeated every lightweight of note here. Wolgast's admirers say the little holder will add another K. O. to his list. The length of the contest is twenty rounds.

SEN. GALLINGER

New President of the Senate

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Senator Jacob Harold Gallinger of New Hampshire, who will be chosen president pro tempore of the upper house to succeed Senator Frye of Maine, occupant of that post for many years, was born on a farm in Cornwall, Ont., on March 23, 1837. He was one of twelve children and received a common school and academic education. First he was a printer and then became a physician, graduating in 1858. He followed his profession until he entered congress. He made the speech nominating Benjamin Harrison for president in 1888. Mr. Gallinger was a member of the house of representatives of New Hampshire in 1872, 1873 and 1891; member of the state senate in 1875, 1879 and 1880. He was surgeon-general of New Hampshire, holding the

BRYAN COLEMAN

Led in Les Miserables League

Les Miserables league came to a close last week and the Brownies by consistent work have succeeded in winning the championship. It was expected that the Hustlers would put up a strong fight for first place, but they were unable to hold the pace set by Les Miserables.

Bryan Coleman of the Hustlers was high man, being the only member of the league to have an average of over 100.

The Brownies won first place in points, prize value $15, with the Hustlers second in points, prize value $12.

BRYAN COLEMAN.

The Brownies won first team three string total of 1480, prize value $6. The Hustlers second team single string of 113, prize value $2. Jolly Five won the second team three string total of 1454, prize value $3. The Jolly Five won the first team single string of 511, prize value of $5. In the individual rolling J. Martin of the Brownies won the first prize for the highest three string total, 342, prize value $3. B. Martin of the Brownies second three string total 352, prize value $2; Longley of the Jolly Five won the first single string of 130, prize value $2.

Kempson won the second single string of 123, prize value $1. Of the individual averages Coleman of the Hustlers rolled 35 strings with an average of 104.25, prize value $5. Gillingham of the Brownies rolled 24 strings with an average of 95.22, second, prize value $3.

House and Barn in No. Billerica Destroyed by Fire

A threatening fire broke out in North Billerica, Saturday night, and destroyed the house and barn of Mrs. Angelina Litchfield on the Allen road.

The alarm was given and the local company, under Chief Ernest Bartlett, made a quick run to the scene, which is about a mile and a half from the fire station. When the firemen arrived they saw at once that the buildings could not be saved and they directed their efforts to the houses nearby. The barn owned by Arthur T. Barsley and a henhouse of Daniel Donohue were ignited by sparks from the Litchfield blaze, but the firemen extinguished them before any damage was done. A grass fire was also started at Fox hill, from the flying sparks but was quickly put out. The Litchfield property was razed to the ground. It consisted of a one and half story house with a large barn. Part of the furniture was saved, but the greater quantity was burned, as well as many other household articles of value.

The wind was blowing in the direction of the buildings that were ignited and but for the good work of the firemen the fire would have spread, and the damage would have been great. As it was the loss reached $3000, which is said to be partly covered by insurance.

MURDER CHARGE

Shooting Followed a Fist Fight on Board the Nebraska

BOSTON, May 8.—An early morning fist fight on the berth deck of the battleship Nebraska at the Charlestown navy yard today between Alexander Allen and James Beeks, two colored men, was followed an hour later by a shooting affair in which Allen was killed. Beeks was locked up on a charge of murder.

The officers of the Nebraska stated after the shooting that the two men had quarreled frequently for some months, but had always settled their difficulties with their fists. Sometimes Beeks, who was the larger of the two, came off the victor, while on other occasions Allen, by reason of his quickness, managed to floor his antagonist.

Both rolled out of their hammocks at cock crow this morning and were soon battling, hammer and tongs. This time Beeks was badly punished. Another hour later a shot was heard, followed by four more, and those on the berth deck who saw the shooting say that Beeks fired one shot that sent Allen to his knees and followed it by four more to the chest which killed the little colored man. Beeks ran up on the main deck and surrendered himself to the officer in charge. He was at once locked up in the brig.

No one was allowed to leave the ship for the next three hours while an inquest was held and a report sent to the secretary of the navy.

The Nebraska sails on Thursday for the spring practice and Beeks will be turned over to the federal authorities in this city.

SEARCH IN VAIN

No Trace of Newton Woman and Children

BOSTON, May 8.—Up to an early hour this morning the Newton police had not received word nor trace of Mrs. Margaret McKenna, who left her home at 23 Keefe street, Newton Upper Falls, early Friday afternoon, accompanied by her two small children, and has not since been seen by those who know her.

It is believed that family troubles caused the mother to go away. It has been thought that she may have gone to the home of an aunt in Norwood, but the husband does not know the aunt's name, and so far, the Norwood police have been unable to locate any such relative. Mrs. McKenna also has a sister in Yonkers, N. Y., and the Yonkers police have been asked to inquire if the woman is there.

Early yesterday morning a woman called the Newton police by telephone and said she saw a woman answering Mrs. McKenna's description and accompanied by two small children leave a train at the Chestnut Hill station late Friday afternoon. The police attempted to follow up the clue, but could get no trace of the woman.

JAKE CAME BACK

Boultes' Playing Electrified His Most Severe Critics

Thirty-five hundred people saw Jake Boultes come back strong on Saturday and silence all his critics.

In the crowd were many who hadn't seen a game before and who took their dope from their friends, hence when Jake appeared on the greensward to play third they yelled, "Aw, get a third baseman. Wake up, Jake. 'The tin can for you,' and kindred remarks which combine to do anything but make a fellow go good. But Jake closed his ears to the cry of the rabble and made up his mind to show them some class, which he did. Four times up, four runs, four hits with a total of six. He had only one fielding chance and he accepted it. Before the game was over everybody was rooting wildly for this same Jake who has been accepting abuse daily since the season opened. Stick to it, Jake, old boy. Even Long John now believes there's some good in you.

Wolfgang was on the slab for Lowell and for six innings was invincible, striking them out, two and three at a click. When Lowell got a corker, Scott hit it up and gave them a few hits. It was right there with all kinds of goods throughout. The whole Lowell team was on its mettle and fielded like a charm along with getting 14 hits off Nuke Abbott and a new pitcher named Scott who is said to be a corker.

The only disappointing feature of the game was the non-appearance of the regular umpire, Swornsted, and Spring did the work in his place and while they umpired faultlessly the crowd would rather see a regular umpire doing the job.

First Inning
Neither side scored in the first inning. Cargo was the first man up and he hit to Boultes and was out at first. Wolfgang fanned Strands and Wallace and in the latter half of the first inning Moulton struck out. Barrows flied to Wallace and Cooney hit to Strands and was out at first.

Second Inning
In the second inning Callahan flied to Barrows. McGovern, with a game leg, limped to the plate and sent the ball to left center field for a single. He was allowed a base runner, but Logan flied to Moulton and Egan flied to Wright.

The Lowell batters found the ball in the latter half of the second inning and after ten batters had approached the plate and the third man was declared out Lowell scored four runs. "Nuke" Abbott was pounded hard and after several runs had been scored was relegated to the bench and Scott was placed on the slab. Nuke was the first man up and he hammered the ball over Egan's head for three bases. Fluharty bunted along the first base line and was out but Marge was held on third by the catcher. Marge scored on Wright's single to left field. Boultes singled over second base and Wright called for home. Moulton flied to left field for two bases and Wright and Boultes scored, but owing to the ground rules the latter was sent back to third base.

At this point Abbott was taken out of the box and Scott substituted. Scott could not find the plate and Wolfgang walked and filled the bases. Moulton forced in Boultes and then Barrows flied to Wallace and Huston scored on the put out. Cooney was hit by a pitched ball and went to first. Once more the bases were filled and Marge put in his second appearance at the bat during the inning but he hit to Logan and died at first.

Third Inning
Lowell indulged in another carnival of batting in the third inning and succeeded in batting out five more runs. Baum hit to Barrows. Scott drew a base on balls but Cargo hit to Cooney who got Scott at second and sent the ball to first for a double play on Cargo.

In the latter half of the third inning Fluharty hit to Cargo and the latter threw bad with the result that Fluharty went to second. Wright fanned the breeze and Boultes and Fluharty worked the hit and run play. Boultes hitting to right field and Fluharty's swinging singled to right field and when Wolfgang drew a free pass the bases were filled Moulton hit to left field for three bases and Boultes, Huston and Wolfgang scored. Barrows struck out, but Cooney singled to

Lowell Outfielder Leads League in Batting

Jimmie Magee Heads List of Run-Getters, With Moulton in Second Place—Wallace of Lynn Leads for Stolen Bases

Scott Fluharty, the young man from Panama who plays regularly for Lowell, leads the New England league in batting with an average of .464. There are some players with better averages but all of those who have taken part in at least four games, the Lowell swatter is the leader. Jesse Burkett, champion last year, is a good second and Hake of the same team is third, tied with Smith of Lynn. Joe Briggs of Lawrence is entitled to some consideration as the league leader, as he has an average of .390 and has played in every game, three more than Fluharty.

Brookton has the best showing of any team among the twenty-five leaders. Captain Connaughton having seven of the twenty-five. Worcester has five. Lynn four, Lowell and New Bedford three each. Lawrence two and Fall River one. Haverhill cannot produce one man in the first twenty-five. There are more than thirty men clouting the ball for .300 or better.

Marge, another Lowell man from Panama, leads the league in runs scored with 16, closely followed by his teammate, Moulton, with 14. Carlstrom of Lawrence is third with 12.

Wallace of Lynn leads in stolen bases with eight. Phoenix of Lawrence being second with seven and Devine of Fall River third with six.

Hase of Worcester leads in sacrifice hits with five, several trailing along with three and four each. Brookton has the call on pitchers. Ward and Weaver having won six games between them. Wolfgang of this city has also done good work.

The averages of the twenty-five leading batters and ten leading pitchers, including Saturday's games, are as follows:

DIAMOND NOTES

Fall River today and tomorrow; Haverhill, Thursday, and Lawrence, Friday. Four home games this week.

"Little Jaw" and "Little Tommy" Devine are with the Fall River team which means a scrappy game.

Maybe Jake Boultes didn't show up his critics, Saturday. Four times up, four hits with a total of six and four runs. The bunch that yelled loudest for his release were his most enthusiastic supporters on Saturday.

Wolfgang pitched a beautiful game even if they did hit him hard at the finish.

"Nuke" Abbott is slower than ever.

Tom Logan got the first consignment of "Bull Durham" for a home run on the local grounds.

Old Boy Terry McGovern has his batting eye with him. Terry recently injured the ligaments of his leg and played Saturday's game under difficulties.

Come on with an umpire Jake, Stafford preferred.

While Swornsted and Spring umpired a faultless game, the crowd still would rather have a regular umpire.

Cooney, Moulton and Wright pulled off a clever double play while Moulton was full of ginger on second.

The attendance at Saturday's game shows that they will support a winning team. The fans like plenty of batting and the Lowell team this season is batting most satisfactorily.

Frank Leonard looked as natural as life on the gate.

Several auto accidents came up from Lynn but they had little opportunity to root.

DIAMOND NOTES

Fall River today and tomorrow; Haverhill, Thursday, and Lawrence, Friday. Four home games this week.

"Little Jaw" and "Little Tommy" Devine are with the Fall River team which means a scrappy game.

Maybe Jake Boultes didn't show up his critics, Saturday. Four times up, four hits with a total of six and four runs. The bunch that yelled loudest for his release were his most enthusiastic supporters on Saturday.

Wolfgang pitched a beautiful game even if they did hit him hard at the finish.

"Nuke" Abbott is slower than ever.

Tom Logan got the first consignment of "Bull Durham" for a home run on the local grounds.

Old Boy Terry McGovern has his batting eye with him. Terry recently injured the ligaments of his leg and played Saturday's game under difficulties.

Come on with an umpire Jake, Stafford preferred.

While Swornsted and Spring umpired a faultless game, the crowd still would rather have a regular umpire.

Cooney, Moulton and Wright pulled off a clever double play while Moulton was full of ginger on second.

The attendance at Saturday's game shows that they will support a winning team. The fans like plenty of batting and the Lowell team this season is batting most satisfactorily.

Frank Leonard looked as natural as life on the gate.

Several auto accidents came up from Lynn but they had little opportunity to root.

Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilote, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 2, 1911. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

The demand of the hour is for more small playgrounds and the improvement of the large ones.

There is still as much need as ever for that ball ground on the east side of Fort Hill park. The ball ground on Shedd park is still far in the future.

DEFENDING THE SHOE MACHINERY LEASE

Congressman Weeks, in speaking against the removal of the tariff on shoes, defended the United Shoe Machinery leases while at the same time pleading that the export of American shoes has decreased, a fact due to the use of the machinery leased by this very company in England. The same company is teaching the Japanese and the Chinese how to use its machines in competition with the United States in the manufacture of shoes. We do not think Mr. Weeks' address had the merit of consistency.

NO PARTITIONING OF THE SOUTH COMMON

Neither the park board nor the city council has any right to set apart any portion of the South common for the special use of the militia as a drilling ground. If the companies wish to use the common for drilling purposes, same as do the high school boys, they are welcome to do so, and they will be amply protected from interference by the police if necessary. Judge Pickman of the park board has under consideration the legal authority of the board in this matter, but it will not take the judge long to decide that the board has no right to cut off a portion of any of our public parks to be used as a drilling ground for the militia. If the board gets a piece of land for that purpose and lays it out specially for drilling purposes, we do not believe there will be any serious objection to its exclusive use by the militia.

The South common, however, is a public park, to be used for the benefit of the people at all times except where the legislature has made certain concessions to the board in connection with holidays or big celebrations.

THE CONTAGIOUS HOSPITAL

In order to give the readers of The Sun a clear idea of the merits of this controversy over the location of the contagious hospital, we present today a diagram drawn to scale and showing the exact location of the proposed hospital in its relation to Chelmsford street and the present Chelmsford street hospital. We believe it would be a grave mistake to locate a contagious hospital so close to the street and so close to a large pauper institution occupied by hundreds of people in feeble health. The matter of constructing a sewer about 1000 feet in length seems to be one of the deciding arguments in favor of the site selected. That sewer will have to be constructed anyhow in the near future, and it should not enter into the consideration at all. With a good site elsewhere available there is no need of crowding a new hospital between the street and the old, and so near the car line that passengers may be deterred from riding past with children lest they should catch some of the contagious diseases treated there. The location of the hospital where proposed would also link it too closely with the pauper institution, a fact that might seriously impair its usefulness.

CARNEGIE AND THE PEACE MOVEMENT

Twenty-one American republics joined in paying tribute to Andrew Carnegie as the "Benefactor of Humanity" the other day. Mr. Carnegie has done much to bring about a better understanding among these republics and to induce them to live in peace and mutual good will. There are many republics in that number that do not amount to much, many, too, that have hitherto paid little heed to the movement for universal peace. The Pan-American union, however, is likely to operate strongly in the future in favor of maintaining the Monroe Doctrine, so that the burden will not rest entirely as it has done upon the United States.

The movement for universal peace is beginning to be seriously considered by the great military powers, such as England and Germany. The rivalry between these two countries is the greatest obstacle to the peace movement. England is willing and in fact anxious to see the movement taken up by the great powers, and in all probability the time will come when a majority of the powers will agree to enter a peace compact and to compel all the other powers to submit to its provisions. There will always be some ambitious ruler unready to enter such an agreement. The world cannot wait for such stumbling blocks. They should be overruled by the majority in favor of a peace compact that will make it compulsory in all civilized states to submit their disputes to The Hague tribunal where otherwise they would resort to the deadly arbitrament of war.

The peace congress just held at Washington was a notable event, judged from the utterances of President Taft, Cardinal Gibbons and Andrew Carnegie. There have been many gatherings of this kind, but never before one at which the speakers seemed so hopeful and enthusiastic. The address of Cardinal Gibbons was a most eloquent plea for universal peace as may be judged from this single paragraph:

"When the waters receded from the earth after the deluge, Almighty God made a solemn covenant with Noah and his posterity that the earth would never again be destroyed by water, and as a sign of this covenant He placed a bow in the heavens. Let Britannia and Columbia join hands across the Atlantic and their outstretched arms will form a sacred arch of peace, a rainbow which will excite the admiration of the nations and will proclaim to the world that with God's help the earth shall never more be deluged with bloodshed in fratricidal war."

One of the strongest peace arguments put forward at any meeting was that which exploded the false assumption that no nation could submit to arbitration any question involving its honor without losing its sovereignty. This was pronounced a gross fallacy, both by President Taft and Andrew Carnegie, the latter showing that sovereignty meant power over all to dispose of any question at will and with supreme authority. Heretofore this contention which some attribute to Roosevelt has been one of the stock arguments of those who opposed the peace movement. It has been completely refuted by eminent authorities.

SEEN AND HEARD

A moving picture of a family moving from one flat to another because the landlord wouldn't paper the dining-room again might deter other families from moving.

There is a good deal of talk about abolishing the fly, but perhaps you have noticed that the man who makes window screens doesn't seem to be at all concerned about the future of his business.

Here's another summer coming, and the automobile lawn mower hasn't been invented yet!

No matter what a little mite a baby is, no name seems too grand for him, to the mother's mind.

The man who can build a hen-coop without getting bruises on his hands must have had manual training when he went to school.

If you did a foolish thing once, there is always somebody who is willing to remind you of it.

What is the moral of this story? A small boy in a town cut west stole a newspaper that the carrier had just left at a citizen's front door. As he ran across a railroad track directly afterward he caught his foot in a frog, and was held fast, in front of an approaching train. By waving the newspaper that he had stolen, he attracted the attention of the engineer in time to save his life.

SPRING FEVER

When birds awake at half-past three instead of half-past five, The way they did a week or so ago— You're either sorry you ain't dead, or glad that you're alive And either way, you've got it, when the buds begin to show, And the winds begin to blow.

Then poetry will thrill you to your very finger tips, Or drowsiness will keep you in the hay, The perfume fills your nostrils and the violets brush your lips— Or you fall for chills and fevers, influenza, colds and pips.

When the glamour of the springtime comes a-lodging down this way, As it loomed along, today! It stole into my window, at the very peep of dawn, Ere the dream I had of summer was forgot.

At its touch upon my eyelids, all my sorrowing was gone— But so was all ambition to get up and clean the lawn.

Can I write a vernal idyll, now the weather's got so hot? Well, I rather think I'll not!— Ted Robinson in Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SPRING FEVER

The days are growing warmer now, We feel the breath of spring. If we're attentive, pretty soon We'll hear the bluebirds sing. The swelling pussy willows all Are fuzzy, fat and big, And as of yore, man simply yearns To get out doors and dig.

How strange, with each recurrent year, The call back to the soil! The pleasure 's so inviting that You forget the toll. When though the neighbors poke their fun You do not care a fig! When springtime comes, you always want To get out doors and dig.

Well, don't resist! Hunt up the hoe! The spade, the rake, the fork, Get all the seeds you fancy from Those fellows in New York. If any one turns up his nose, Why, let him be a prig! But you, put on your garden clothes, And get out doors and dig!—Somerville Journal.

HOW TO GET RID OF PIMPLES

It is truly remarkable how Cadum, the new remedy, causes pimples to disappear. Bad cases are frequently helped in a week, and sometimes even sooner. Cadum causes pimples to dry up and fall off, leaving the skin as soft and smooth as a baby's. Pimples are a disease of the skin and are not caused by bad blood, as many people suppose. Cadum helps these annoying and disfiguring facial blemishes because it can be applied direct to the trouble, and its soothing, antiseptic and healing powers stop the itching at once. Cadum is equally good for rash, blotches, scaly skin, chafings, eczema, sores, eruptions, acne, psoriasis, etc. 10c and 25c per box at all druggists.

WORCESTER, MASSACHUSETTS, WAS ISSUED

today by Census Director Durand. It contains a summary comparing the figures for 1904 and 1909, by city totals, prepared under the direction of Mr. William M. Stewart, chief statistician for manufactures, bureau of the census. The figures are preliminary and subject to such revision as may be necessary after a further examination of the original reports.

The summary shows an increase in every item. There was a 53 per cent increase in the cost of materials used; 56 per cent in the number of salaried officials and clerks; 48 per cent in the value of products; 42 per cent in the miscellaneous expenses; 37 per cent in the salaries and wages; 37 per cent in the value added by manufacture; 33 per cent in the capital invested; 24 per cent in the average number of wage-earners employed during the year; and 23 per cent in the number of establishments.

There were 580 establishments in 1909, as compared with 470 in 1904; an increase of 110, or 23 per cent.

The value of products was $77,148,000 in 1909, and $52,145,000 in 1904; an increase of $25,003,000, or 48 per cent. The average per establishment was approximately $133,000 in 1909, and about $111,000 in 1904.

The value of products represents their selling value or price at the factories as actually turned out by the factories during the census year, and does not necessarily have any relation to the amount of sales for that year. The values under this head also include the amount received for work done on materials furnished by others.

The preliminary totals for steam horsepower for Worcester, Massachusetts, in 1909, are given separately, as follows: Number of establishments, 13; capital, $174,000; cost of materials used, $60,000; salaries and wages, $165,000; miscellaneous expenses, $55,000; value of products, $16,000; number of salaried officials and clerks, 20; and average number of wage-earners employed during the year, 357.

BIG INCREASE

MADE IN THE EXPORTS OF MANUFACTURES

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Exports of manufactures in March were at the rate of more than one billion dollars a year. The actual figures of the month are: Manufactures ready for consumption, $57,499,203; manufactures for further use in manufacturing, $27,345,615; total, $84,844,818, this figure being at the rate of more than one billion dollars for a 12-month period. The share which manufactures formed of the total exports of domestic merchandise during the month was 38.24 per cent. Manufactures ready for consumption, 38.24 per cent. Manufactures for further use in manufacturing, 17.23 per cent. The two groups of manufactures forming 55.47 per cent of the total exports of the month. One year ago the March exports of manufactures were $74,000,000 in value, and those of manufactures for further use in manufacturing, 22.4 million, the two groups forming a fraction less than 50 per cent of the total exports of domestic merchandise. Thus the exports of manufactures as a whole in March, 1911, exceeded by more than 15 million dollars those of March, 1910. For the 9 months ending with March, 1911, the exports of manufactures amount to 460.5 million dollars, exceeding by 69.5 million, the figures for the corresponding period of the last year; while manufactures for further use in manufacturing exported during the 9 months of the present fiscal year aggregated 225.1 million dollars and exceeded by more than 25 million, the figures for the corresponding months of the preceding year. Should the exports of the fiscal year be at approximately the same rate as those of March, the total exports of manufactures, including those ready for consumption and those for further use in manufacturing, would exceed 685 million dollars in the fiscal year.

Considering the Merch exports by principal articles, those showing the largest growth when compared with March exports a year earlier are: Iron and steel, and manufactures thereof, 5.1-3 million dollars increase; copper pigs, bars, and ingots, an increase of nearly 2 million dollars; agricultural implements, over 1 million dollars; cotton manufactures, 1.1 million dollars; refined mineral oils, nearly 1 million dollars; vegetable oils (chiefly of cotton-seed), three-quarters of a million dollars; cars and carriages, including automobiles, 1.4 million dollars; chemicals, drugs and medicines, a half million dollars; and photographic goods, an increase of nearly a half million dollars. Exceptions to the general rule of greatly increased exports during March include boards, deals and planks, in which the increase was but about $100,000 over the 3.4 million dollars worth exported in March, 1910; and leather and manufactures thereof, which decreased from $3,130,399 in March, 1910, to $4,955,027 in March of the present year.

Many less important articles also show increased exports in March when compared with the corresponding month a year earlier. Among these are aluminum manufactures, paintings and statuary, brass manufactures, brooms and brushes, celluloid, cement, clocks and watches, dental goods, earthen, stone, and chinaware, furs, glass and glassware, manufactures of India rubber, scientific instruments, jewelry, lamps, and chandeliers, paper and manufactures thereof, perfumeries, silk manufactures, and starch. In most of these, increases also occurred in the nine-months ending with March when compared with the exports during the corresponding period of 1910.

A study of the distribution of the exports of manufactures shows that in some instances the growth was confined to a few countries only, while in other cases it extended to practically every section of the commercial world.

Of the exports of agricultural implements, for example, aggregating 5 million in March, nearly 1.4 million went to Russia in Europe, three-quarters of a million to Canada, and a half million to France, and about one-third million to Argentina; while Oceania and Africa are also markets for a considerable share. The exports of automobiles, valued at 1.2-3 million dollars during March, went chiefly to Canada, three-quarters of a million dollars, and the United Kingdom, one-third million, no other single country showing as much as $100,000 worth during the month. Copper pigs, ingots, and bars, exported from the United States are marketed almost exclusively in Europe, the 7 million dollars' worth exported in March having gone to Netherlands and Germany, each about 2 million dollars' worth; the United Kingdom, 1 million; France, three-quarters of a million; Italy, nearly a half million, and other European, two-thirds of a million dollars, but 100 thousand dollars' worth going to all other countries, chiefly Canada. Cotton cloths, on the other hand, make but little headway in European markets, but go chiefly to China, the Philippines and other oriental countries, South America, and the West Indies and Bermuda. Iron and steel manufactures are widely distributed, certain grades being sent to the United Kingdom, Germany, France, and other industrial communities, and numerous other manufactures to practically every section of the world. The United Kingdom buys over half the total of upper leather exported from the United States, while the exported boots and shoes go mostly to Cuba, Canada, Mexico, and but about 25 per cent of the total to the United Kingdom and other European countries. American illuminating oil is consumed in every part of the world, Great Britain, Germany, the Chinese Empire, and India, being especially large markets, though large amounts go also to practically all the important countries and sections.

million dollars; cars and carriages, including automobiles, 1.4 million dollars; chemicals, drugs and medicines, a half million dollars; and photographic goods, an increase of nearly a half million dollars. Exceptions to the general rule of greatly increased exports during March include boards, deals and planks, in which the increase was but about $100,000 over the 3.4 million dollars' worth exported in March, 1910; and leather and manufactures thereof, which decreased from $3,130,399 in March, 1910, to $4,955,027 in March of the present year.

Among these are aluminum manufactures, paintings and statuary, brass manufactures, brooms and brushes, celluloid, cement, clocks and watches, dental goods, earthen, stone, and chinaware, furs, glass and glassware, manufactures of India rubber, scientific instruments, jewelry, lamps, and chandeliers, paper and manufactures thereof, perfumeries, silk manufactures, and starch. In most of these, increases also occurred in the nine-months ending with March when compared with the exports during the corresponding period of 1910.

A study of the distribution of the exports of manufactures shows that in some instances the growth was confined to a few countries only, while in other cases it extended to practically every section of the commercial world.

Of the exports of agricultural implements, for example, aggregating 5 million in March, nearly 1.4 million went to Russia in Europe, three-quarters of a million to Canada, and a half million to France, and about one-third million to Argentina; while Oceania and Africa are also markets for a considerable share. The exports of automobiles, valued at 1.2-3 million dollars during March, went chiefly to Canada, three-quarters of a million dollars, and the United Kingdom, one-third million, no other single country showing as much as $100,000 worth during the month. Copper pigs, ingots, and bars, exported from the United States are marketed almost exclusively in Europe, the 7 million dollars' worth exported in March having gone to Netherlands and Germany, each about 2 million dollars' worth; the United Kingdom, 1 million; France, three-quarters of a million; Italy, nearly a half million, and other European, two-thirds of a million dollars, but 100 thousand dollars' worth going to all other countries, chiefly Canada. Cotton cloths, on the other hand, make but little headway in European markets, but go chiefly to China, the Philippines and other oriental countries, South America, and the West Indies and Bermuda. Iron and steel manufactures are widely distributed, certain grades being sent to the United Kingdom, Germany, France, and other industrial communities, and numerous other manufactures to practically every section of the world. The United Kingdom buys over half the total of upper leather exported from the United States, while the exported boots and shoes go mostly to Cuba, Canada, Mexico, and but about 25 per cent of the total to the United Kingdom and other European countries. American illuminating oil is consumed in every part of the world, Great Britain, Germany, the Chinese Empire, and India, being especially large markets, though large amounts go also to practically all the important countries and sections.

Bangor Given Another Fire Scare

BANGOR, Me., May 8.—Bangor had another fire scare yesterday afternoon when, at about the same time the conflagration started last Sunday, two alarms came in from the lower section of the city and clouds of black smoke sent thousands of people down the Hampden road. The blaze was in a long line of lumber piles at the Sterns lumber company's mills in East Hampden about two miles below the city. The direction of the shift wind was fortunately away from the main plant otherwise a half-million dollar loss might have been added to the state fire loss for 1911. Bangor firemen, assisted by many citizens, fought several hours to save the mill and a valuable pine grove. A number of summer cottages, the American Icehouse and other buildings were in the path of the flames, while the mills and buildings on the Brewer side of the river were in danger from flying sparks. The fire was confined to the piles of lumber, which were mostly dry spruce and pine boards. The loss is estimated at $25,000. Insured.

ST. ANTHONY'S

ANNUAL REUNION OF PARISH OPENED WITH CONCERT

The annual reunion of St. Anthony's parish opened last evening in Lincoln hall with a sacred concert and will continue three nights this week.

There was a large attendance of parishioners and friends of the parish, and the concert was excellent. It was as follows: Piano solo, Arthur Martel, trilo, "Miserere" from "Il Trovatore," William Gookin, John J. Dalton and Edward E. Shea; solo, Miss Katherine Mullin; solo, "Ah, So Fair," from "Artha," Mr. Dalt; vocal, Mrs. Green; solo, selected, Mr. Shea; piano medley, Mr. Martel; solo, Mr. Gookin, and trilo, selected, Messrs. Gookin, Dalton and Shea.

On Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evenings the reunion will be continued in old St. Anthony's church, Gorham street.

MATHEW NEWS

A largely attended and very interesting meeting of the MatheW Temperance Institute was held yesterday morning in the rooms of the Institute in Dutton street. President James J. Gallagher presided. Many matters of interest pertaining to the welfare of the society were acted upon. The Easter Monday ball committee will meet this evening and approve bills that have been contracted in the running of that social event a few weeks ago.

The minstrel committee met after the regular session of the society and went through a large list of business. The rehearsal for this affair will be held tomorrow evening. Inasmuch as the show is only three weeks away, the rehearsals will now be held continuously from now on till Friday, May 25.

THOMAS CAR IN LOWELL

In Europe, according to show reports, the long-stroke, large-valve, six-cylinder motor has revolutionized automobile construction. In this country, the leading manufacturers of high-grade cars are adopting this type motor. One of the first American cars of this design is the Thomas 6-40, which is now in its third year, and will be standardized and perpetuated by this company.

One of these cars is now on route visiting twenty-five New England towns, after having covered about 6,000 miles, which includes Lawrence, Mass., Haverhill, Mass., Dover, N. H., Concord, N. H., Franklin, N. H., Manchester, N. H., Nashua, N. H., Marlboro, Mass., Ware, Mass., Springfield, Mass., Holyoke, Mass., Westfield, Mass., No. Adams, Mass., and Northampton. Many automobile enthusiasts in Brockton, Taunton, Fall River, New Bedford and Plymouth, Mass., who have been visited, expressed themselves as highly pleased with the performance of this automobile which will be in this city Monday and Tuesday, May 8th and 9th, at which time the Thomas representative, Mr. C. F. Walker, with headquarters at the Worcester hotel, will be ready to give (the public an opportunity to inspect this machine which has a wonderful record for giving satisfaction, not one car of this model, it is said, having been offered for sale by a New England owner.

This automobile brings to notice the police patrol recently purchased by this city, which was manufactured by the same company and which has proven its efficiency and reliability.

An Old Fashioned Remedy It is a satisfaction in these days when there is so much restless striving after things just because they are new, to find an old-fashioned thing that people stick to. "Stick to it, because it's good and they know it's good, and know of nothing else that will accomplish the same result. We mean Tolleine. Twenty years ago this remedy was recognized as probably the most effective healing compound ever discovered. It was introduced through a house to house canvass by Mr. B. F. Miner of Greenfield, Mass. The merit of Tolleine was so apparent in the immediate relief it afforded in cases of inflammation, both internal and external, such as coughs, colds and all throat troubles, cuts, burns, bruises and sores that the sale of Tolleine spread rapidly all over New England. And we believe we are safe in saying that today there is no household remedy of any description that has more ardent, long standing and steadfast supporters than Tolleine.

MEMORIAL SERVICES COAL LAND CLAIMS

Were Held by Lowell Aerie, Order Hearing of Case May be Brought to a Close Tomorrow

of Eagles

The annual memorial service of Lowell aerie, No. 232, Fraternal Order of Eagles, was held last night in the hall. There was a large attendance including members of the order and their friends and also relatives of deceased members. Five members of the order died during the year and tender tribute was paid each by Alderman James J. Gallagher who was the orator of the day. The program was both appropriate and impressive.

The interior of the hall was decorated in an appropriate manner. The stage was clothed in black while in the background were five vacant chairs electrically illuminated. On each side of the five chairs was the organization emblem illuminated by electricity.

The following musical program was carried out:

Funeral March ..... Chopin
"God Will It" ..... Gounod
Eagles' Orchestra
Quartet, "There is a Land," ..... Crowninshield

Address, Patrick McCann, worthy president.
Solo, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," ..... McDougall

Mr. Harry Hopkins
Prayer, Thomas H. Corcoran, chaplain.

Miss May E. Whiteley
Address, John H. Farrell, past worthy president.
Solo, "Angels Land," ..... Pensuto

Mrs. F. L. Roberts
Roll Call, John M. Hogan, secretary.
Solo, "The Light of Heaven's Own Day," ..... Briggs

Bro. James E. Donnelly
Oration, Bro. James J. Gallagher.
Quartet, "Some Blessed Day," ..... Nevin

Nocturn, "Reverie," ..... Behr
Eagles' orchestra.
"Nearer, My God, to Thee," ..... Denadellon

Thomas H. Corcoran.
James J. Gallagher's tribute to the dead was in part as follows:

My friends: Many words in our language have been excited as having special sweetness and significance. Mother, home, friend, country and many others, too long a list to be enumerated, are watchwords which inspire the purest ideals and noblest deeds; yet one by one that which they represent passes from our lives. The silence of the grave closes over our dear ones. We see them no longer in their accustomed places, and our hearts grow heavy with sorrow. Life for a time loses its charm, and we are desolate indeed. Then a ray of light pierces the gloom. Memory whispers that all is not lost.

And I, with faltering footsteps, journey on, watching the stars that roll the hours away.

Still the faint light that guides me now is gone.

And, like another life, its glorious day shall open o'er me from the empyreal height, with warmth and certainty and boundless light.

Those we have loved, and who have made the brightness of our lives, return to us by its light, and we see them, in the guise of other days. The loving words, the tender ministrations, the communion of soul with soul, even the garments they wear are made real, and in memory they are with us again. Blessed memory! It is well that occasionally we should pause to pay tribute at the shrine, for thus alone can we find something to rob us of the peace if we too have been true.

In the darkest day or the darkest night we may withdraw into scenes we enjoyed, the faces we loved. And he is happy, indeed, who can do this with no tinge of bitterness or regret. O memory! Thy chamber walls are hung with regrettable pictures. Old age never exists in memory's blissful land. There the lines of mutability are not written. Every day we are building for eternity. It should be an inspiration for the best of what we are capable, that as we are, so shall we live in the hearts of those who will sorrow because of our going out. Yet even here memory is our steadfast friend.

It is the pleasant things of life, the bright spots, the grandly hand clasp, the eyes which looked lovingly into our own, which we muse upon when bereft of the living presence. Our tender thoughts of them soften and sweeten, as who linger behind.

They are tenderer to the living who are true to the dead, and these companions with them grandly meet, broaden its range of vision and afford us a glimpse of that ideal life, touched with a divine comprehension and tuned to a divine calm.

Once a great teacher in the school of patriotism, likened our life to a traveled road at the end of which is a great wayside inn where all must rest, and the only salutation is "Good Night." This cannot be. All reason cries out against it. The night he would describe is but the passing shadow of an hour.

This inn is not a "windowless palace of death," but rather a palace of life, wherein Hope has set her many windows facing to the sky, and in every pure life and abiding faith has fixed an immovable star that shines and shines until it is lost in the blazing sunshine of eternal life.

Charity throws a silvery mantle over the failings, the shortcomings of those who have preceded us into the mysterious future.

It is the good men do which we contemplate, and which lives after them. It is rare indeed that something of praise may not be truly spoken side each open grave. Remembrance of their acts of charity and deeds of kindness, and the cherished memory of their generous and lofty characters—a rich legacy in us—will burst into blossom and lavish a fragrance on the air, and these treasures bequeathed will ever abide with us. We nurture the loftiest sentiments and enshrine them with our tears; and this service of praise and remembrance, and the adoration of their graves tends to exalt the good and keep it fresh and green as an anemone in our memories, and their names, rescued from oblivion, inscribed on the imperishable tablets of our souls.

It is an augury of the coming of "Peace on Earth" that even in this time of unrest, of wars and international disturbance, of a carnival of

WASHINGTON, May 8.—After having been out of the public eye for some time, the Cunningham Alaskan coal land claims which brought about the Ballinger-Pinchot congressional investigation because of charges by Louis R. Glavis, a former field agent of the land office, today approached their final determination. Attorneys for the Cunningham claimants appeared to argue their case before Secretary of the Interior Fisher, Land Commissioner Bennett and members of the board of law review of the general land office. It was expected that the hearing would be concluded tomorrow.

E. W. Hughes of Seattle and John Gray of Wallace, Idaho, are representing the claimants.

Commissioner Bennett is charged with handing down the decision. Secretary Fisher determined to sit at the hearing, however, so that in case an appeal is made to him time and expense may be saved for all parties concerned.

The Cunningham coal land claims, 33 in number, are so called because it was Clarence Cunningham of the state of Washington, who, while in Alaska in 1902, discovered the coal which led to the filing of claims by himself and by 32 others. Opposition to the final granting of the claims was due to the charge that there was conspiracy to defraud the government.

Glavis, who wrote to President Taft charging former Secretary Ballinger with maladministration of the public land laws started his fight against the Cunningham claims early in 1908. He asserted that through an assignment of the Cunningham claims the Guggenheims were about to be given a monopoly of Alaskan coal.

The Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee filed two reports, the majority one exonerating Mr. Ballinger and the minority one sustaining to a large degree the allegations made by Glavis. No action respecting the merits of either finding was taken by congress and since the proceedings were directed chiefly against Mr. Ballinger his resignation forestalls a congressional verdict. The majority did not pass upon the merits of the claims, declaring only that "if they are regular patents they should be allowed."

crime without parallel, that the principles of fraternity should be predominant, as it unquestionably is.

Helpfulness is the keynote of the grand symphony of the future.

The grandest objects of our association, mutual assistance, helpfulness, cheer, protection among your living and tender sympathy for the mourning ones, wins the benediction of a world, the admiration of angels, and the "well done" of God. You brothers of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, will never finish the work so nobly begun.

Your grand organization, with its pronounced doctrine of the "faith that inspires, and revelation that assures," that "though the fulness of time will bring the consummation, when the sword shall be turned into the pruning hook," you are advancing a step towards this great end. I can only say God hasten the day—when which is sure to come—when all the instruments of war will be converted into the implements of husbandry—when the people of all nations and tongues shall stand together in the brotherhood and majesty of enlightened conscience, and when he who sits in his great supremacy upon the throne of the universe shall be recognized as sovereign of all.

And so to you, absent, yet ever present, brothers, to whom the "Great Hereafter" has become the "Glorious Here," we send our thoughts after you today with no misgiving. We are one with you; living the same life, always in close touch with you.

Ere long the gates will open and others of our great organization will pass through and over. Not into darkness, but into light. Not into tears, but into joy and in the presence of ever living loved ones. It is but a few steps beyond our vision. The frontier of mortality is but an imaginary line. They who have crossed the river now stand hand in hand, and heart and heart united are walking the grand, the endless, the beautiful avenues of the Eternal City. We call them dead, but are they dead? Let us rather say they have only begun to

Only 39c

There's no rivet to wear out, no screw to get loose. The cutting edge is indestructible and will wear a lifetime. They will cut anything and everything from net and tissue paper to a heavy horse blanket.

A FIVE YEAR GUARANTEE GOES WITH EVERY PAIR OF THESE SHEARS

These SHEARS are dependable in every way. No matter how many pairs of the ordinary kind you may have, there is always a place for these. For SHEARS that are always sharp, certainly they are a great asset to any home. Dressmakers will find these SHEARS especially adapted to their particular needs and because of their particular shape, they will not tire the hands as ordinary SHEARS do.

Adjustable Detachable Self-Sharpening

Made from the best carbon steel by a new process which insures strength and a keen cutting edge. The Tension Spring Attachment does away with re-sharpening entirely, and enables the user to set the tension on the rivet so that any kind of material intended to be cut with SHEARS may be cut with perfect ease without tiring the hand. The Tension Spring takes up all wear on the rivet, making the SHEARS practically indestructible, with no wear out of them. A simple turn of the thumb screw shown in the engraving tightens up the blades as closely as may be desired.

have been translated. It means the fullness, the grand symphony of life—the eternal music of the soul.

My Eagle brothers, if I may, for I have been one of you, your association is a grand one and confers a glory upon humanity by reason of its sublime record, its power and influence exerted for good in our land.

It merits the pride cherished of its work which has extended and broadened to immense proportions, until now there is in our country a total membership of about 310,000, and in our own aerie, about 750, willing and apt workers, second to none in aims and influence.

It will live and prosper, to develop manliness above self and a never-ceasing safeguard against the turmoil of denials and the ragings of the debased.

My friends, this memorial service is no idle ceremony, for most worthy of the living is worthy commemoration of the dead. They need no sympathy, but they need our remembrance. Tears keep alive memories of dear ones as dew of heaven freshen the flowers that bloom over their quiet rest, and the very music of this hallowed hour has wafted cooling draughts to fevered brains, a freshening breeze to languid souls, a joy and an inspiration to those so fond of cherishing remembrance of loved ones in eternal repose.

Let us live for those who love us, for those whom we know are true, and the heaven that smiles above us, and the good that we can do.

DIAZ TO RESIGN

Continued

PRESIDENT DIAZ' MANIFESTO
MEXICO CITY, May 8.—The announcement that President Diaz will resign when peace is restored, expected Saturday was made last night.

As to when peace is actually restored, General Diaz reserves the right to be the judge. In the words of his manifesto, it will be "when, according to the dictates of my conscience, I am sure that my resignation will not be followed by anarchy."

The president declares that his determination not to relinquish the presidency at this time is not due to vanity or love of power, because, as he points out, power now has no attraction, accompanied as it is by tremendous responsibilities and worry. He says he is prompted solely by a desire to conserve the best interests of his country.

The president makes it clear that he does not propose to abandon the presidency while his country is at war, and that he will not do so at any time under compulsion.

The promise of the president is made to the people of Mexico and the receipt by revolutionists will be incidental. That is will be sent to them immediately, however, by private individuals and that it will be regarded as entirely satisfactory by them, is taken for granted.

It was at a cabinet meeting yesterday afternoon that General Diaz announced to his ministers his decision. For two hours and a half they discussed the terms of the manifesto, and at the conclusion of the meeting there remained nothing to do but to secure its official promulgation.

Only in a general way does the manifesto refer to the revolution. "The government's position is that General Diaz could not have made a public statement at an earlier moment, and it is indicated that the revolutionists failed to observe the amenities of the peace negotiations by making them public."

Officially it is said that Madero and his advisers were guilty of betraying an agreement by injecting into the conference either secretly or openly the question of the president's resignation. It is declared that it had been agreed in confidence that this point should not be permitted to become an issue.

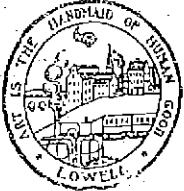

Proffering the declaration of his willingness to retire, the president discusses the political conditions of the country and the efforts that have been made by the government to establish peace. He calls attention to the progress already made in the direction of adopting the anti-revolution law and declares that the projected reform of the electoral laws and of the judiciary are being studied.

He shows further that the government in all its acts wishes to conform to the demand of the public in so far as it is wise and for the best interests of the country.

Events leading to the beginning of negotiations for peace are taken up.

MEXICO'S PRESIDENT AND THE MAN THE REBELS WANT TO SUCCEED HIM

and it is indicated that the government is disposed to take into consideration proposals the revolutionists have to make.

Regarding the point upon which the rupture of negotiations occurred, the manifesto declares that compliance with the demands for Diaz' resignation could not be entertained because his immediate resignation would doubtless precipitate anarchy throughout the country, whereas if his retirement was fixed for a future date the government would not have sufficient stability to assure the return of normal conditions pending the selection of a new executive.

In concluding, Gen. Diaz appeals to the patriotism of the people, calling upon them to act together for the peace and progress of the nation, and catalogues the wrongs.

At no place in the manifesto is there made mention of a new election. According to the constitution resignation is equivalent to political death so far as it affects the succession. The vice-president would assume the executive chair, and he in turn would be followed by the minister of foreign affairs.

In this case the vice president is seriously sick and is in Europe on an eight-months' leave of absence in an endeavor to regain his health. Should Vice-Pres. Corral get back in the country at the time the president leaves his post the new incumbent would be Minister de la Barra, the choice of the rebels themselves for provisional president. What course affairs would take once the vice-president or the minister was in power, remains to be seen.

Although the announcement of Gen. Diaz that he would resign once his country was at peace will not reach the rebels through official channels, it can be regarded by them as nothing less than compliance with their chief demand. Officials and civilians in the capital believe that Madero will not baffle over the method and if he is sincere in his desire to end the war he will at once order the cessation of hostilities.

"I understand the immense sacrifice which we make in this. Our field officers, especially our generals, have manifested with great insistence their desire to take the city at hand or to sacrifice their lives in the attempt."

"Gen. Orozco especially, who at the last time when he was near to the city of Juarez could not attack, considered that it was a military obligation that he should not retire a second time without making an assault. But, showing an example of patriotism and abnegation, with sorrow, he has joined me in this; but I promise you that which I also promised him, which is that from now on we will make a very active campaign, which will carry you into many battles, where you will be able to satisfy your legitimate desire of fighting for your country and your ardent wish to cover yourselves with glory."

"In a word, I promise you that we will make a triumphant march until we arrive at the capital of the republic, where you will receive the reward which your patriotism and self-sacrifice have fully earned. Effective suffrage and no re-election."

"Camp of the army of liberation, on the shores of the brave, before Ciudad Juarez, on the 7th day of May, 1911."

"Manrionel I. Madero, Provisional president of the republic of Mexico."

To Muster 20,000 Men

General Madero, it is believed, will march due south to Madero, near the point where he stopped recently, prior to his march to Juarez.

He intends to carry the fighting into the state of Coahuila, and mobilizing all his forces, effect a junction with Ambrosio Figueroa and the other southern rebel chiefs and attack Mexico City.

All the provisional governors who hitherto have been in the United States, consulting with the juntas of the revolutionists, now will return to their respective states.

"One month more and we'll have Mexico City." This was the oft-repeated phrase with which the rebel leaders last night prepared for the march. Rebel detachments are scattered throughout the state of Chihuahua and are now believed to number 10,000 men. With the additional troops which the rebels expect to recruit on their march, they hope to muster 20,000 men for their grand attack on the capital.

A report that General Rabago, with about 1000 federals, had left Torreon, near Chihuahua, immediately after the armistice was broken off, reached here last night.

There is a strong likelihood of an engagement between Rabago and a detachment of the insurrecto army. About 7 last night the insurrecto outfit fired a few shots toward the federal trenches. The federals returned the fire but in a few minutes the insurrectos moved away.

It is thought the insurrecto vanguard which already had started south, decided to give the federals in Juarez a farewell salute.

MANIFESTO BY MADERO

EL PASO, Tex., May 8.—Meeting complications with the United States, Francisco I. Madero, Jr., has given orders to all the revolutionists on the Mexican border to withdraw from the frontier.

He, himself, with all the insurrectos before Ciudad Juarez will proceed southward, his objective point being the City of Mexico.

Gen. Madero in a manifesto to his army yesterday cited the Douglas, Ariz. incidents and declared that while the taking of Juarez might be an immense military advantage, it would bring about complications with a nation which has always given us proofs of its friendship, and with whom an international conflict would be probable.

"On to Mexico City" was the cry last night in the Madero army as the men prepared to break camp.

The peace negotiations have been a hopeless failure. The political chiefs gathered yesterday for a final conference, concluded the organization of the provisional government, and bade farewell to their leader. Two commissions were appointed, one of which is to be an executive consulting junta to receive any new proposals from the Mexican government and the other to direct the diplomatic or commercial relations of the revolutionists with the United States.

It was no secret at the Madero camp yesterday that the abandonment of Juarez was in line with the policy of the insurrectos from now on to court early recognition by the United States of their belligerency.

Madero's Manifesto

Madero's military lieutenants were told to abandon their positions around Juarez, especially Gen. Orozco, who was confident he could take the city. Gen. Madero, however, reassured his men of his faith in them, explaining his plans in the following manifesto:

"When you were invited to come and take the important city of Juarez, you all responded to my call with a cry of enthusiasm. I know that your efforts would have moved irresistibly and that very quickly this city would have fallen into our hands; but since arriving at the border I have received knowledge that when our brothers took another town, which is also on the international line of the United States, the bullets of those fighting fell on American territory and claimed many victims."

"This brought diplomatic complications, which would be inevitable if an attack were made on Juarez, and might bring about very serious complications with a nation which has often given us proofs of its friendship, and it devolves upon us to sacrifice this immense military advantage which would result in the taking of Juarez; which would probably result in an international conflict."

HARVARD MEN

May Not Protest Dartmouth Victory

CAMBRIDGE, May 8.—The general opinion among the Harvard athletic authorities today, appeared to be in favor of allowing Dartmouth's victory on the track Saturday by a score of 65 to 57 to stand without protest, despite the fact that Smith who scored five points for the Green in the high hurdles kicked down six barriers in violation of the rule recently adopted which disqualifies a runner who kneels down more than two.

Manager Floyd of Harvard said that he was talking with Manager Hillman regarding an agreement with the pistol sent the hurdles away, while Referee Billings states that he heard something of such an agreement so he made no ruling when Smith broke the tape, leaving six hurdles flat in his path.

Athletic Manager Garcelon stated today that there would be no appeal to the referee for a decision on the high hurdles.

100 CHILDREN DOUBLE EVENT

Received First Communion at St. Andrew's

A very imposing service was held in St. Andrew's church, North Billerica, yesterday morning when about 100 children received their first communion. The event took place at the 7 o'clock mass, which was celebrated by Rev. E. J. Cornell, O. M. I., pastor of the church, who also administered the sacrament to the children. A very large congregation was in attendance and at the close of the service, Rev. Fr. Cornell, O. M. I., addressed the children and explained to them the significance of the event, which was also the baptism of their lives up to the present time.

After the mass a dainty breakfast was provided for the children, the meal being served on the grounds of the church by the ladies of the parish. Two long tables were used, cross-shaped in arrangement, and at these the children were seated, girls on one side of the board and boys on the other. Above the tables hung a large American flag, emphasizing the fact that while the youthful participants were enrolled as soldiers of God by the administration of the sacrament they had just received, they were also reminded by the presence of the stars and stripes that a soldier of God would also prove true and loyal to his country's cause.

The following women were in charge of the outdoor banquet: Matrons, Mrs. Denis J. Dwyer, Mrs. J. H. O'Brien, Mrs. Thomas F. Sheridan; assistants, Miss Mary Twomey, president of the Children of Mary; Miss Helen Murphy, vice-president of the Children of Mary; Miss Lena Cassidy, president of the Blessed Virgin Mary Sodality; Miss Rita Page, Francis Rogers, Elizabeth Rogers; aids, Misses Agnes Collins, Anna Higgins, Agnes Hennessy, Marcelle Leeley, Alice Maxwell, Alice Riley, Florence Mahoney, Mary Ready, Isabel Kearney, Mary Cassidy, Ella Cassidy, Mary Higgins, Ella McCusker, Mary O'Brien, Mrs. Michael Hayes, Mrs. Henry Mahoney, Mrs. B. W. Kearney, Timothy McCarthy, William McCarthy, Charles Hayes, Joseph O'Brien.

In the afternoon at 3 o'clock, vesper service was held and the children were enrolled in the seminary.

ELEVATOR FIRE

Stubborn Blaze in Omaha Today

OMAHA, Neb., May 8.—A stubborn fire which started in the elevator shaft of Creighton college today did damage exceeding $60,000 and will cause the suspension of classes of 500 students in the building for some time.

Creighton college was established and is maintained by a $2,000,000 endowment of the late Count John A. Creighton and is conducted by the Jesuit order.

Was Observed at St. Joseph's Church

The 43d anniversary of the foundation of the first French Catholic parish of this city was celebrated in an elaborate manner in the churches yesterday. The occasion was a double event in the old temple in Lee street, being also the feast of St. Joseph.

Rev. Fr. Watelle, O. M. I., pastor of St. Joseph's parish, officiated at high mass at St. Joseph's church, which was celebrated at 10.30 o'clock. He was assisted by Rev. Fr. Baron, O. M. I., as deacon and Rev. Fr. Baccetta, O. M. I., as sub-deacon. The choir was to repeat the Easter program, but on account of the illness of Mr. Joseph A. Bernhard, this plan had to be abandoned and the harmonized mass of the second tone was rendered under direction of Mr. Frank Gourdeau, with Mrs. Joseph A. Bernhard at the organ. The soloists were: Telephone Trudel, E. J. Laroche, Edgar Montmarquet, the latter of Manchester, N. H., Telephone Mulo and Frank Gourdeau.

The altar was prettily decorated and the electrical effects were beautiful. The sermon a powerful one, was delivered by Rev. Fr. Watelle, O. M. I., whose text was "St. Joseph." The able preacher spoke at length on the patron of the parish, and then he gave a brief sketch of the parish and its work since its foundation, paying a tribute to the late Fr. Orlin, O. M. I., the zealous and indefatigable worker.

The church was filled with the faithful, many coming from other parishes, especially a number of the old pioneers, and the ceremony was a most impressive one, as it reminded some of nearly 50 years ago.

St. Jean-Baptiste

At St. Jean Baptiste church the Easter music was repeated by the choir under the direction of Dr. George E. Caluso, Mr. Arthur J. Marcelle presiding at the organ. A large congregation attended and the sermon was preached by Rev. Fr. Denzot, O. M. I., D. D. Rev. Fr. Brillard, O. M. I., D. D. was the celebrant.

Notre Dame de Lourdes

At Notre Dame de Lourdes church yesterday and Rev. Fr. Magnan, O. M. I., delivered the sermon. The Easter program was repeated under the direction of Mr. H. A. Racicot. Miss Alma Alexander presiding at the organ. The solos of the mass were sustained by Misses Blanche Lovesque, Cora Renaud, Beatrice Marton, Emma Maron, Marianne Desllets and Grace Loranier. At the offertory Miss Della Lavigne and Mr. H. A. Racicot rendered a beautiful "Ave Maria."

A NEW HOSPITAL

DONATED BY REV. PETER AND LATE REV. M. RONON

BOSTON, May 8.—Archbishop O'Connell announced at the dedication of St. Margaret's hospital, Cushing avenue, Dorchester, yesterday, that the donors of the building were the Rev. Peter Ronon, pastor of St. Peter's church, Meeting House hill, and the late Rev. Michael Ronon, who for many years was pastor of St. Peter's church Lowell, and that the gift had been made in memory of their mother, Mrs. Margaret Ronon. It had been known that the money to erect the building was donated, but it remained for the archbishop to reveal the identity of the donors.

Renewal of Hostilities Expected in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, May 8.—While unofficially there is still hope here of peace negotiations, the official view is that the exchange between the representatives of President Diaz and Francisco Madero, Jr., the rebel chief, is a closed incident.

Francisco Carbajal, the government commissioner at Juarez, has been ordered to return to the capital, it is said. If there are overtures for a new conference they must come from the other side, although the government officials maintain, as before, an attitude of willingness to listen to any proposition which does not include the point over which the recent negotiations broke and which was answered by President Diaz last night in his manifesto.

At the war department today there was no intimation of the plans for a new campaign.

The posting of bulletins on the street corners late last night setting forth that Diaz would resign at a date which he deemed auspicious created much excitement.

Today the sentiment among the people of the capital, who by a large majority are revolutionary in their sympathies, was that Diaz's promise with reservations while technically seeming to meet the revolutionary demand, fell short and offered too many loopholes for postponing the resignation. It is generally believed that the announcement of the president will not be accepted as satisfactory by the rebels and a renewal of hostilities is expected.

WOMAN COMMITTED SUICIDE

NEW BEDFORD, May 8.—Miss Annie Saxon, 52 years old, of 629 Purchase street, committed suicide last night while in the bathroom by turning on the gas. The body was discovered by her brother, George E. Saxon, a justice of the peace, at 6.30 a. m. today, after he had read her note, left on the kitchen stove, which informed him of the tragedy and warned him, "do not light any fires. Open the windows before you come to me."

Miss Saxon was a sufferer from nervous diseases for some years, and was often in intense pain.

LONE TREE ARTISTS, AND BEER SLINGERS

Gather in Faneuil Hall—Bartenders International League Welcomed by Mayor Fitzgerald—The Convention Includes Cooks and Waiters' Unions

BOSTON, May 8.—Men who draw the beer, stir the fragrant "julep," and shake the cocktail gathered in Faneuil hall today to the number of several hundred for the opening session of the 16th annual convention of the Bartenders International league. The welcoming hand was held by Mayor Fitzgerald, despite the fact that his honor declared that he had claudoned on board the "aquatic vehicle" some years ago. He gave the alcoholic dispensers welcome both in word and song. The convention also includes cooks and waiters' unions, so that there were a number of women on the floor, including delegates from Cleveland, Seattle, St. Louis, Spokane and Chicago. Under a new provision of the league one of the women delegates is entitled to a seat on the executive board and a lively contest has started for the position.

General President Timothy Sullivan of Hartford president and General Secretary-Treasurer Jere Sullivan of Cleveland presented a report showing that there are 300 unions in the league and the membership has grown in two years to 42,651 while there is a working balance in the treasury of $32,000. The convention will be in session for four days.

DIRECT NOMINATIONS

BOSTON, May 8.—The movement in favor of direct nominations received a strong push today when the house passed to a third reading a measure applying such methods to nominations for all state offices. There was no division on the bill.

LEHIGH VALLEY TRAIN DITCHED

ELMHURST, N. Y., May 8.—The Lehigh Valley train from Ithaca to Elmira, due in this city at noon today, was ditched two miles north of Horsehead. The passenger coaches are lying on their sides. Several passengers are injured. Three passengers on the wrecked train have been brought here. They are badly hurt and may die. Seventeen others are reported hurt.

MAY INVESTIGATE SUGAR CASE

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Investigation of the American Sugar Refining Co. and all other concerns engaged in the refining of sugar to ascertain whether or not there have been violations of the anti-trust law was recommended today by the house committee on rules.

STRUCK BY AUTO

Lynn Boy Not Expected to Live

LYNN, May 8.—While crossing Washington street opposite Amity late yesterday afternoon George Gould, the 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gould of 51 Amity street, was struck and fatally injured by an automobile owned by O. D. Young, a Boston attorney, and operated by Patrick Lyons, who lives at the Paul Revere hotel, Lexington.

It was said at the Lynn hospital, to which Lyons carried the unconscious boy, that the lad had sustained a very serious fracture of the skull and that his recovery was impossible.

After conveying the victim of the accident to the hospital Lyons drove to the Sutton street police station, where a technical charge of assault was brought.

Lyons said he had been to Nahant with a party of friends and was returning to Lexington when the machine struck the boy. He said the boy, with several others, was playing in the street, and unaware of the approach of the automobile the boy started for the sidewalk.

Lyons swung his car, which eye-witnesses of the accident told the police was moving at a very moderate speed, sharply toward the left and if the boy had kept on going a collision would have been avoided.

Some of the boy's playmates shouted to him and instead of keeping on toward the sidewalk at Amity street he turned and started back across the street. He ran directly in front of the automobile and was struck, as the police believe, by a crossbar in front of the radiator.

Lyons brought the car to a stop, and upon realizing the seriousness of the boy's condition he picked up the little fellow and drove at high speed to the hospital. He was told by the physicians that the boy was probably fatally injured.

A hurried investigation by the police resulted in the announced belief that the accident was unavoidable. At an early hour last evening Lyons was released on bail, Boston parties furnishing sureties amounting to $500.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE LYNN MANUFACTURERS HELD TODAY

LYNN, May 8.—The annual meeting of the Lynn manufacturers was held here today. It is known that previous to the meeting a movement was on foot to have a full discussion of the grievances the manufacturers have against the employees and some of the labor unions. It was also said that there would be put before the meeting a proposition to shut down all of the shoe factories in the city, to be operated May 15.

There was no change in the strike situation at the factory of Little & Co., where more than 1000 operatives have been forced into idleness for more than a month by a strike of 70 lasters.

ASTOR BUILDING HAS BEEN DECLARED TO BE UNSAFE

NEW YORK, May 8.—The building department addressed a formal order to Col. John Jacob Astor yesterday declaring unsafe the five-story loft building at 548 Broadway, owned by the Astor estate, where 14 girls were injured by the collapse of a balcony in a fire panic Thursday afternoon.

Inspectors reported that the board partitions and balconies in the building are in danger of collapsing and that the flooring throughout is badly worn and broken. The order requires Col. Astor to have the old flooring replaced with new, to install iron balustrades on all stairways and to replace weak partitions with properly braced ones. Notice is also given that the fire escapes must be kept clear at all hours, and that boxes, cases and goods must be removed from their present resting places in so-called blind alleys.

Young Sheridan Has Suffered From Barely Escaped a Collision With Leprosy for Four Years a Passenger Train

PAWTUCKET, R. I., May 8.—The Darlington grammar school, from which Harry Sheridan, the boy afflicted with leprosy, was taken on Thursday, was re-opened today. Tending the action of the state authorities, the boy remained at his home, with police guarding the house to see that he does not escape.

Dr. Gardner Swartz, secretary of the state board of health, stated today that there was no quarantine at the house, the boy's father, who is superintendent of a large knitting mill, going to his business as usual and other members of the family leaving the house at will. The police are stationed at the house simply to see that the boy does not get away. About six years ago a leper escaped from an institution here and the authorities are taking care to see that this, the next case, does not get away. Dr. Swartz ridiculed the idea of danger from infection, saying that because of the influence of the disease makes us sly. He said that tuberculosis was a thousand times more dangerous.

Sheridan has been suffering from leprosy for four years, Dr. Swartz declares and his chances for recovery are very small, although he will probably live for years. It is not likely that the boy will be sent to Pentecost Island, as the Massachusetts authorities do not care to establish a precedent by taking in patients from outside the state and some provision will be made for his seclusion in Rhode Island.

LOSS IS HEAVY SULPHURIC ACID

Forest Fires Were Quite Destructive Was Taken by Man by Mistake

MILFORD, N. H., May 8.—One of the most destructive forest fires that has ever broken out in this section of New Hampshire was brought under control today after a tract of between 500 and 1200 acres of heavy woodland had been burned over, causing a loss estimated from $20,000 to $30,000. The fire bore every indication of having been of incendiary origin and during the forenoon the local authorities arrested Albert Nickerson on suspicion of having started it. Nickerson was formerly a farmhand employed by one of the men whose woodland was destroyed by fire. He and his employer are alleged to have had trouble, and a short time ago Nickerson quit work. About a week ago a fire, apparently of incendiary origin, broke out in the woodland owned by Nick's employer but was extinguished before much damage had been done. Yesterday noon fire broke out again but before it was brought under control a triangular tract a mile and a half wide was destroyed.

REV. JAMES HARRIS DEAD
WATERTOWN, N. Y., May 8.—The Rev. James Harris, pastor of All Souls Universalist church, this city, died today at Clifton Springs sanitarium. Death was due to heart trouble following an attack of grippe. He was born at Gretna, Me., 55 years ago and was a graduate of St. Lawrence university theological school and was a trustee of the university.

RAW WOOL ON FREE LIST

WASHINGTON, May 8.—That the ways and means committee will put raw wool on the free list in revising schedule K was declared to be practically certain and resulted in a caucus of the democratic delegation of New York, at which 18 members declared themselves in favor of free raw wool and four argued against it. All pledged themselves to abide by the decision of the full democratic caucus.

WOODSMEN FIGHTING FIRE

AUGUSTA, Me., May 8.—A big forest fire which started in Compton and Beach counties and swept to Massachusetts Gore in the township west of Bingham Kennecott purchase, was reported today at the office of the state forestry department. Woodsmen hope to hold the fire to the Gore unless the wind changes. The fire is on land belonging to the Berlin Mills Co. of Portland, south of lake Megantic and Lowelltown, the Canadian Pacific station near the border. Word was received today from Barring that a fire was burning on the wild land of the Elton estate in Washington county.

TESTIMONY IN DIVORCE CASES

BOSTON, May 8.—A new order made by Judge Hitebeck in the superior court today directs that the testimony in all divorce cases relating to a statutory offense shall be taken down by a stenographer and transmitted to the district attorney. Every instance of the offense testified to will go to the district attorney for presentation to the grand jury. There has been considerable agitation in the legislature and in public gatherings over the so-called divorce evil. It has been said by those familiar with divorce proceedings that there has been more or less collusion between the principals resulting in one or the other getting a divorce without a contest.

SCHOONER IS AGROUND

NEW HAVEN, May 8.—The schooner Banner of Staten Island, Captain McQuaid, is aground on Round Rock reef, east of the New Haven harbor. She ran on the rocks, filled and sank last night. Except at high water the schooner is not submerged. An effort will be made this afternoon to float her. The Banner was bound from Greenvort, N. Y., to Princes Bay, with 2500 bushels of oysters.

SALEM, May 8.—An accident of unusual interest in railroad, which, for a few minutes, threatened the lives of many persons, occurred here today when a runaway shifting engine with one box freight car attached escaped a collision with a passenger train by a narrow margin of two feet, sped past the depot here at a terrific rate and whirled through the Salem tunnel, under the north end of which it was brought under control by the conductor, D. A. Churchill, who had stuck to his post on the car.

The engine in charge of Engineer I. H. Williams was shifting cars in the local yard when Engineer Williams suddenly found himself on the same track with an approaching passenger train from Boston. In an attempt to make a switch in the rear Williams reversed the throttle with such suddenness that he was hurled through the cab window onto the roadbed. Fireman Dodge believing a collision with the train inevitable jumped from the engine.

The driverless engine took the switch and passed the passenger train by a bare margin of two feet. The engine dashing backwards at full speed was sighted by railroad employes about the Salem station. A hundred and fifty persons who were about the depot at the time were warned of the danger and retreated into the rear of the tracks. Conductor Churchill clung to the iron step on the rear car until the runaway engine emerged from the tunnel. Then he climbed up over the car, slid down into the tender, dropped into the engine cab and brought the runaway to a standstill.

Neither Williams nor Dodge was seriously injured.

MERRIMACK RIVER BILL

REP. THOMAS S. CUFF

the legislature, assisted by Rep. Dennis Murphy, Rep. Barlow and the other members of the Lowell delegation the bill introduced by Senator Nason of Haverhill to the effect that the pollution of the Merrimack river and its tributaries be prohibited was killed in the legislature without debate, a most unusual thing, for in several years past in which the matter has come up, it has been defeated only after a strong debate in the house. The bill first went to the committee on public health of which Rep. Cuff is a member. The latter fought the measure in committee and succeeded in getting an unfavorable report therefrom. Then he got busy in the house with the result that the report was accepted and the bill killed without any debate.

6 O'CLOCK

MAN WAS FINED $20

He Was Charged With Larceny
of Six Coal Bags

Peter O'Neill and George Paquette were arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning, the former being charged with the larceny of six coal bags, each of the value of $50, the property of John P. Quinn, while Paquette was charged with receiving stolen property. O'Neill entered a plea of guilty and after being found guilty was ordered to pay a fine of $20 or be committed to jail for three months, while Paquette was found not guilty and ordered discharged.

Mr. John P. Quinn, the complainant, testified that O'Neill had worked for him at different periods and about two months ago he became suspicious that some person was stealing his coal bags. He made a count and found that 312 bags were missing. As a result of which he learned he reported the matter to the police and last Friday swore out a warrant against O'Neill and subsequently Paquette was summoned into court. Mr. Quinn during the course of his testimony said that he paid $50 a piece for the bags, each of which bore a large letter "Q" but that the letter on the bags which he found at Paquette's coal yard had been obliterated by the use of black paint.

John Bean, a young man who was to have appeared as a witness in the case Saturday, but who disappeared rather suddenly and who was later arrested on a charge of larceny, testified that he had seen O'Neill and was with O'Neill when the latter sold the bags to Paquette. Witness said that he told Paquette that the bags belonged to Mr. Quinn, but that Mr. Paquette did not pay any particular heed to the remark. According to Bean all that seemed to disturb Paquette was how he would remove the letter "Q" on the bags and O'Neill said that he would take care of that and accordingly went over to a hardware store, purchased 10 cents worth of paint and with a brush succeeded in covering up the letter.

Paquette testifying in his own behalf, said that O'Neill in selling the bags, said he had been in business himself and had sold out and was anxious to get rid of a number of bags which he had on hand. The witness said that he could not read, write or speak English and did not know what the letter on the bags stood for.

O'Neill testified to selling the bags and this concluded the government's case. A. D. Hame, who appeared for Paquette, started to argue, but Judge Hadley stated that an argument was unnecessary and finding Paquette not guilty, ordered him discharged. As above stated O'Neill was found guilty of larceny and ordered to pay a fine of $20 or be committed to jail for three months.

A young man entered a plea of not guilty to a complaint charging him with indecent exposure and at the request of counsel the matter was continued till Thursday morning. It is alleged that Martin had been bothering the employees of one of the local department stores and his actions had become so pronounced that the matter was reported to the police with the result that he was arrested Saturday.

Held Under Heavy Bail
James Alexis, charged with feloniously assaulting Annie D. Beaulieu, aged 14 years, entered a plea of not guilty and was held under $10,000 bonds for his appearance in police court tomorrow.

Discharged a Pistol
Haywood Johnson, colored, was charged with discharging a loaded pistol in violation of a city ordinance. He admitted that he had discharged the firearm, but did not think that he had violated any law, but the court after considering the case fined Mr. Johnson $10 for his fun.

Assault and Battery

Vladislav Alexits was charged with assault and battery, but by agreement of counsel the case was continued till tomorrow morning.

Drunk Offenders

Joseph McBride was charged with being drunk and after being found guilty was sentenced to four months in jail. He appealed.

Emile Martel was sentenced to five months in jail while Catherine Cronin was placed on probation.

James L. Kellher, Thomas Heffernan, William J. Buckley and John Muldoon were fined $5 each. John Guga was fined $3 for drunkenness and 12 simple drunks were released.

SHERIDAN STATUE

WAS TRIMMED BY UNKNOWN PERSONS LAST NIGHT

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Startling news to the beholder because of its representation of life and action so common in the ordinary military statue, that of General Phil Sheridan in Sheridan circle, arrested the eye of the observer even more quickly than usual early today. Above the "front of Mars" rested a lace beaded nightcap which fitted very well, as the sculptor had portrayed the famous general with these suddenly checked by the rider's right hand while the other swept eastward, holding his wide-brimmed hat. Thrown about the horizon shoulders was an ornate cloak lavishly adorned with lace insertion and narrow ribbing of baby blue.

The police are looking for the decorators.

THE MINISTERS

OPPOSED TO THE PROPOSED BOXING LAW

CHICAGO, May 8.—Hundreds of letters and telegrams urging members of the lower house of the legislature to vote against the bill legalizing six round boxing contests were sent to Springfield today. The bill, which has passed the senate, will come up in the house tomorrow.

Nearly every minister in Illinois took occasion to refer to the bill from the pulpit last night and asked church members to use their influence to defeat the bill.

Mr. Joseph Bennett of Lowell is in New York for a few days and is staying at the Hotel Wolcott.

200 MEN ON STRIKE

PITTSBURGH, May 8.—Shopmen employed by the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. at Glenwood, numbering over 200, struck today as the result of a long dispute over a piece of work and also the discharge of the master mechanic, which was followed by four foremen quitting last Saturday. The second week of the Pennsylvania shopmen's strike opened today with 400 more men leaving the various shops.

OPENING QUOTATIONS REFLECTED UNCERTAIN TONE
Trading Was Of A Listless Character—Market Closed Heavy—Other Features of the Trading Today

NEW YORK, May 8.—The opening quotations on the stock exchange today reflected an uncertain tone in the trading, a number of advances being offset by declines elsewhere. Western Maryland gained 2 points, Canadian Pacific lost 1/2, International Harvester 1/2, and Missouri, Kansas & Texas 1/2.

Reports that negotiations were proceeding satisfactorily in the efforts to list a large block of Alchison in Paris revived a demand for the stock and there was a gain of 1/4 for those issues. Amalgamated Copper was heavy, reflecting the unfavorable report of the Copper Producers association which showed a large increase in stocks on hand. The general tone was somewhat firmer.

The fact that the supreme court was not in session today robbed the speculation of much of its interest and trading was of a listless character. A few specialties were in demand but the general market became dull after prices had advanced slightly from the opening level. American Can improved 1 and the old 1/2 American Smelt advanced 2 points. Western Maryland surrendered most of its advance on profit-taking.

Trading was colorless and dull throughout the morning session on the exchange and no speculative movements of importance were attempted. Bonds were firm.

Trading was light before one o'clock and the leading stocks sold slightly below Saturday's close. Fertilizer stocks were comparatively weak. The market closed heavy. Traders took profits and there was some selling for the short account following the publication of the government monthly crop statistics.

Boston Copper Market

BOSTON, May 8.—Extreme dullness was the only feature of the opening hours of the copper market today. A few for the short were slightly above the Saturday close but the gain was lost before noon.

FRANK WEEDEN DEAD

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 8.—The death of Frank Weedon, well known in the textile trade of New England, was announced here today. His death occurred at a New York hotel on Saturday. Mr. Weedon was a former resident of this city and for several years was superintendent of the Weybosset mills of the American Woolen Co. Since leaving here he was superintendent of that company's mills at Dalton, N. Y., and then became inspector of all the plants of the company with headquarters in Boston. The body was brought to the home of his cousin in this city. He was 53 years old and leaves a wife.

FOREST FIRES UNDER CONTROL

WAKEFIELD, May 8.—The belt of forest fires that had been drawn around this town for the past two days was loosened today when it was believed that all of the blazes in the woodlands were under control. In all some 500 acres of good timber land have been burned over and several hundred acres of scrub growth have been scorched.

Practically all of the fires originating in other towns were stopped at the Wakefield boundary. One fire started in Saugus and worked toward this town but was held in check at the boundary line. Another blaze starting in Lynnfield and believed to have been caused by sparks from a locomotive was also checked at the town line.

WASHINGTON, May 8.—The average condition of winter wheat on May 1 was 56.1, compared with 53.3 on April 1, 51.3 on May 1, 1910, and 50.7 on May 1 ten year average. The area of winter wheat to be harvested was about 31,367,000 acres, or 1,946,000 acres

DIAZ TO RESIGN

President of Mexico Says He Will Give Up Position

MEXICO CITY, May 8.—Gen. Porfirio Diaz last night issued a manifesto to the people of Mexico declaring his intention to resign the presidency as soon as peace is restored. In this manner the president has virtually acceded to the demands of Francisco I. Madero that he make announcement of such an intention.

MADERO'S ORDERS

EL PASO, Tex., May 8.—When Gen. Madero heard of the dispatch from Mexico City concerning President Diaz's resignation, he immediately gave orders to his troops to stop marching. Couriers were sent ahead to halt advance guard. "I naturally am very glad to hear that President Diaz has made the announcement," said General Madero to an Associated Press representative. "I am going to send a telegram to him at once congratulating him on his patriotism for it certainly was an act that required the highest kind of personal sacrifice and patriotism."

PREPARED FOR ATTACK

EL PASO, May 8.—Residents of Ciudad Juarez, the Mexican city across the Rio Grande, awake today to see that they had been spared a real battle which might have resulted in one of the deadliest conflicts of the Mexican revolution. Creeping along in the thick of the night the insurgents, supposedly on their way south because they feared American intervention if it attacked Juarez, was about to

THE FOREST FIRES

Caused Great Damage in New England Yesterday

BOSTON, May 8.—Dozens of forest fires raged in many sections of New England yesterday, being more serious and numerous than at any other time this year.

While up to Sunday comparatively few buildings had been destroyed, flames in several places yesterday for a time got the better of the fire fighters and consumed dwelling houses, barns, and houses and other buildings. Thousands of acres of woodland were burned over and thousands of feet of prepared lumber were destroyed as well as considerable crop-land.

Serious Fires in Maine

The most serious fires were at Biddeford and Sanford, Me. At Biddeford the coast artillery was called out by riot call, so serious was the situation. Nearly three miles of timber land was burned over and a house and barn destroyed.

Sanford, Me., was entirely surrounded by flames which started in three different places and large ice houses at Curtis Lake were destroyed. There was little sleep for the villagers last night, for many houses in the outskirts were in grave danger.

At Bangor, Me., 150,000 feet of spruce boards and 500,000 feet of pine boards went up in smoke and flames with a loss estimated at close to $30,000.

Rhode Island had fires at Pascoag, Masonville and Glendale. The former burned over 600 acres and was not brought under control for 24 years, while in the two latter villages 200 acres had already been burned over and the fire was still spreading late last night.

Of the Massachusetts fires, one of the most serious was at Wakefield, where flames, which started in the grass, spread to the icehouses of the Reading-Citizens' Ice company, on the shore of Lake Quannapowitt, destroying the buildings with a loss of about $900. The flames from Wakefield and Reading prevented further spread of the fire with difficulty.

Uxbridge Property Burned

At Uxbridge a house and two barns were in the pathway of the forest fire and all were last night in ruins. The fire covered 400 acres of timberland and burned up 300 cords of firewood with a total loss estimated at $900. Two hundred acres was also burned over at North Uxbridge.

Chatham, Vt., the scene of another bad fire which during the day destroyed a dwelling house, burned many summer cottages and left two square miles of woodland a waste.

The village of Pleasant Lake, near Harwich, Mass., was the scene of three fires, one of which destroyed the residence and another building of Joseph F. Clark and also a cottage.

In nearly all parts of New England there has been but little rain during the past weeks and the undergrowth is extremely dry. In some portions of Maine wells have gone dry and farmers are obliged to carry water for their families and cattle many miles.

DOMINICAN FATHERS

St. Michael's Church

A band of three of those most noted missionaries, the Dominicans, opened a two weeks' mission at St. Michael's church yesterday, the first week for the women and the second for the men. The preachers are Rev. Frs. Foley, Kelly and Donahue.

The mission opened with high mass yesterday sung by Rev. Fr. Mullin and the evening service by Rev. Fr. Foley, an eminent pulpit orator who after outlining the program of the mission preached a most effective sermon on "The Christian Home." Fr. Foley is a most impressive talker and his remarks were listened to with great attention by a congregation which taxed the seating capacity of the church.

The regular evening services opened at 7:30 o'clock and it was necessary to place chairs within the sanctuary to accommodate the large number of women who were in attendance. At the evening service, Rev. Fr. Kelly recited the rosary and gave eloquent instructions on that devotion, after which Fr. Foley preached a powerful sermon on "The Christian Home." During the two weeks of the mission, the masses with instructions will be held at 5 o'clock and 8 and the evening services at 7:30 o'clock.

St. Patrick's Mission

One of the most successful missions ever conducted at St. Patrick's church came to a conclusion last evening when a congregation that crowded the great edifice to the doors heard the final sermon and received papal benediction from the zealous priest who have been conducting the missions. The Pastoral Fathers who conducted the mission were most gratified at the results.

SUPT. WHITCOMB QUEEN MOTHER

Tells Why Children Fail of Promotion

Will Not See Her Son Crowned

Commenting on a report that two hundred thousand school children in New York failed of promotion in 1910, the St. Paul Dispatch says:

"The tragedy of failure and a sentence dooming them to repeating, have come to St. Paul's children, as well as to those in other cities. Failure of promotion on the part of a normal child means a radical weakness in the educational system. Failure to know whether a child is normal is quite as great a failure."

Superintendent Whitcomb's attention having been called to this statement, he declared that failure of promotion on the part of normal children usually means non-attendance. It may be a weakness in the educational system, but it is an admitted fact that teachers cannot successfully teach children who are not in school. Sometimes they are able to promote children who do not attend more than half the time, but they will not promise even as much as that. Mr. Whitcomb would demand proof before admitting that a single child, not mentally or physically defective, was prepared for his grade when he entered it and regular in attendance, has failed of promotion in the year.

"In failure to know whether a child is normal," said Mr. Whitcomb, "we are more at fault. In Boston an expert, Dr. Kelly, examines all doubtful cases, and decides what shall be done with them. He finds them normal or nearly normal, he continues them in the school, they have been attending, if feeble-minded he advises that they be sent to the state school at Waverley, and if abnormal or sub-normal to a degree which unfit them for the ordinary public school, he orders them sent to one of the twelve special schools which the city provides. This method of dealing with such cases is excellent, and Lowell might well copy it. In fact, something of the sort is one of Lowell's greatest needs at present, for the number of abnormal or sub-normal children is much greater than is generally supposed. In Rochester, N. Y., recently 300 backward children were examined by an expert who pronounced 150 of them sub-normal, and for them twelve special classes have been formed. Physical defects which inhibit work and prevent promotion are being well cared for by school physicians and teachers, but mental abnormalities have not yet received the attention which justice to the individual, and the welfare of the schools as a whole, both demand."

BANDIT KILLED

Desperate Fight Took Place In a Schoolhouse

JEFFERSON, Ia., May 5.—Marshal Busby of Paton and a bank robber were killed in a fight between a sheriff's posse and the bandits early yesterday at a schoolhouse two miles from Paton.

The highwaymen broke into the postoffice at Paton, blew open the safe and took several hundred dollars in stamps and money. The noise of the explosion was heard by a man in the street. Marshal Busby was called, and he and armed deputies started in pursuit of the robbers, who fled south. A posse also was organized at Dana. A

"LOWELL'S STANDARDS"

Pastor Willmott Says They Are Low in Some Cases

At the First Congregational church, Sunday night, the pastor, Rev. B. A. Willmott spoke on "Lowell's Standards." The speaker referred to the vote of Lowell's representatives on the bar and bottle bill and said they were on the side of the saloon. He also told of the evil influence of the Sunday picture show.

"What, after all, is a standard? Are not the standards which govern our civic life a coming together of the opinions of men about things? In a democracy it is not true that the ultimate court of appeal is public opinion. I sat next to the president of the senate the other evening, and he said, 'the men sent to us are not there to give their opinions; they are there to express public opinion.' If this be true, it is a most vital question that we should consider the standards of judgment or morals or civic well being which dominate our lives as citizens of this city.

"We must never forget that frequently we take the noisy and clamorous utterances of a speaker as reflecting the consensus of opinion, whereas a majority of men are in disagreement with the noisy speaker. We must never forget that back of all our politicians who speak glib, noisy platitudes in public and rob the treasury in private, there lurks a steady, abiding public opinion which does not voice itself until the crisis comes. But we do well to remember also that if silent on these great questions, we give people the impression that the noisy politician interprets the real standards of morality and judgment. And so we do well to speak, at all times, our judgment on questions of civic righteousness.

"It is sometimes discouraging to a man who is trying to serve the public, either as a preacher or in public service, to have good men silent and bad men noisy; to be forgotten by all good men, and surrounded by the clamor of the self-seeking, greedy politicians.

"I have been impressed with the false standards of judgment in two or three things lately. Here is one: Quite recently a body of men and women who have lived most of their lives among the poor and given their lives for social settlement work, brought before the Massachusetts legislature a bill known as the bar and bottle bill. It was not foisted upon the public by extremists, but was put before the legislature by such men as President Eliot and the social settlement workers of Boston, and was a measure not remedial, but preventive. It was designed to save the boys and girls from the drunken orgies that take place in the home after the saloons are closed in the evening.

"Who protested? Men who had a financial interest; men who had invested large sums of money in the business. Did they care for the public? Did they care for the home, the children or the school?

"Meanwhile, we have sent to the general court in Boston, men to represent us—men who are supposed to express our standards of right, and almost without exception, when were they? They were on the side of the saloon. What was their excuse? It could not be that the devil's representatives had bought them; you can scarcely conceive such a thing. It could not be that their consciences approved of it; if so, then to what depths have we descended? The only other reason is, that they reflected our judgment, our standards; that they did what they thought we wanted them to do. That is the only charitable surmise.

"Is that the standard by which we test men and measures—that a thing is profitable, and therefore it is right? I cannot believe that this city has any such standards as that. And this measure was not to do away with the sale of liquor; it was merely to take away one of the disastrous effects of it. If our legislators reflected our judgment, they reflected standards that are false.

"There is another instance: The picture shows are running Sundays, and we are told that the foreigners want them. I notice that mostly English-speaking people are running them; and they are doing it for money, not to give to the people something good on the Lord's day. Within a short time a clean wholesome boy was taken into court as thief. He told the judge that first he had been reading bad books, and second, he had been to the picture shows, and seen how men and boys evaded the police, and thought he would like to try it. Yet no evidence that I have seen, has given voice to protest. Our public servants seem to care little about it. We are bringing into the world boys and girls with the instincts of criminals, and training them to evade the law.

"In these two things, Lowell has a low standard. They could not exist, if our standard were high enough to condemn them. In your charity and in your tolerance, have you failed to appreciate the fact that it is greed for money alone that has asked for these licenses?

First Trinitarian
Mr. H. W. Gibson, secretary of the state executive committee of the Y. M. C. A., was the speaker at the First Trinitarian Congregational church, Sunday afternoon. This subject was the "Men and Religion Forward Movement."

Pawtucket Congregational
At the Pawtucket church Sunday evening, there was a very interesting service, when several ladies who had visited "The World in Boston," during the previous week, gave their impressions of the great missionary pageant "Darkness and Light," each describing one of the episodes into which the pageant is divided: Miss E. C. Coburn told of the Indian scene; Mrs. Norman L. Penney pictured the Livingstone episode and Mrs. C. G. Coburn, the Hindoo. Mrs. A. C. Varnum gave an excellent idea of the fourth and fifth episodes. Appropriate hymns were sung, and Mr. Fred Lecheur gave a baritone solo.

First Baptist Church
At the First Baptist church, Sunday evening, the pastor, Rev. S. W. Cummings, preached on "The Pitfalls of Strong Drink." He said that subject was selected because three-quarters of the cards which were sent to him suggesting the dangers to young men in Lowell, mentioned this as the greatest of all pitfalls: "There is no doubt that it does undermine manhood and enslave a man's mind and will to the level of a brute. A city may be devastated by fire, as was the city of Bangor a few days ago, and it may in a few years rise from its ashes, to be more beautiful than before, but a man once brought down by strong drink finds it almost impossible to recover his old strength and manhood. We have schools, churches, factories and other places for the help and effort of the worker, but the saloon entices the young as well as the old into its sordid, destructive tolls. God hasten the day when men will see this as the great political question of the day, and work for the abolition of the saloon. The note of warning against strong drink must be uttered by the pupil again and again. No young man today is obliged to yield to the invitation to take the social glass; on the contrary, he who refuses is respected and esteemed the more.

CHASE PROPERTY

At all the masses in St. Columba's temporary church yesterday, Rev. Fr. Degan, the popular pastor, made the interesting announcement that the Josephine M. Chase homestead and its accompanying two acres of land

REV. FR. DEGAN.

In Mammoth road had been purchased for a new church for St. Columba's parish while the homestead will be utilized as a parochial residence.

The deeds were passed Friday afternoon conveying the property to the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Boston and the sale was made through the office of Robert E. Crowley & Son.

Fr. Degan also announced that Contractor Patrick O'Hearn, would begin work today on an addition to the barn 10x60 feet which will be used as a temporary church with a seating capacity of 500. The permanent church will be located on the south side of the homestead facing Mammoth road. The temporary structure will meet the demands of the parish for the present and will afford them ample comfort.

In order that the parishioners may inspect the new house, Rev. Fr. Degan will hold a reception and whilst party at the Chase residence tomorrow evening.

CARBONOL

For Sanitary Housekeeping

Wherever there is dirt there are disease germs. Carbonol destroys these. These germs lurk even in comparatively clean places—such as rugs, draperies, corners, closets, etc. A few drops of Carbonol in the water used in cleaning or a dust cloth wrung out of such water, at once makes these germs harmless.

A few drops used in the dish water dissolves the grease quickly. A little sprinkled in kitchen corners and cracks drives away water-bugs and roaches. Try it. 10c and 25c a bottle.

FOUND IN RIVER

Man Was Missing Since April 24

BOSTON, May 5.—The body of Wm. G. Multhead, 28 years old, of 35 Cleveland street, Arlington, was found floating in the Charles river on the Cambridge side, near the Charlesgate hospital, yesterday afternoon about 2.30 o'clock. Patrolman Joseph Doherty discovered the body, which was but a few feet from the shore. He drew it ashore and notified police headquarters.

The body was fully clothed, the hands gloved. A small amount of money, together with a Boston elevated employee's ticket, with the number 11,768, was found in the pockets. On one hand was a seal ring with the initials W. G. M.

Medical Examiner Thos. M. Durell of Somerville was notified and ordered the body removed to Littlefield's morgue, Lafayette square. After viewing the body he said that it probably had been in the water two weeks. In his opinion death was due to drowning.

Multhead had been missing from the home of his sister, Mrs. C. W. Small, in Arlington, with whom he lived, since April 24. He had been employed by the elevated road as timekeeper on subway construction. He was a native of Chatham and was unmarried.

Three months ago his mother died, and since that time he had not been his usual self.

FOR CHILDREN AT THE FIRST TRINITARIAN CHURCH

The children of the cradle roll, kindergarten and primary departments of the First Trinitarian Congregational Sunday school were given their annual May party Saturday afternoon in the vestry of the church in Dutton street, and as usual the affair drew forth a large attendance.

The children under 7 years of age enjoyed their games in the intermediate room under the charge of Miss Jessie Jenkinson, while the children from seven to ten years of age were entertained in the main vestry under the charge of Miss Elsie M. Cragin. After the games, which lasted from three to four o'clock, an entertainment consisting of recitations by Isabelle Roy, Greta Pickering, Harold Sundry, and several others with a song by the kindergarten was given under the direction of Mrs. George E. Ames.

Mrs. J. T. Roy presided over the festivities and refreshments were served. The affair was under the direction of the superintendent of the three departments of the school, Mrs. George E. Ames, of the primary department, assisted by the teachers: Miss Elsie Cragin of the kindergarten, assisted by Miss Nellie M. Jenkinson, and Miss Mary A. Martin of the cradle roll assisted by Miss Louis M. Kittredge. The National association assisted largely in the success of the party.

THE FIRE DEPT.

Was Kept on the Jump Yesterday

The local fire department was kept on a jump yesterday answering alarms for grass and brush fires.

About three o'clock in the afternoon a portion of the department was called to extinguish a grass fire which broke out in Tenth street. The fire, however, was quenched before any damage was done.

Later in the afternoon a fire broke out on Allen street and shortly after the dump fire a grass fire broke out in Hildreth street.

At two o'clock an alarm from box 125 was sounded for a fire in a bundle of rags in a tenement in Dummer street. The damage was slight.

The alarm from box 74 Saturday night about 9 o'clock was for a brush fire in Campus road which kept the department members busy for more than an hour. No damage.

An alarm from box 75 shortly after 8.30 o'clock last night called the department to a grass fire on New Noy street. There was no damage.

THE OPERA HOUSE

One of the biggest and greatest treats in store for the patrons of the Opera House on Thursday, May 11th, is the coming of Frederic Thompson's biggest success, "Poly of the Circus," with dainty and winsome Georgie Gips as Polly.

Mr. Thompson has provided a cast of well known players and a grand array of circus talent, among whom are the Dutton family of equilibrist, the Barlow dog and pony show, "Little Hipp," a performing elephant that does everything but talk, the Koster family aerial and horizontal bar acts, clowns, acrobats, gymnasts and bareback riders of note, also carrying horses, dogs, ponies and the greatest performing elephant in the world, "Little Hipp."

This play is a sermon on narrow-mindedness, is simple, sweet, natural and charming, and discards criticism. It is a play for mothers, wives, sisters and sweethearts.—Adv.

RICHARD CARLE

To make the hard working public laugh is quite as laudable a mission as to instruct those who really prefer relaxation, so that a musical comedy constructed solely for laughing purposes and interpreted by the funniest comedian of the day and a strong cast, should be a welcome visitor. In these strenuous days. Such is "Jumping Jupiter," in which Richard (himself) Carle has been making the record run of the season in Boston, and which he will present at the Opera House on May 24. Carle, of course, wrote the piece to fit his own unique talents and old personality, but he has also constructed a number of other excellent roles, which find capable interpreters in the persons of Edna Wallace Hopper (specially engaged), Will H. Phillips, Ina Claire, Joseph C. Milton, Helen May, Helen Raymond, Burrell Barber, et al., and a large contingent of pretty girls. Karl Roschina, of "Madame Sherry" fame, wrote the charming music of "Jumping Jupiter."—Adv.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Lovers of good music should not fail to visit the Merrimack Square theatre this week. The feature number, given by Pierce and Reagin, operatic troubadours, is the highest-class musical act seen on a local stage in seasons. Both are excellent singers and their offering gives both ample opportunity to display their wonderful skill. Miss Roslyn is a soprano of reputation and her songs include some of the classics from the best masters of the world, while Mr. Pierce possesses a sweet baritone voice of considerable range and volume. Their program is most entertaining, one that should meet with the approval of all. It has in all of the western cities, where they have appeared and surely should delight local audiences, for Lowell theatre-goers are noted for their appreciation of good music. ## daily at 4, 7 and 10 o'clock.

The rural engagement of Marlow and Plunkett will be headed with glee by many. This pair amused audiences daily some months ago and in their new offering, "The Deal Students," they are said to be at their best. Wheeler and Harcourt are comedienne par excellence. They have an excellent bill and they give it in excellent style. Veager and Kemp, known as "The Village Cut Ups," present an acrobatic turn that is unique and at the same time most entertaining. Miss Graham, the regular soloist, has been engaged for another week, and will be heard in a new series of the latest songs. The five reels of daylight motion pictures will again be among the very best shown in Lowell. Tonight the Merrimack Square orchestra will give the last in the series of operatic selections, "The Defender." The whole bill is one of more than ordinary merit and should attract large audiences daily.—Adv.

HATHAWAY THEATRE

This week will give the theatre-goers of Lowell a fine opportunity to see the Donald Meek stock company until next fall, as the company closes with the week and is presenting as a closing attraction that uproariously funny and high class comedy, "The Bachelor's Honeymoon," one of the great laughing hits of the past season, with Donald Meek and Severin DeDeyn in particularly attractive roles. The play tells the story of a young old man named Bachelor who is the father of twin daughters of the susceptible age and old personality, but he has also constructed a number of other excellent roles, which find capable interpreters in the persons of Edna Wallace Hopper (specially engaged), Will H. Phillips, Ina Claire, Joseph C. Milton, Helen May, Helen Raymond, Burrell Barber, et al., and a large contingent of pretty girls. # STABBED TO DEATH

Body of Man Was Found in Front of His Home

Alleged Murder Occurred at a Drinking Party at Chrisholm, Me.—It is Thought That Three Men Were Involved—Man was Stabbed in the Neck and the Right Side

LIVERMORE FALLS, Me., May 8.—Stabbed to death by one or more fellow-countrymen, according to the opinion of town officials, was the fate which befell Domenico Ventrelli, whose body was found early today in front of his home on Church street at Chrisholm. Broken glasses, an empty beer keg, smashed furniture and bloodstains all over a room in the house furnished evidence of the scene of the crime and that there had been drinking. Officials learned that three men thought to have been concerned in the affair, especially as Ventrelli had been accused of paying unwelcome attentions to the wife

He had been stabbed once in the neck and twice in the right side, the knife penetrating the lung. Sheriff W. B. Small and two deputies started an investigation today and a coroner's inquest will be held.

Ventrelli was of a quarrelsome disposition, they learned, and within a year, while drinking, entered the post-office and threatened the postmaster with a gun. The latter took the gun away from him and ejected him from the office. He had been here a year or more.

WM. N. OSGOOD

Addressed the Boston Central Labor Union

Hon. William N. Osgood was the educational hour speaker at yesterday's meeting of the Boston Central labor union, speaking on "Scientific management and scientific co-operation." In the scientific management of industry, Mr. Osgood indicated as a first step the squeezing of the "water out of capitalism" as a means of stopping one great item of waste.

WILLIAM N. OSGOOD.

On railroads alone, he computed from the railroad manual, the people of the United States paid about $1,000,000 a day in dividends or interest more than they ought to pay. This, he argued, was sheer waste, looked at from a national standpoint, though it was obviously regarded as a cherished privilege by those who received the money. Added to the above sum, he indicated other sums running into the millions of inflated capital in industrial trusts and public monopolies exploited by private corporations. These sums were characterized as a perfectly needless waste of effort, entailing, as it was held to do, added labor and energy by the mass of people to keep up the flow of dividends and interest on capital that represented no original contribution to the public weal.

"Scientific management," Mr. Osgood observed, "was an unfortunate term." "It seems utterly devoid of warmth and sentiment. At its mention a picture at once presents itself of a group of unsympathetic and hard-headed capitalists and industry planning and scheming and straining every nerve to devise some way to increase the profits of their plants, to decrease expenses and cut corners.

captains do not appear to be philanthropists, but cold, calculating men, impelled by bloodless science. We are reminded that science has no innate need of a heart and a circulatory system, and that it may pervert to the stars or the insensible rocks.

"The systems which our imaginary group may evolve may be mathematically correct and unassailable as a system if it were to be applied to machines and inanimate things. But this would be science of management is also to be applied to living men, women and children.

"How to control and manage employees without arousing their suspicions of additional burdens and new expropriation seems to disturb the slumbers of some directors of modern industry and to excite their powers of invention. Their engineers advise them to go slowly, to use great tact and diplomacy and to convert one employee at a time to divide and then conquer.

"Scientific management will surely lead still more to destroy personal contact between employer and employee already too nearly destroyed. It should not be narrowly applied. To be of great value it must embrace not only the improved welfare of labor and capital devoted to a single industry, but also the improved welfare of all labor and all capital devoted to all industry."

ANNUAL MEETING

OF THE QUARTER OF A CENTURY CLUB

The annual meeting of the Quarter of a Century club of the J. C. Ayer Co. was held at the clubroom Friday night and the reports of the various officers were read and accepted.

The secretary's report showed a loss of one member during the year, Mr. Thomas Wood, who at the time of his death was the oldest member of the club. The treasurer's report showed a comfortable balance in the bank.

Through the courtesy of the treasurer of the J. C. Ayer Co., the club celebrated the birthday of Dr. J. C. Ayer, by an outing in Boston, attending in the afternoon, the production of "La Bohème" in the opera house, and in the early evening enjoying a dinner in the new Venetian room of the American house. Most of the members returned by train at an early hour.

The membership of the club at this time is David Dewar, president; Cornelius K. Colman, vice president; J. A. Bailey, secretary; John Buckley, treasurer; C. Oliver Barnes is now the oldest employee of the J. C. Ayer Co. in point of service. The other members are John A. Henderson, Arthur West, Albert L. Lombard, Harry Bellamy, John McPherson, William Sawyer and Miss Harriette Maloney.

EXPERTS SAY BURNS WILL MAKE WOLGAST SHOW TRUE FORM

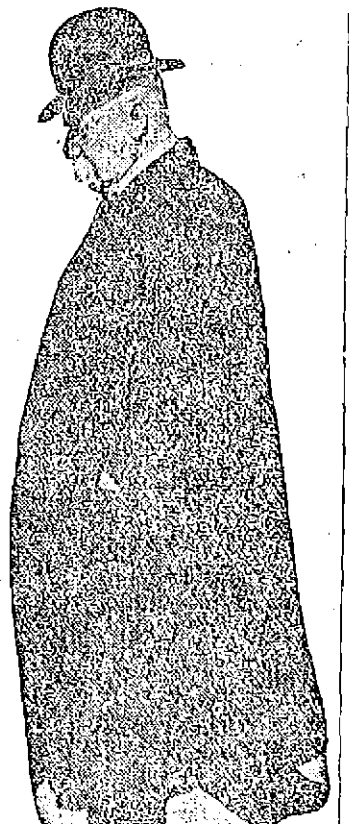

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—Many light critics predict that Ad Wolgast, the lightweight champion, will more than have his hands full when he meets Frankie Burns, the local boy, here May 20. The latter is in great shape for the battle. Experts who have visited him at the training camp say he has improved wonderfully in the last few weeks and will make the champion go some to win out. Burns has a decision over "One Round" Hogan in his credit. Within the last few months he has defeated every lightweight of note here. Wolgast's admirers say the title holder will add another K. O. to his list. The length of the contest is twenty rounds.

SEN. GALLINGER

New President of the Senate

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Senator Jacob Harold Gallinger of New Hampshire, who will be chosen president pro tempore of the upper house to succeed Senator Frye of Maine, occupant of that post for many years, was born on a farm in Cornwall, Ont., on March 25, 1837. He was one of twelve children and received a common school

SENATOR JACOB H. GALLINGER

and academic education. First he was a printer and then became a physician, graduating in 1858. He followed his profession until he entered congress. He made the speech nominating Benjamin Harrison for president in 1858. Mr. Gallinger was a member of the house of representatives of New Hampshire in 1872, 1873 and 1891; member of the state senate in 1875, 1879 and 1880. He was surgeon-general of New Hampshire, holding the rank of brigadier-general. He was elected United States senator to succeed Henry W. Blair for the term beginning March 4, 1891, and was successively re-elected in 1897, 1903 and 1909. His term will expire on March 3, 1915.

BRYAN COLEMAN

Led in Les Miserables League

Les Miserables league came to a close last week and the Brownies by consistent work have succeeded in winning the championship. It was expected that the Hustlers would put up a strong fight for first place, but they were unable to hold the pace set by Les Miserables.

Bryan Coleman of the Hustlers was high man, being the only member of the league to have an average of over 100.

The Brownies won first place in points, prize value $16, with the Hustlers second in points, prize value $12.

The Brownies won first team three string total of 1150, prize value $6.

Five won the second team three string total of 1454, prize value $3.

The Jolly Five won the first team single string of 517, prize value $3.

In the individual rolling J. Martin of the Brownies won the first prize for the highest three string total, 342, prize value $3.

B. Martin of the Brownies second three string total 327, prize value $2.

Kempson won the second single string of 123, prize value $1.

Of the individual averages Coleman of the Hustlers rolled 39 strings with an average of 109.25, prize value $5.

Gilligan of the Brownies rolled 21 strings with an average of 84.72, second, prize value $3.

House and Barn in No. Billerica Destroyed by Fire

A threatening fire broke out in North Billerica, Saturday night, and destroyed the house and barn of Mrs. Angelino Fitchfield on the Allen road. It consisted of a one and half story house with a large company, under Chief Ernest Bartlett, made a quick run to the scene, which is about a mile and a half from the fire station. When the firemen arrived they saw at once that the buildings could not be saved and they directed their efforts to the houses nearby. The barn owned by Arthur T. Bartley and a henhouse of Daniel Donahue were ignited by sparks from the Fitchfield blaze, but the firemen extinguished them before any damage was done. A grass fire was also started at Fox Hill, from the flying sparks, but was quickly put out. The Fitchfield property was razed to the ground. # JAKE CAME BACK

Boultes' Playing Electrified His Most Severe Critics

Thirty-five hundred people saw Jake Boultes come back strong on Saturday and silence all his critics.

In the crowd were many who hadn't seen a game before and who took their cue from their friends, hence when Jake appeared on the greenward to play third they yelled: "Aw, get a third baseman. Wake up, Jake." "The tin can for you," and kindred remarks which combine to do anything but make a fellow go good. But Jake closed his ears to the cry of the rabble and made up his mind to show them some class, which he did. Four times up, four runs, four hits with a total of six. He had only one fielding chance and he accepted it. Before the game was over everybody was rooting wildly for this same Jake who has been accepted as a daily since the season opened. Stick to it, Jake, old boy. Even Long John now believes there's some good in you.

Wolfgang was on the slab for Lowell and for six innings was invincible, stuffing them out, two and three at a click. When Lowell got a crack score lead Wolf let up and gave them a few hits. He was right there with all kinds of goods throughout. The whole Lowell team was on its mettle and fielded like a charm along with getting 14 hits off Nukey Abbott and a new pitcher named Scott who is said to be a corker.

The only disappointing feature of the game was the non-appearance of the regular umpire, Swornstedt, and Spring did the work in his place and while they umpired faultlessly the crowd would rather see a regular umpire doing the job.

First Inning
Neither side scored in the first inning. Cargo was the first man up and he hit to Boultes and was out at first. Wolfgang fanned Strands and Wallace and in the latter half of the inning Moulton struck out, Barrows flied to Wallace and Cooney hit to Strands and was out at first.

Second Inning
In the second inning Callahan flied to Barrows. McGovern, with a game leg, limped to the plate and sent the ball to left center field for a single. He was allowed a base runner, but Logan flied to Moulton and Egan flied to Wright.

The Lowell batters found the ball in the latter half of the second inning and after ten batters had approached the plate and the third man was declared out Lowell scored four runs. "Nukey" Abbott was pounded hard and after several runs had been scored was relegated to the bench and Scott was placed on the slab. Magee was the first man up and he hammered the ball over Egan's head for three bases. Fluharty bunted along the first base line and was out but Magee was held on third by the catcher. Magee scored on Wright's single. Boultes singled over second base and Wright flied to get beyond second. Huston hit to left field for two bases and Wright and Boultes scored, but owing to the ground rules the latter was sent back to third base.

At this point Abbott was taken out of the box and Scott substituted. Scott could not get the plate and Wolfgang walked and filled the bases. Moulton forced in Boultes and then Barrows flied to Wallace and Huston scored on the pile out. Cooney was hit by a pitched ball and went to first. Once more the bases were filled and Magee put in his second appearance at the bat during the inning but he hit to Logan and died at first.

Third Inning
Lowell indulged in another carnival of batting in the third inning and succeeded in batting out five more runs. Dunn flied to Barrows, Scott drew a base on balls at Cargo hit to Cooney who got Scott at second and sent the ball to first for a double play on Cargo.

In the latter half of the inning Fluharty hit to Cargo and the latter threw bad with the result that Fluharty went to second. Wright fanned the breeze and Boultes and Fluharty worked the hit and run play, Boultes hitting to right field and Fluharty scoring. Huston singled to right field and when Wolfgang drew a free pass the bases were filled Moulton hit to left field for three bases and Boultes, Huston and Wolfgang scored. Barrows struck out, but Cooney singled to left field and Moulton scored. Cooney tried to steal second and was nailed.

Fourth Inning
In the fourth inning Wolfgang was on his mello and fanned Strands, Wallace and Callahan.

Lowell scored two more runs in the latter half of the inning. Magee drew a base on balls and went to second on Fluharty's sacrifice. Wright flied out and then Jake Boultes made a hero of himself by making his third consecutive hit, a three bagger and Magee scored. Huston scored Boultes with a single to center field, but Wolfgang hit to Strands and was out at first.

Fifth Inning
In the fifth inning McGovern made his second hit which was also the second hit made by Lynn. Logan hit a red hot grounder to Moulton and was retired at first. Egan went out to Wolfgang to Wright. Dunn hit to Wright and was out at first, Wolfgang covering the bag.

In Lowell's half Moulton, Barrows and Cooney went out on flies to Wallace in center field.

Sixth Inning
Scott and Cargo struck out and Strands popped a fly to right field and was third out.

Magee flied to Callahan, Fluharty flied to Logan and Wright hit to Logan and died at first.

Seventh Inning
Lynn broke the ice in the seventh inning and scored two runs. Wallace hit to Moulton and died at first. Callahan singled to left field and Magee allowed the ball to go through him and Callahan went to second. McGovern struck out. Logan sent the ball over the left field fence for a home run, scoring Callahan and himself. Egan got a Texas leaguer to left field, but Dunn hit to Moulton and was out at first.

Lowell scored another run in the seventh inning. Boultes kept up his good record and sent the ball over second base for his fourth single. He went to second on Huston's sacrifice. Boultes scored on Wolfgang's two-bagger to center field. Moulton hit to Logan and was out at first while Barrows hit to Egan who made a pretty running catch.

Eighth Inning
In the eighth inning Scott struck out and Cargo hit to Wolfgang and was out at first. Strands hit to left field for a three-bagger. Wallace hit one too late for a three-bagger. Strands scored. Callahan hit to Cooney forcing Wolfgang at second.

Cooney flied to Egan. Magee bunted down the third base line and heat the ball out. Fluharty hit to right field for a single and Magee went to third. Wright hit to center field and two to first for a double play.

Ninth Inning
McGovern made his third single in the ninth.

Logan hit to Moulton and died at first. Egan flied to Magee. Dunn hit to the center field fence for two bases. McGovern scored on the play. Scott struck out. The score:

DIAMOND NOTES

Fall River today and tomorrow; Haverhill, Thursday, and Lawrence, Friday. Four home games this week.

"Little Jawn" and "Little Tommy" Devine are with the Fall River team which means a scrappy game.

Maybe Jake Boultes didn't show up his critics, Saturday. Four times up, four hits with a total of six and four runs. The bunch that yelled loudest for his release were his most enthusiastic supporters on Saturday.

Wolfgang pitched a beautiful game even if they did hit him hard at the finish.

"Nukey" Abbott is slower than ever.

Tom Logan got the first consignment of "Bull Durham" for a home run on the local grounds.

Old Boy Terry McGovern has his batting eye with him. Terry recently injured the ligaments of his leg and played Saturday's game under difficulties.

Come on with an umpire Jake. Stafford preferred.

While Swornstedt and Spring umpired a faultless game, the crowd still would rather have a regular umpire.

Cooney, Moulton and Wright pulled off a classy double play while Moulton was full of ginger on second.

The attendance at Saturday's game shows that they will support a winning team. The fans like plenty of batting and the Lowell team this season is batting most satisfactorily.

Frank Leonard looked as natural as life on the gate.

Several auto parties came up from Lynn but they had little opportunity to root.

SCOTT FLUHARTY

Lowell Outfielder Leads League in Batting

Jimmie Magee Heads List of Run-Getters, With Moulton in Second Place—Wallace of Lynn Leads for Stolen Bases

Scott Fluharty, the young man from Panama who plays regularly for Lowell, leads the New England league in batting with an average of .464. There are some players with better averages but of all those who have taken part in at least four games, the Lowell outfielder is the leader. Jesse Burdett, champion last year, is a good second and Hale of the same team is third, tied with Smith of Lynn. Joe Briggs of Lawrence is entitled to some consideration as the league leader, as he has an average of .390 and has played in every game, three more than Fluharty.

Brookton has the best showing of any team among the twenty-five leagues, Captain Connaughton having seven of the twenty-five. Worcester has five, Lynn four, Lowell and New Bedford three each. Lawrence two and Fall River one. Haverhill cannot produce one man in the first twenty-five. There are more than thirty men chasing the ball for 300 or better.

Magee, another Lowell man from Panama, leads the league in runs scored with 16, closely followed by his teammate, Moulton, with 14. Carlstrom of Lawrence is third with 12.

Wallace of Lynn leads in stolen bases with eight. Phoenix of Lawrence being second with seven and Devine of Fall River third with six.

Hale of Worcester leads in sacrifice hits with five, several trailing along with three and four each. Brookton has the cut on pitchers. Ward and Weaver having won six games between them. Wolfgang of this city has also done good work.

TEXTILES WON FRANK L. KRAMER

Great Day for Pitchers Defeated Joe Fogler in at Danvers Three Mile Race

The Lowell Textile school team went to Danvers, Saturday and defeated the St. John's Prep. team by a score of 5 to 3. Asphwall was the leading particular star of the Textiles, keeping the nine hits allowed the home team while scattered and fanning the men, well at bat he got two singles and a three bagger. Heffernan pitched even a classier game for St. John's, allowing eight hits and striking out 14, and he got three hits. "Twas a great day for pitchers.

Capt. Thaxter, while not shining at the bat, was right there behind it. Clearly performed well, while Troy and Lynch batted well. The score:

THREE DOLLARS PER YEAR. TWENTY-FIVE CENTS PER MONTH

The sworn daily average circulation of The Lowell Sun for the year 1910 was Sworn to by John H. Harrington, proprietor, Martin H. Reidy, business manager, and Alfred Pilotte, pressman, of The Sun, before me, January 2, 1911. J. JOSEPH HENNESSY, Notary Public.

The demand of the hour is for more small playgrounds and the improvement of the large ones.

There is still as much need as ever for that ball ground on the east side of Fort Hill park. The ball ground on Shedd park is still far in the future.

DEFENDING THE SHOE MACHINERY LEASE

Congressman Weeks, in speaking against the removal of the tariff on shoes, defended the United Shoe Machinery leases while at the same time pleading that the export of American shoes has decreased, a fact due to the use of the machinery leased by this very company in England. The same company is teaching the Japanese and the Chinese how to use its machines in competition with the United States in the manufacture of shoes. We do not think Mr. Weeks' address had the merit of consistency.

NO PARTITIONING OF THE SOUTH COMMON

Neither the park board nor the city council has any right to set apart any portion of the South common for the special use of the militia as a drilling ground. If the companies wish to use the common for drilling purposes, same as do the high school boys, they are welcome to do so, and they will be amply protected from interference by the police if necessary. Judge Pickman of the park board has under consideration the legal authority of the board in this matter, but it will not take the judge long to decide that the board has no right to cut off a portion of any of our public parks to be used as a drilling ground for the militia. If the board gets a piece of land for that purpose and lays it out specially for drilling purposes, we do not believe there will be any serious objection to its exclusive use by the militia.

The South common, however, is a public park; to be used for the benefit of the people at all times, except where the legislature has made certain concessions to the board in connection with holidays or big celebrations.

THE CONTAGIOUS HOSPITAL.

In order to give the readers of The Sun a clear idea of the merits of this controversy over the location of the contagious hospital, we present today a diagram drawn to scale and showing the exact location of the proposed hospital in its relation to Chelmsford street and the present Chelmsford street hospital. We believe it would be a grave mistake to locate a contagious hospital so close to the street and so close to a large pauper institution occupied by hundreds of people in feeble health. The matter of constructing a sewer about 1000 feet in length seems to be one of the deciding arguments in favor of the site selected. That sewer will have to be constructed anyhow in the near future, and it should not enter into the consideration at all. With a good site elsewhere available there is no need of crowding a new hospital between the street and the old, and so near the car line that passengers may be deterred from riding past with children lest they should catch some of the contagious diseases treated there. The location of the hospital where proposed would also link it too closely with the pauper institution, a fact that might seriously impair its usefulness.

CARNEGIE AND THE PEACE MOVEMENT

Twenty-one American republics joined in paying tribute to Andrew Carnegie as the "Benefactor of Humanity" the other day. Mr. Carnegie has done much to bring about a better understanding among these republics and to induce them to live in peace and mutual good will. There are many republics in that number that do not amount to much, many, too, that have hitherto paid little heed to the movement for universal peace. The Pan-American union, however, is likely to operate strongly in the future in favor of maintaining the Monroe Doctrine, so that the burden will not rest entirely as it has done upon the United States.

The movement for universal peace is beginning to be seriously considered by the great military powers, such as England and Germany. The rivalry between these two countries is the greatest obstacle to the peace movement. England is willing and in fact anxious to see the movement taken up by the great powers, and in all probability the time will come when a majority of the powers will agree to enter a peace compact and to compel all the other powers to submit to its provisions. There will always be some ambitious ruler unready to enter such an agreement. The world cannot wait for such stumbling blocks. They should be overruled by the majority in favor of a peace compact that will make it compulsory in all civilized states to submit their disputes to The Hague tribunal where otherwise they would resort to the deadly arbitrament of war.

The peace congress just held at Washington was a notable event, judged from the utterances of President Taft, Cardinal Gibbons and Andrew Carnegie. There have been many gatherings of this kind, but never before one at which the speakers seemed so hopeful and enthusiastic. The address of Cardinal Gibbons was a most eloquent plea for universal peace as may be judged from this single paragraph:—

"When the waters receded from the earth after the deluge, Almighty God made a solemn covenant with Noah and his posterity that the earth would never again be destroyed by water, and as a sign of this covenant He placed a bow in the heavens. Let Britain and Columbia join hands across the Atlantic and their outstretched arms will form a sacred arch of peace, a rainbow which will excite the admiration of the nations and will proclaim to the world that with God's help the earth shall never more be deluged with bloodshed in fratricidal war."

One of the strongest peace arguments put forward at any meeting was that which exploded the false assumption that no nation could submit to arbitration any question involving its honor without losing its sovereignty. This was pronounced a gross fallacy both by President Taft and Andrew Carnegie, the latter showing that sovereignty meant power over all to dispose of any question at will and with supreme authority. Heretofore this contention which some attribute to Roosevelt has been one of the stock arguments of those who opposed the peace movement. It has been completely refuted by eminent authorities.

SEEN AND HEARD

A moving picture of a family moving from one flat to another because the landlord wouldn't paper the dining-room again might deter other families from moving.

There is a good deal of talk about abolishing the fly, but perhaps you have noticed that the man who makes window screens doesn't seem to be at all concerned about the future of his business.

Here's another summer coming, and the automobile lawn mower hasn't been invented yet!

No matter what a little mite a baby is, no name seems too grand for him, to the mother's mind.

The man who can build a hen-coop without getting bruised on his hands must have had manual training when he went to school.

If you did a foolish thing once, there is always somebody who is willing to remind you of it.

What is the moral of this story: A small boy in a town out west stole a newspaper that the carrier had just left at a citizen's front door. As he ran across a railroad track directly afterward, he caught his foot in a frog, and was held fast in front of an approaching train. By waving the newspaper that he had stolen, he attracted the attention of the engineer in time to save his life.

SPRING FEVER

When birds awake at half-past three instead of half-past five. The way they did a week or so ago—You're either sorry you ain't dead, or glad that you are. And either way, you've got it, when the birds begin to show. And the winds begin to blow.

Then poetry will thrill you to your very finger tips. Or drowsiness will keep you in the bay.

The perfume fills your nostrils and the violet breathes your lips—Or you fall for chills and fevers, influenza, colds and pips. When the glamour of the springtime comes a-leaping down this way, As it leaped along today!

It stole into my window, at the very peep of dawn, Ere the dream I had of summer was forgot.

At its touch upon my eyelids, all my sorrowing was banished, all my pain was all ambition to get up and clean the lawn.

Can I write a vernal idyll, now the weather's got so hot? Well, I rather think I'll not!—Ted Robinson in Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SPRING FEVER

The days are growing warmer now. We feel the breath of spring. If we're attentive, pretty soon we'll hear the bluebirds sing. The swelling pines willows all are fuzzy, fat and big. And, as of yore, man simply yearns To get out doors and dig!

How strange, with each recurrent year.

The call back to the soil! The pleasure so inviting, That you forget the cold to dry. What though the neighbors poke their fun. You do not care a fig! When springtime comes, you always want To get out doors and dig.

Well, don't resist! Hup up the hoe! The spade, the rake, the fork. Get all the seeds you fancy from Those fellows in New York. If any one turns up his nose, Why, let him be a pig! But you, put on your garden clothes, And get out doors and dig!—Somerville Journal.

HOW TO GET RID OF PIMPLES

It is truly remarkable how Cadum, the new remedy, causes pimples to disappear. Bad cases are frequently helped in a week, and sometimes even sooner. Cadum causes pimples to dry up and fall off, leaving the skin as soft and smooth as a baby's. Pimples are a disease of the skin and are not caused by bad blood, as many people suppose. Cadum helps these annoying and disfiguring facial blemishes because it can be applied direct to the trouble, and its soothing, antiseptic and healing powers stop the itching at once. Cadum is equally good for rash, blotches, scaly skin, chafings, eczema, sores, eruptions, acne, psoriasis, etc. 10c and 25c per box at all druggists.

Worcester, Massachusetts, was issued today by Census Director Durand. It contains a summary comparing the figures for 1901 and 1909, by city totals, prepared under the direction of Mr. William J. Stewart, chief statistician for manufactures, bureau of the census. The figures are preliminary and subject to such revision as may be necessary after a further examination of the original reports.

The summary shows increases in every item. There was a 58 per cent increase in the cost of materials used; 15 per cent in the number of salaried officials and clerks; 48 per cent in the value of products; 42 per cent in the miscellaneous expenses; 37 per cent in the value added by manufacture; 33 per cent in the capital invested; 24 per cent in the average number of wage-earners employed during the year; and 23 per cent in the number of establishments.

There were 550 establishments in 1909, as compared with 470 in 1901; an increase of 110, or 23 per cent.

The value of products was $77,148,000 in 1909, and $52,148,000 in 1901; an increase of $25,000,000, or 48 per cent. The average net establishment was approximately $132,000 in 1909, and about $111,000 in 1901.

The value of products represents their selling value or price at the plants as actually turned out by the factories during the census year, and does not necessarily have any relation to the amount of sales for that year. The values under this head also include the amount received for work done on materials furnished by others.

The preliminary totals for steam laundries for Worcester, Massachusetts, in 1909, are given separately, as follows: Number of establishments, 13; capital, $174,000; cost of materials used, $50,000; salaries and wages, $168,000; miscellaneous expenses, $55,000; value of products, $310,000; number of salaried officials and clerks, 23; and average number of wage-earners employed during the year, 357.

BIG INCREASE

MADE IN THE EXPORTS OF MANUFACTURERS

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Exports of manufactures in March were at the rate of more than one billion dollars a year. The actual figures of the month are: Manufactures ready for consumption, $74,499,206; manufactures for further use in manufacturing, $27,345,645; total, $101,844,851, this figure being at the rate of more than one billion dollars for a 12-month period. The share which manufactures formed of the total exports of domestic merchandise during the month was: Manufactures ready for consumption, 62.4 per cent; manufactures for further use in manufacturing, 12.4 per cent. The two groups of manufactures thus forming 63 per cent of the total exports of the month. One year ago the March exports of manufactures ready for consumption were 47.4 million dollars in value; and those of manufactures for further use in manufacturing, 22.4 million, the two groups forming a fraction less than 50 per cent of the total exports of domestic merchandise. Thus the exports of manufactures as a whole in March, 1911, exceeded by more than 15 million dollars those of March, 1910. For the 12 months ending with March, 1911, the exports of manufactures amount to 430.4 million dollars, exceeding by 69.2 million the figures for the corresponding period of the last year; while manufactures for further use in manufacturing exported during the 12 months of the present fiscal year aggregated 228.1 million dollars and exceeded by more than 25 million the figures for the corresponding months of the preceding year. Should the exports of the remaining three months of the fiscal year be at approximately the same rate as those of March, the total exports of manufactures, including those ready for consumption and those for further use in manufacturing, would exceed 600 million dollars in the fiscal year.

Considering the March exports by principal articles, those showing the largest growth when compared with March exports a year earlier are: Iron and steel, and manufactures thereof, 15.3 million dollars increase; copper pigs, bars and ingots, an increase of nearly 2 million dollars; agricultural implements, over 1 million dollars; cotton manufactures, 1.1 million dollars; refined mineral oils, nearly 1 million dollars; vegetable oils (chiefly of cotton-seed), three-quarters of a million dollars; cars and carriages, including automobiles, 1.4 million dollars; chemicals, drugs and medicines, a half million dollars; and photographic goods, an increase of nearly a half million dollars. Exceptions to the general rule of greatly increased exports during March include boards, doors and planks, which the increase was but about $100,000 over the 2 1/2 million dollars worth exported in March, 1910; and leather and manufactures thereof, which decreased from $5,120,392 in March, 1910, to $4,955,027 in March of the present year.

Many less important articles also show increased exports in March when compared with the corresponding month a year earlier. Among these are aluminum manufactures, paintings and statuary, brass manufactures, brooms and brushes, celluloid, cement, clocks and watches, dental goods, earthen stone, and chinaware, furs, glass and glassware, manufactures of india rubber, scientific instruments, jewelry, lamps, and chandeliers, paper and manufactures thereof, perfumery, silk manufactures, and starch. In most of these, increases also occurred in the nine months ending with March when compared with the exports during the corresponding period of 1910.

A study of the distribution of the exports of manufactures shows that in some instances the growth was confined to a few countries only, while in other cases it extended to practically every section of the commercial world. Of the exports of agricultural implements, for example, aggregating 5 million in March, nearly 1 1/2 million went to Russia in Europe, three-quarters of a million to Canada over a half million to France, and about one-third million to Argentina; while Oceania and Africa are also markets for a considerable share. The exports of automobiles, valued at 1 2/3 million dollars during March, went chiefly to Canada, three-quarters of a million dollars, and the United Kingdom, one-fifth million, no other single country showing as much as $100,000 worth during the month. Copper pigs, ingots, and bars, exported from the United States are marketed almost exclusively in Europe, the 7 million dollars' worth exported in March having gone to Netherlands and Germany, each about 2 million dollars' worth; the United Kingdom, 1 million; France, three-quarters of a million; Italy, nearly a half million; and other Europe, two-thirds of a million dollars, but 109 thousand dollars' worth going to all other countries, chiefly Canada. Cotton cloths, on the other hand, made but little headway in European markets, but go chiefly to China, the Philippines and other oriental countries. South America, and the West Indies and Bermuda, iron and steel manufactures are widely distributed, certain grades being sent to the United Kingdom, Germany, France, and other industrial communities, and numerous other manufactures to practically every section of the world. The United Kingdom buys over half the sole and upper leather exported from the United States, while the exported boots and shoes go mostly to Cuba, Canada, Mexico, and but about 25 per cent of the total to the United Kingdom and other European countries. American illuminating oil is consumed in every part of the world, Great Britain, Germany, the Chinese Empire, and India, being especially large markets, though large amounts go also to practically all the important countries and sections.

LOSS IS $25,000

Bangor Given Another Fire Scare

BANGOR, Me., May 8.—Bangor had another fire scare yesterday afternoon when, at about the same time the conflagration started last Sunday, two alarms came in from the lower section of the city and clouds of black smoke sent thousands of people down the Hampden road.

The blaze was in a long line of lumber piles at the Stems lumber company's mills in East Hampden about two miles below the city. The direction of the stiff wind was fortunately away from the main plant otherwise a half-million dollar loss might have been added to the state fire loss for 1911. Bangor firemen, assisted by many citizens, fought several hours to save the mill and a valuable pine grove. A number of summer cottages, the American teahouse and other buildings were in the path of the flames, while the mills and buildings on the Brewer side of the river were in danger from flying sparks.

The fire was confined to the piles of lumber, which were mostly dry spruce and pine boards. The loss is estimated at $25,000. Insured.

ST. ANTHONY'S

ANNUAL REUNION OF PARISH OPENED WITH CONCERT

The annual reunion of St. Anthony's parish opened last evening in Lincoln hall with a sacred concert and will continue three nights this week.

There was a large attendance of parishioners and friends of the parish, and the concert was excellent. It was as follows: Piano solo, Arthur Martel; trio, "Miserere" from "Il Trovatore," William Gookin, John J. Dalton and Edward P. Shea; solo, Miss Katherine Mullin; solo, "Ah, So Fair," from "L'Arba," Mr. Dalton; reading, Miss Green; solo, selected, Mr. Shea; piano medley, Mr. Martel; solo, Mr. Gookin, and trio, selected, Messrs. Gookin, Dalton and Shea.

On Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday evening the affair will be continued in old St. Anthony's church, Gosham street.

MATHEW NEWS

A largely attended and very interesting meeting of the Mathew Temperance Institute was held yesterday morning in the rooms of the Institute in Dutton street. President James J. Galt presided. Many matters of interest pertaining to the welfare of the society were acted upon. The Easter Monday ball committee will meet this evening and approve bills that were contracted in the running of that social event a few weeks ago. The musical committee met after the regular session of the society and went through a large affair of business. The rehearsal for the affair will be held tomorrow evening. Inasmuch as the show is only three weeks away, rehearsals will now be held continuously from now on till Friday, May 20.

THOMAS CAR IN LOWELL

In Europe, according to show reports, the long-stroke, large-valve, six cylinder motor has revolutionized automobile construction. In this country, the leading manufacturers of high grade cars are adopting this type motor. One of the first American cars of this design is the Thomas 8-40, which is now in its third year, and will be standardized and perpetuated by this company.

One of these cars is now on route visiting twenty-five New England towns, after having covered about 6,000 miles, which includes Lawrence, Mass., Haverhill, Mass., Dover, N. H., Concord, N. H., Franklin, N. H., Manchester, N. H., Nashua, N. H., Marlboro, Mass., Ware, Mass., Springfield, Mass., Holyoke, Mass., Westfield, Mass., No. Adams, Mass., and Northampton, Mass. Automobile enthusiasts in Brockton, Taunton, Fall River, New Bedford and Plymouth, Mass., who have been visited, expressed themselves as highly pleased with the performance of this automobile which will be in this city Monday and Tuesday, May 8th and 9th, at which time Thomas representatives, Mr. C. P. Walker, with headquarters at the Yawley hotel, will be ready to give (the public an opportunity to inspect this machine which has a wonderful record for giving satisfaction, not one car of this model, it is said, having been offered for sale by a New England owner.

This automobile brings to notice the police patrol recently purchased by this city, which was manufactured by the same company and which has proven its efficiency and reliability.

An Old Fashioned Remedy

It is a satisfaction in these days when there is so much restless striving after things just because they are new, to find an old-fashioned thing that people stick to. Stick to it, because it's good and they know it's good, and know of nothing else that will accomplish the same results. We mean Tolleine. Twenty years ago this remedy, now recognized as probably the most effective healing compound ever discovered, was introduced through a house to house canvass by Mr. B. F. Miller of Greenfield, Mass. The merit of Tolleine was so apparent in the immediate relief it afforded in cases of inflammation, both internal and external, such as coughs, colds and all throat troubles, cuts, burns, bruises and sores that the sale of Tolleine spread rapidly all over New England. And we believe we are safe in saying that today there is no household remedy of any description that has more ardent, long standing and steadfast supporters than Tolleine.

MEMORIAL SERVICES COAL LAND CLAIMS

of Eagles

The annual memorial service of Lowell aerie, No. 233, Fraternal Order of Eagles, was held last night in Colonial hall. There was a large attendance including members of the order and their friends and also relatives of deceased members. Five members of the order died during the year and tender tribute was paid each by Alderman James J. Gallagher who was the orator of the day. The program was both appropriate and impressive.

The interior of the hall was decorated in an appropriate manner. The stage was clothed in black while in the background were five vacant chairs electrically illuminated. On each side of the five chairs was the organization emblem illuminated by electricity.

The following musical program was carried out:

Funeral March.....Chopin
"God Wills It".....Gounod
Eagles' Orchestra
Quartet, "There Is a Land,".....Crownshield

Address, Patrick McCann, worthy president. Solo, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul,".....McDougall

Mis May E. Whiteley. Address, John H. Farrell, past worthy president. Solo, "Angels Land,".....Pensile

Roll Call, John M. Hogan, secretary. Solo, "The Light of Heaven's Own Day,".....Briggs

Oration, Bro. James E. Donnelly. Quartet, "Some Blessed Day,".....Nevin

Nocturn, "Reverie,".....Behr

Thomas H. Corcoran. James J. Gallagher's tribute to the dead was in part as follows:

My friends: Many words in our language have been exalted as having special sweetness and significance. Mother, home, friend, country and many others, too long a list to be enumerated, are watchwords which inspire the purest ideals and noblest deeds; yet one by one that which they represent passes from our lives. The silence of the grave closes over our dear ones. We see them no longer in their accustomed places, and our hearts grow heavy with sorrow. Life for a time loses its charm and we are desolate indeed. Then a ray of light pierces the gloom. Memory whispers that all is not lost.

And I, with faltering footsteps, journey on. Watching the stars that roll the hours away, Till the faint light that guides me now is gone.

And, like another life, its glorious day shall open o'er me from the empyreal height. With warmth and certainty and boundless light.

Those we have loved, and who have made the brightness of our lives, return to us by its light, and we see them in the guise of other days. The loving words, the tender ministrations, the communion of soul with soul, even the garments they wear are made real, and in memory they are with us again. Blessed memory! It is well that occasionally we should pause to pay tribute at thy shrine, for thou alone art constant; nothing can rob us of thy peace if we too have been true.

In the dreariest day or the darkest night we may withdraw into silence and recall from out the past the scenes we enjoyed, the faces we loved. And he is happy, indeed, who can do this with no tinge of bitterness or regret. O memory! Thy chamber walls are hung with regrettable pictures. Old age never exists in memory's blissful land. There the lines of mutability are not written. Every day we are building for eternity. It should be an inspiration for the best of what we are capable, that as we are, so shall we live in the hearts of those who will sorrow because of our going out. Yet even here memory is our steadfast friend.

It is the pleasant things of life, the bright spots, the friendly hand clasp, the eyes which looked lovingly into our own, which we miss upon when bereft of the living presence. Our tender thoughts of them soften and sweeten us who linger behind.

They are tenderer to the living who are true to the dead, and these companions with them aggrandize life, broaden its range of vision and afford us a glimpse of that ideal life, touched with a diviner comprehension and toned to a diviner calm.

Once a great teacher in the school of patriotism, likened our life to a traveled road at the end of which is a great wayside inn where all must meet and the only salutation is "Good Night." This cannot be. All reason cries out against it. The night he would describe is but the passing shadow of an hour.

This inn is not a "windowless palace of death," but rather a place of life, wherein hope has set her many windows facing to the sky, and in every pure life and abiding faith has fixed an immovable star that shines and shines until it is lost in the blazing sunshine of eternal life.

Charity throws a silver mantle over the feelings, the shortcomings of those who have preceded us into the mysterious future.

It is the good men do which we contemplate, and which lives after them. It is rare indeed that something of praise may not be truly spoken side each open grave. Remembrance of their acts of charity and deeds of kindness, and the cherished memory of their generous and lofty characters—a rich legacy to us—will burst into blossom and lavish a fragrance on the air; and these treasures bequeathed will ever abide with us. We nurture the loftiest sentiments and emblem them with our tears; and this service of praise and remembrance, and the adornment of their graves tends to exalt the good and keep it fresh and green as amaranth in our memories, and their names, rescued from oblivion, inscribed on the imperishable tablets of our souls.

It is an augury of the coming of "Peace on Earth" that even in this time of unrest, of wars and international disturbance, of a carnival of

WASHINGTON, May 8.—After having been out of the public eye for some time, the Cunningham Alaskan coal land claims which brought about the Ballinger-Pinchot congressional investigation because of charges by Louis Glavis, a former field agent of the land office, today approached their final determination. Attorneys for the Cunningham claimants appeared to argue their case before Secretary of the Interior Fisher, Land Commissioner Bennett and members of the board of law review of the general land office. It was expected that the hearing would be concluded tomorrow.

Er. W. Hughes of Seattle and John Gray of Wallace, Idaho, are representing the claimants. Commissioner Bennett is charged with handing down the decision. Secretary Fisher determined to sit at the hearing, however, so that in case an appeal is made to him time and expense may be saved for all parties concerned.

The Cunningham coal land claims, 33 in number, are so called because it was Clarence Cunningham of the state of Washington, who, while in Alaska in 1902, discovered the coal which led to the filing of claims by himself and by 32 others. Opposition to the final granting of the claims was due to the charge that there was a conspiracy to defraud the government.

Glavis, who wrote to President Taft charging former Secretary Ballinger with maladministration of the "public land laws, started his fight against the Cunningham claims early in 1908. He asserted that through an assignment of the Cunningham claims to a monopoly of Alaskan coal.

The Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee filed two reports, the majority one exonerating Mr. Ballinger and the minority one sustaining to a large degree the allegations made by Glavis. No action respecting the merits of either finding was taken by congress and since the proceedings were directed chiefly against Mr. Ballinger, his resignation forestalls a congressional verdict. The majority did not pass upon the merits of the claims, declaring only that "if they are regular patents they should be allowed."

live. Nor is this a vagary woven in loom of fancy; for we are guided by the truths of revelation and the strongest analogies of our nature.

The crowning glory of science and of our age is the disclosure that we are standing on the borders of an unseen universe, vast and limitless.

When we reach the upper of the natural, we have only touched the lower of the spiritual; it does not yet appear what we shall be, but we concur in the almost universal belief that love universally reigns, and for those who crime without parallel, that the principles of fraternity should be predominant, as it unquestionably is.

Helpfulness is the keynote of the grand symphony of the future.

The grandest objects of our association, mutual assistance, helpfulness, cheer, protection among your living and tender sympathy for the mourning ones, wins the benediction of a world, the administration of angels, and the "well done" of God. You brothers of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, will never finish the work so nobly begun.

Your grand organization, with its pronounced doctrine of the "faith that inspires and revelation that assures," that "though the fullness of time will bring the consummation, when the sword shall be turned into the pruning hook," you are advancing a step towards this great end. I can only say God hasten the day—but which is sure to come—when all the instruments of war will be converted into the implements of husbandry—when the people of all nations and tongues shall stand together in the brotherhood and majesty of enlightened conscience, and when he who sits in his great supremacy upon the throne of the universe shall be recognized as sovereign of all.

And so to you, absent, yet ever present, brothers, but to whom the "Great Hereafter" has become the "Glorious Here," we send our thoughts after you today with no misgiving. We are one with you; living the same life, always in close touch with you. We long the gates will open and others of our great organization will pass through and over. Not into darkness, but into light. Not into tears, but into joy and in the presence of ever living loveliness. It is but a few steps beyond our vision. The frontier of mortality is but an imaginary line. They who have crossed the river now stand hand in hand, and heart and heart united are walking the grand, the endless, the beautiful avenues of the Eternal City. We call them dead, but are they dead? Let us rather say they have only begun to have been translated. It means the fullness, the grand symphony of "life—the eternal music of the soul."

My Eagle brothers, if I may, for I have been one of you, your association is a grand one and offers a glory upon humanity by reason of its sublime record, its power and influence exerted for good in our land.

It merits the pride cherished of its work which has extended and broadened to immense proportions, until now there is in our country a total membership of about 310,000, and in our own aerie, about 750, willing and apt workers, second to none in aims and influence.

It will live and prosper to develop manliness above self and a never-ceasing safeguard against the turmoil of demagogues and the ragings of the debased.

My friends, this memorial service is no idle ceremony, for most worthy of the living is worthy commemoration of the dead. They need but sympathy, but they need our remembrance. Tears keep alive memories of dear ones as dew of heaven freshen the flowers that bloom over their quiet rest, and the very music of this hallowed hour has wafted cooling draughts to fevered brains; a freshening breeze to languid souls, a joy and an inspiration to those so fond of cherishing remembrance of loved ones in eternal repose.

Let us live for those who love us. For those whom we love are true, And the heaven that smiles above us, And the good that we can do.

An Important Sale This Week of the New Ever Sharp Shears

Beginning today, we offer 1000 Pairs of these elegant NEW TENSION SHEARS at half and less the regular prices. Sizes 7-Inch, 8-Inch and 9-Inch. Regular prices 75c and $1.00.

Only 39c

There's no rivet to wear out, no screw to get loose. The cutting edge is indestructible and will wear a lifetime. They will cut anything and everything from net and tissue paper to a heavy horse blanket.

A FIVE YEAR GUARANTEE GOES WITH EVERY PAIR OF THESE SHEARS

These SHEARS are dependable in every way. No matter how many pairs of the ordinary kind you may have, there is always a place for these. For SHEARS that are always sharp, certainly they are a great asset to any home. Dressmakers will find these SHEARS especially adapted to their particular needs and because of their particular shape, they will not tire the hands as ordinary SHEARS do.

Adjustable Detachable Self-Sharpening

Made from the best carbon steel by a new process which insures strength and a keen cutting edge. The Tension Spring Attachment does away with re-sharpening entirely, and enables the user to set the tension on the rivet so that any kind of material intended to be cut with SHEARS may be cut with perfect ease without tiring the hand. The Tension Spring takes up all wear on the rivet, making the SHEARS practically indestructible, with no wear out of them. A simple turn of the thumb screw shown in the engraving tightens up the blades as closely as may be desired.

DIAZ TO RESIGN

Continued

PRESIDENT DIAZ' MANIFESTO
MEXICO CITY, May 8.—The announcement that President Diaz will resign when peace is restored, expected Saturday was made last night.

As to when peace is actually restored, General Diaz reserves the right to the judges. In the words of his manifesto, it will be "when, according to the dictates of my conscience, I am sure that my resignation will not be followed by anarchy."

The president declares that his determination not to relinquish the presidency at this time is not due to vanity or love of power, because, as he points out, power now has no attraction, accompanied as it is by tremendous responsibilities and worry. He says he is prompted solely by a desire to conserve the best interests of his country.

The president makes it clear that he does not propose to abandon the presidency while his country is at war, and that he will not do so at any time under compulsion.

The promise of the president is made to the people of Mexico and its receipt by revolutionists will be incidental. That is will be sent to them immediately, however, to private individuals and that it will be regarded as entirely satisfactory by them, is taken for granted.

It was at a cabinet meeting yesterday afternoon that General Diaz announced to his ministers his decision. For two hours and a half they discussed the terms of the manifesto, and at the conclusion of the meeting there remained nothing to do but to secure its official promulgation.

Only in a general way does the manifesto refer to the revolution. The government's position is that General Diaz could not have made a public statement at an earlier moment, and it is indicated that the revolutionists failed to observe the amenities of the peace negotiations by making them public.

Officially it is said that Madero and his advisers were guilty of betraying an agreement by injecting into the conference either secretly or openly the question of the president's resignation. It is declared that it had been agreed in confidence that this point should not be permitted to become an issue.

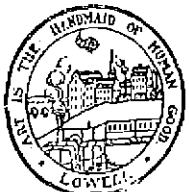

Proffering the declaration of his willingness to retire, the president discusses the political conditions of the country and the efforts that have been made by the government to establish peace. He calls attention to the progress already made in the direction of adopting the anti-revolution law and declares that the projected reform of the electoral laws and of the judiciary are being studied.

He shows further that the government in all its acts wishes to confirm the demand of the public in so far as it is wise and for the best interests of the country.

Events leading to the beginning of negotiations for peace are taken up.

and it is indicated that the government is disposed to take into consideration proposals the revolutionists have to make.

Regarding the point upon which the rupture of negotiations occurred, the manifesto declares that compliance with the demands for Diaz' resignation could not be entertained because his immediate resignation would doubtless precipitate anarchy throughout the country, whereas if his retirement was fixed for a future date the government would not have sufficient stability to assure the return of normal conditions pending the selection of a new executive.

In concluding, Gen. Diaz appeals to the patriotism of the people, calling upon them to act together for the peace and progress of the nation, and endorses the army.

At no place in the manifesto is there made mention of a new election. According to the constitution resignation is equivalent to political death so far as it affects the succession. The vice-president would assume the executive chair, and he in turn would be followed by the minister of foreign affairs. In this case the vice president is seriously sick and is in Europe on an eight-months' leave of absence in an endeavor to regain his health. Should Vice-Pres. Corral not be back in the country at the time the president leaves his post the new incumbent would be Minister de la Barra, the choice of the rebels themselves for provisional president. What course affairs would take once the vice-president or the minister was in power, remains to be seen.

Although the announcement of Gen. Diaz that he would resign once his country was at peace will not reach the rebels through official channels, it can be regarded by them as nothing less than compliance with their chief demand. Officials and civilians in the capital believe that Madero will not quibble over the method and if he is sincere in his desire to end the war he will at once order the cessation of hostilities.

I understand the immense sacrifice which we make in this Our field of officers, especially our generals, have manifested with great insistence their desire to take the city at hand or to sacrifice their lives in the attempt. "Gen. Orozco especially, who at the last time when he was near to the city of Juarez could not attack, considered that it was a military obligation that he should not retire a second time without making an assault. But, showing an example of patriotism and abnegation, with sorrow he has joined me in this; but I promise you that which I also promised him, which is that from now on we will make a very active campaign, which will carry you into many battles, where you will be able to satisfy your legitimate desire of fighting for your country and your ardent wish to cover yourselves with glory.

In a word, I promise you that we will make a triumphant march until we have at the capital of the republic, where you will receive the reward which your patriotism and self-sacrifice have fully earned: Effective suffrage and no re-election.

"Camp of the army of liberation on the shores of the brave, before Ciudad Juarez, on the 7th day of May, 1911, "Francisco I. Madero, Provisional president of the republic of Mexico."

To Muster 20,000 Men

General Madero, it is believed, will march due south to Madero, near the point where he stopped recently, prior to his march to Juarez.

He intends to carry the fighting into the state of Coahuila, and mobilizing all his forces, effect a junction with Ambrosio Figueroa and the other southern rebel chiefs and attack Mexico City.

All the provisional governors who hitherto have been in the United States, consulting with the junks of the revolutionists, now will return to their respective states.

"One month more and we'll have Mexico City." This was the oft-repeated phrase with which the rebel leaders last night prepared for the march. Rebel detachments are scattered throughout the state of Chihuahua and are now believed to number 4000 men. With the additional troops which the rebels expect to recruit on their march, they hope to muster 20,000 men for their grand attack on the capital.

A report that General Rabago, with about 1000 federals, had left Torreon, near Chihuahua, immediately after the armistice was broken off, reached here last night.

There is a strong likelihood of an engagement between Rabago and a detachment of the insurgent army.

About 7 last night the insurgent outposts fired a few shots toward the federal trenches. The federals returned the fire but in a few minutes the insurgents moved away.

It is thought the insurgents vanguard which already has started south, decided to give the federals in Juarez a farewell salute.

MANIFESTO BY MADERO

EL PASO, Tex., May 8.—Fearing complications with the United States, Francisco I. Madero, Jr. has given orders to all the revolutionists on the Mexican border to withdraw from the frontier.

He, himself, with all the insurgents before Ciudad Juarez will proceed southward, his objective point being the City of Mexico.

Gen. Madero in a manifesto to his army yesterday cited the Douglas, Ariz. incidents and declared that while the taking of Juarez might be an immense military advantage, it would bring about complications with a nation "which has always given us proofs of its friendship," and with whom an international conflict would be probable.

"On to Mexico City" was the cry last night in the Madero army as the men prepared to break camp.

The peace negotiations have been a hopeless failure. The political chiefs gathered yesterday for a final conference, completed the organization of the provisional government and bade farewell to their leader. Two commissions were appointed, one of which is to be an executive consulting junta to receive any new proposals from the Mexican government and the other to direct the diplomatic or commercial relations of the revolutionists with the United States.

It was no secret at the Madero camp yesterday that the abandonment of border warfare is in line with the policy of the insurgents from now on. Gen. Madero, however, reassured his men of his faith in them, explaining his plans in the following manifesto:

"When you were invited to come and take the important city of Juarez you all responded to my call with a cry of enthusiasm. I know that your efforts would have proved irresistible and that very quickly this city would have fallen into our hands; but since arriving at the border I have received knowledge that when our brothers took another town, which is also on the international line of the United States, the bullets of those fighting fell on American territory and claimed many victims.

This brought diplomatic complications, which would be inevitable if an attack were made on Juarez, and might bring about very serious complications with a nation which has often given us proofs of its friendship and it devolves upon us to sacrifice this immense military advantage which would result in the taking of Juarez, which would probably result in an international conflict.

"This brought diplomatic complications, which would be inevitable if an attack were made on Juarez, and might bring about very serious complications with a nation which has often given us proofs of its friendship and it devolves upon us to sacrifice this immense military advantage which would result in the taking of Juarez, which would probably result in an international conflict.

HARVARD MEN

May Not Protest Dartmouth Victory

CAMBRIDGE, May 8.—The general opinion among the Harvard athletic authorities today appeared to be in favor of allowing Dartmouth's victory on the track Saturday by a score of 50 to 57 to stand without protest, despite the fact that Smith had scored five points for the Green in the high hurdles, kicked down six barriers in violation of the rule recently adopted which disqualifies a runner who knocks down more than two.

Manager Floyd of Harvard said that he was talking with Manager Hillman regarding an agreement when the pistol sent the hurdlers away, while Referee Billings states that he heard something of such an agreement so he made no ruling when Smith broke the tape, leaving six hurdles flat in his path.

Athletic Manager Garcelon stated today that there would be no appeal to the referee for a decision on the high hurdles.

100 CHILDREN DOUBLE EVENT

A very imposing service was held in St. Andrew's church, North Billerica, yesterday morning when about 100 children received their first communion. The event took place at the 7 o'clock mass, which was celebrated by Rev. T. J. Cornell, O. M. I., pastor of the church, who also administered the sacrament to the children. A very large congregation was in attendance and at the close of the service, Rev. Fr. Cornell, O. M. I., addressed the children and explained to them the significance of the event, which he said was the happiest of their lives up to the present time.

After the mass a dainty breakfast was provided for the children, the meal being served on the grounds of the church by the ladies of the parish. Two long tables were used, cross-shaped in arrangement, and at these the children were seated, girls on one side of the board and boys on the other. Above the tables hung a large American flag, emphasizing the fact that while the youthful participants were enrolled as soldiers of God by the administration of the sacrament they had just received, they were also reminded by the presence of the stars and stripes that a soldier of God would also prove true and loyal to his country's cause.

The following women were in charge of the outdoor banquet: Mrs. M. Mrs. Dennis J. Devire, Mrs. E. H. O'Brien, Mrs. Thomas E. Sheridan, assistants, Miss Mary Twomey, president of the Children of Mary; Miss Helen Murphy, vice-president of the Children of Mary; Miss Lena Cassidy, president of the Blessed Virgin Mary sodality; Misses Edna Page, Frances Rogers, Elizabeth Rogers; Misses Agnes Collins, Anna Higgins, Agnes Hennessey, Marcelle Healy, Alice Maxwell, Alice Hill, Florence Mahoney, Mary Ready, Isabel Kearney, Mary Cassidy, Ella Cassidy, Mary Higgins, Edna McCusker, Mary O'Brien, Mrs. Michael Hayes, Mrs. Henry Mahoney, Mrs. B. W. Kearney, Timothy McCarthy, William McCarthy, Charles Hayes, Joseph O'Brien. In the afternoon at 3 o'clock, vespers service was held and the children were enrolled in the scapular.

The 41st anniversary of the foundation of the first French Catholic parish of this city was celebrated in an elaborate manner in the churches yesterday. The occasion was a double event in the old temple in Lee street, being also the feast of St. Joseph. Rev. Fr. Watelle, O. M. I., pastor of St. Joseph's parish, officiated at high mass at St. Joseph's church, which was celebrated at 10.30 o'clock. He was assisted by Rev. Fr. Baron, O. M. I., as deacon and Rev. Fr. Racette, O. M. I., as sub-deacon. The choir was to repeat the Easter program, but on account of the illness of Mr. Joseph A. Bernhardt, this plan had to be abandoned and the harmonized mass of the second tone was rendered under direction of Mr. Frank Gourdeau, with Mrs. Joseph A. Bernhardt at the organ. The soloists were Telesphore Trudel, E. J. Laroche, Edgar Montmarquet, the latter of Manchester, N. H., Telesphore Male and Frank Giguere.

The altar was prettily decorated and the electrical effects were beautiful. The sermon a powerful one, was delivered by Rev. Fr. Watelle, O. M. I., whose text was "St. Joseph." The able preacher spoke at length on the patron of the parish, and then he gave a brief sketch of the parish and its work since its foundation, paying a tribute to the late Fr. Garin, O. M. I., the zealous and indefatigable worker.

The church was filled with the faithful, many coming from other parishes, especially a number of the old pioneers, and the ceremony was a most impressive one, as it reminded some of nearly 50 years ago.

At St. Jean Baptiste church the Easter music was repeated by the choir under the direction of Dr. George E. Calais. Mr. Arthur J. Martel presiding at the organ. A large congregation attended and the sermon preached by Rev. Fr. Denzol, O. M. I., D. D., Rev. Fr. Brullard, O. M. I., D. D. was the celebrant.

Notre Dame de Lourdes
Rev. Fr. Lamotte, O. M. I., officiated at Notre Dame de Lourdes church yesterday and Rev. Fr. Magnan, O. M. I., delivered the sermon. The Easter program was repeated under the direction of Mr. H. A. Racicot. Miss Alma Alexander presiding at the organ. The solos of the mass were sustained by Misses Blanche Levesque, Cora Renaud, Beatrice Maren, Emma March, Marianne Desilets and Grace Loran. At the offertory Miss Bella Lavigne and Mr. H. A. Racicot rendered a beautiful "Ave Maria."

A NEW HOSPITAL

DONATED BY REV. PETER AND LATE REV. M. RONON

BOSTON, May 8.—Archbishop O'Connell announced at the dedication of St. Margaret's hospital, Cushing avenue, Dorchester, yesterday, that the donors of the building were the Rev. Peter Ronan, pastor of St. Peter's church, Meeting House hill, and the late Rev. Michael Ronan, who for many years was pastor of St. Peter's church, Lowell, and that the gift had been made in memory of their mother, Mrs. Margaret Ronan. It had been known that the money to erect the building was donated, but it remained for the archbishop to reveal the identity of the donors.

ALL IRISH PARTIES UNITED IN MOVEMENT TO REVIVE GAELIC TONGUE AND ANCIENT ARTS

By GEORGE WAUGH ARNOLD.

THAT it is possible to get Irishmen together on one object and keep them enthusiastic workers at it for seventeen years, though they differ widely in religious and political views, is proved by the remarkable history of the Gaelic League.

Its messengers now in America from the parent body on the "old sod" are the Rev. Father Michael O'Flanagan and Mr. Eionan MacColum, and to look after the art industry side of the campaign are the Misses Marian O'Shea, Brigit O'Quinn, Ellen Neone and Brigit MacLaughlin. A mass meeting will be held in Chicago on May 11 to celebrate the success of their winter's propaganda, and they hope to take back to the educational fund of the league an even greater fund than the $55,000 subscribed by American sympathizers five years ago.

League Has Dual Purpose.

The league has two purposes. One is the restoration of Gaelic as a spoken tongue and the other the revival of Irish arts and industries.

The headquarters are in Dublin, in charge of President Douglas Hyde, and there are branches in each of the thirty-two counties in Ireland, with a total membership of 60,000. When the league was organized there was scarcely a school in which Gaelic was taught. Now there are 131 schools in which the whole course of study is bilingual—English and Gaelic—and in 3,056 out of the 5,538 Irish primary schools the ancient language is taught either as an ordinary or as an added subject. Then the league has established six summer and four winter colleges in which Gaelic is the only language used. And the crowning victory is the determination of the senate of the National university to make Irish a necessary subject for entrance beginning with the year 1913.

The league's success in the revival of arts and industries has been quite as great. Thousands of young folks have been made self-supporting, and thousands more are making bigger salaries than they ever dreamed of making except they emigrated.

Tremendous Industrial Boom.

An interesting example of how Ire-

land's high class exports are increasing is shown in its trade with just one American city, St. Louis. Four years ago, when Father O'Flanagan first began to arouse in that city public interest in the league, the average value of goods imported from the Emerald Isle was $20,000 per year. But in 1910 there passed through the St. Louis custom house Irish goods to the value of $215,187, divided as follows: Linens, $213,488; fabrics, $25,159; handicrafts, $12,742; lace, $5,002; miscellaneous, $37,768.

As Father O'Flanagan said in one of his speeches, "You who have endured the pangs of sorrow, the heartbreak, when you parted with your parents, your relatives, your sweethearts and friends when leaving the Green Isle know what it would have meant to you to have been able to secure profitable employment at home."

Collens as Pretty as Clever.

The four young ladies who have come over to show their American sisters how to train their nimble fingers to reproduce old Irish art work are experts in their respective lines and are as pretty as they are clever. They come from the "four winds of Erin," and each has the typical beauty of her locality. One has black hair and deep blue eyes, another has shimmering bronze hair and brown eyes, another brown hair, light blue eyes and marble skin, and another auburn hair and gray eyes.

Miss O'Shea lectures, while Miss O'Quinn makes Linen lace and Irish crochet, Miss Neone makes marquetry and rouspou leather work and Miss MacLaughlin weaves rugs.

At the lectures the collens wear gowns that are historically perfect reproductions of Gaelic fifteenth century dress. They are loose fitting tunics made in one piece with a kirtle of cord, from which a purse is suspended. The designs are copied from the Book of Kells, in Trinity college, Dublin.

"It will probably surprise most Americans, as I am frank to say, it did us," said Mr. MacColum, "to know that on this continent there are 500,000 persons who speak Gaelic. There are 50,000 in New York city alone. You can imagine their interest in this revival of their mother tongue, and we have published for them in the last three years scores of works in Irish—histories, novels, plays, poems and operas."

Great Temperance Factor.

One very important feature of the league is its constant teaching of temperance. The clergy, the employers, the police and even the publicans are praising it for the fine results it has achieved. Dr. Hyde's idea is to have all through the long winter frequent Gaelic concerts and dances, and the 130 organizers and traveling teachers must know how to dance and sing and play the pipes as well as understand the intricacies of the Irish vocabulary.

Then in summer there is the fairs, or, as we would say, educational festival, and, thanks to the league influence, the sight of even one drunken man at these gatherings is extremely rare. It is a strict rule of the league that no intoxicants shall be offered for sale at its festivities, and no meetings for either business, study or sport may be held in a house where liquor is sold.

The league is also reviving the old Irish games and customs, including the ceillidh, or roadside dance, and the hurling match. It recognizes that healthy amusement has become a necessity in modern life. It works to elevate the tastes of the people. While promoting real fun and humor, it steadily discourages not only objectionable entertainments, but also those which are merely vulgar.

Gaelic Older Than Latin.

Gaelic is the principal living branch of the old Celtic language, which was spoken over western Europe before Rome was built. The names of many rivers and mountains in western and central Europe prove this, just as the Indian names of places in America prove that that language was once spoken in the greater part of the United States. For instance, there is the river Gironne, in France. That would be written in modern Irish "Garbh-ann," which means rough river. The Rhone would be "Ruadhann," meaning red river. The termination "abinn," meaning river, is found all through Great Britain under the form "avon." There are plenty of good old Gaelic words in English, like "gale," spelled "galeor," which means plenty or enough. "Shanty" is simply "sean-tigh," which means literally "old house."

There are nine varieties of lace made in Ireland, and there are about 10,000 girls constantly engaged in its manufacture, while there are two or three times that number who intermittently or not altogether as a means of livelihood work at lacemaking. From 50 to 75 cents per day of eight hours' work will perhaps be the average pay of the lacemakers, although it should be stated in this connection that a dollar there has about twice the purchasing power which it has here.

All Irish lace is made by hand. The implements are simple—sewing or crochet needles, depending upon the design of the lace to be made, and for certain varieties a small frame, upon which the threads are woven. Irish point lace is the most expensive variety and sells for about $35 per yard. It requires two or three weeks for an operator to produce a yard of this lace. Of course there are masterpieces in lacemaking, just as in any other branch of art. As the value of a wonderful painting may assume fabulous proportions, so very large sums are paid for lace creations which may be classed as masterpieces.

Revival of the Bagpipe. And through the persistence of the league the old Irish bagpipe has come into its own again. It disappeared from Irish residences except to a few remote districts in the west until its reappearance at the Felsenma brought it again into popular favor. The women are taking up the study of the bagpipe as well as of the harp, and a collection with the drones over her shoulder makes a delightful picture,

MILLION BOOK LIBRARY LATEST ADDITION TO AMERICA'S WONDERS

HALF OF THE FRONT OF THE NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY, LOOKING DOWN FIFTH AVENUE FROM THE CORNER OF FORTY-SECOND STREET.

ON Tuesday, May 23, the magnificent New York Public library, built at a cost of $7,200,000 and containing more than 1,000,000 books, will be opened to the public.

At the ceremony will be President Taft, Governor Dix, Mayor Gaynor and so many other men of mental prominence that it is impossible for space reasons to give even a partial list of them.

The great marble pile on Fifth avenue, covering the frontage from Fortieth to Forty-second street, has already become one of the sights of the metropolis. Its architectural beauty would make it a feature even of the great art centers abroad.

Mayor Seth Low laid the cornerstone on Nov. 10, 1892, after three years had been spent in removing the old Egyptian reservoir that had been a landmark for our grandfathers. The stone weighs eight tons and has beneath it a leaden box containing newspapers of current date from all over the world, coins of the year's minting, a history of New York city, a history of the various libraries incorporated in the great institution and copies of the speeches made at the laying.

When Samuel J. Tilden died in 1886 the project to unite the Astor and Lenox libraries on one foundation became ready for fulfillment through the fortune he left to the city for educational purposes. It took nine years to settle the legal complications arising over the will.

Several of the Carnegie circulating libraries were associated with the Lenox and Astor in the new foundation, which was incorporated as the New York Public Library. The city agreed to provide a site for the institution and put up a building on condition that a circulating library should be part of the foundation and that the library should be open evenings, Sunday afternoons and holidays. With these conditions accepted the terms of the open competition among architects were announced, and from the designs offered the best six were to be accepted. This competition was won by Carrero & Hastings on Nov. 11, 1897.

In the meantime the site of the old reservoir had been secured, and in June, 1899, the work of removing this structure was begun. The foundations on which the present library stands were started in the spring of that year.

Some statistics of the New York Public Library are necessary to a conception of the great scale on which the building has been erected. It is 390 feet long on Fifth avenue and 270 feet deep from Fifth avenue. Leaving out the courtyard on the Fortieth street side of the building, it extends over an area of 115,000 feet.

The reading room, on the Bryant park side of the building, is the largest apartment of the kind in the world. It is 295 feet long, 77 feet wide and 50 feet high. Beneath this reading room is the main stack room, divided into seven stories. The stack room is fitted with sixty-three miles of shelves, capable of holding 2,700,000 volumes. As other rooms for books are capable of holding about 800,000 volumes, the library may house as many as 3,500,000 books.

In addition to the main reading room there are 200 smaller rooms meant for various purposes.

As a home for the valuable books it contains the new building is naturally fireproof. The bookshelves are of bronze, and this material and marble practically make up the whole building. There is 375,000 cubic feet of marble in the library, and wood is used only in the wainscoting of certain rooms.

The history of the New York Public Library is epitomized in the inscriptions that occupy the three spaces on the attic. On the left in the square space are the words, "The Astor Library, founded by John Jacob Astor for the advancement of useful knowledge, 1848." On the center space is the inscription, "The Lenox Library, founded by James Lenox, dedicated to history, literature and the fine arts." On the right plaque is the inscription, "The Tilden Trust, founded by Samuel Jones Tilden to serve the interests of science and popular education, 1858."

Behind the blind top story of the library is a series of art galleries lighted from the top. The ceiling over the staircase has been decorated with an elaborate painting by James Flinn. In these galleries will be housed the famous Stuart collection of paintings, which has been kept in the Lenox library. It includes canvases by Gainsborough, Landseer, Turner, Reynolds, Corot, Innes, Copley and other great masters.

As just one final figure to fix the size and worth of this great library in one's mind it may be set down that the circulating department is prepared to loan 25,000,000 volumes per year.

Maderos, Mexico's Proudest Family, Divided Over the Insurrection

ONE can hardly think of Mexico these days, especially if he pronounces it the Spanish way, "Mey-hee-ko," without his mind instantly jumping to its alliterative Madero. Francisco Ignacio de that ilk is the center of the storm cloud that threatens the Diaz dynasty, and the majority of his relatives may be said to compose its circumference.

Counting the Madero family from the late Evaristo, the insurgent's grandfather, down to the grandchildren of the insurgent leader's brothers, the sum total is popularly believed to be 1,000.

But in the affairs of the present insurrection it is a case of a house divided against itself, for Francisco senior and five sons, Emilio, Gabriel, Julio, Evaristo and Carlos, vigorously uphold the Diaz regime. The brothers upholding Francisco are Gustavo, Alfonso and Raul, and the blood relatives include Aguirre Benavides, Jose Vasconcelos, Pino Suarez, Roque Estrada and Pedro Antonio Santos, all of whom may be seen in the accompanying picture.

The family of Madero is of Portuguese extraction, and its many members are justly proud of the fact that no one of the name has ever broken his or her word. It is enormously wealthy, old Evaristo's will alone disposing of about $20,000,000, and a majority of the second and third generations are millionaires.

All are highly educated, nearly every one holding degrees from colleges in the United States and Europe, and the members of the revolutionist faction are far from being the ragtag and bobtail sort of creatures that usually figure in Latin American rebellions.

The interests of the Maderos are principally agricultural, but they are also heavy owners of lead and silver mining properties. In the smelting industry they control the large Torreon smelters. They are also engaged in banking, Ernesto Madero, an uncle of the insurrectionist leaders, being the president of the Banco de Nuevo Leon in Monterrey.

The Madero hacienda—a large property embracing a number of ranches—in the northern part of the state of Coahuila, constitutes in many respects a remarkable institution. It embraces an area about fifty miles wide and 200 miles long. This property is devoted largely to grazing, and on it vast herds of cattle are raised. The stock consists chiefly of horned cattle and sheep.

Certain members of the family are large wheat growers. The Maderos have extensive vineyards, in fact the largest in Mexico. They have in the town of Parras, not far from the line of the Mexican International railway, which is now a part of the National railways system of Mexico, flour, wine and cotton factories. A highly modernized flour mill converts the wheat they raise into flour for export and domestic purposes. For making wine and liquors of their grapes they have an enormous establishment.

Their cotton mill—the Maderos also own large cotton plantations—is also a modern affair where prints are made on a large scale, as well as the raw cotton being prepared, spun and woven.

The power for these three manufacturing establishments was obtained by driving a number of tunnels under the mountains near Parras. This water power system is a costly work showing great engineering skill.

Francisco I. learned his English at Mount St. Mary's college at Emmitsburg, Md., where he was a private pupil of Professor Ernest La Gorce, who says he was one of the brightest scholars that ever came under his care.

No highland clan is more loyal to its own than are the Maderos of Mexico. Every summer they gather at Parras, the ancestral home which they all love and where the whole year around some of the family is to be found. Their winter homes are mostly in Monterrey, although Francisco Madero has a partial residence in the City of Mexico. It is at Parras where the most lavish hospitality is extended to even the transient guest. The most ideal life is led in this beautiful hacienda. Not a Sunday passes but there is a riding party ending with a picnic in some most wonderful mountain gorge, or a coach and four will carry the beautiful dark eyed señoritas and the gay young seniors off to Monterrey or Saltillo to attend a dance or fête.

The venerable grandfather used to look upon all this reveling with indignity, but "early to rise" was a habit of his life, and he insisted upon breakfast at 6:30 o'clock every morning.

One young man, speaking of the hospitality of the Maderos, said:

"My father had some business dealings with the governor, and he asked me to call and pay my respects to the family. After a short talk with the old gentleman, he said, 'Where are you stopping?'

"I named my hotel."

"Isn't my house good enough for you?" he asked. When I returned to the hotel I was told that two Mexicans had carried my trunk away and paid my bill. I went to spend an hour and tarried two weeks."

PROPOSED SITE OF CONTAGIOUS HOSPITAL

From the above diagram it will be easy to judge the merits of the controversy now going on between the contagious hospital commission and the city board. The latter claims the site chosen is too near the public street and too near the present Chelmsford Street hospital. It would be almost directly in front of the present

CONTAGIOUS HOSPITAL

Commission Postponed Action on Plans Until Thursday

State Board of Health Writes That Cook Wells Will Not be Endangered—Architect Rourke is Ready to Prepare a Set of Working Plans and he had sent word that it would be impossible for him to attend the meeting because of business that did not admit of postponement.

The meeting was called for the purpose of considering and discussing the sketches submitted by Henry L. Rourke, architect, on Saturday. On motion of Dr. McCarty the meeting was adjourned to Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock in order to have Mr. Robinson and Mr. Rourke present to participate in the discussion.

Dr. Martin called to order at 11:30 and the records of last Saturday's meeting were read by the secretary, Dr. Lamoureux. The doctor also read a letter from Edward F. Stephens of 9 Park street, Boston. Dr. Lamoureux had written to Mr. Stephens, who is a consulting engineer, and the latter replied that he is about to go to Germany to study hospital construction there. He said he would return during the latter part of June and would be pleased to assist the commission in such services as he might render were desired.

Wells Not Endangered
The following letters from the state board of health were read by Dr. Martin:

Dear Sir—It occurred to me that perhaps you, chairman of the contagious hospital commission, might be interested to know the opinion of the board relative to the effect upon the water of the Cook wells of the proposed contagious hospital, and I am therefore enclosing herewith a copy of the communication which has recently been sent to the Lowell water board.

You will notice that this is simply a confirmation of the opinion expressed by me at the time of our visit to the proposed location.

Yours very truly,
Rufus M. Whitte.

Office of the State Board of Health,
State House,
Boston, May 4, 1911.

To the Lowell Water Board,
Lowell, Mass.

Gentlemen—In response to your request of May 1, 1911, for advice as to whether the use of certain lands formerly connected with the city farm in Chelmsford street as a location for a contagious hospital is likely to affect the water of the Cook wells, as called for by the board, the commission, in the opinion of the board, the construction of the hospital, as proposed, on the lands indicated would not be a menace to the purity of the water of the Cook wells.

By Order of the Board,
Dr. Martin said he had talked with Mr. Rourke this morning and the latter told him that he did not consider the plans or sketches presented by him on Saturday to be working plans and he said that were he awarded the contract he would draw up a set of working plans that the commission could present to the builders. The sketches which he submitted on Saturday, he said, represented a great deal of labor and expense but he realized that in preparing and submitting them he was taking his chances to win or lose.

It was the opinion of the commission that the plans could be modified to quite a considerable extent but no definite action was taken. Dr. McCarty moved that the meeting be adjourned to Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock and it was so voted.

FRENCH TROOPS

Germany Objects to Them Occupying Fez

BERLIN, May 8.—Germany has warned France of the dangerous consequences which would be likely to follow the occupation of Fez by French troops. Further than this the government has taken no step, though watching developments in Morocco very closely. There is no truth in the rumor published this morning that Germany had decided to send three cruisers to Moroccan waters in order to display the flag at Casablanca, Rabat, Morocco and El Arish.

In view of the hint from Berlin, it is believed here that the French flying column from the southwest, which has been hurrying to the relief of Fez will be halted outside the capital.

NEGRO PRISONERS

WERE SEIZED AND LYNCHED BY A MOB

LOUISVILLE, May 8.—Charged with attempting to poison the family of Johnson Pearson, for whom they worked, two negroes, Cliff Jones and Bruce White, half-brothers, were taken from officers near here yesterday by a mob and hanged.

They confessed that they put poison in the drinking water because Pearson reprimanded Jones for being cruel to a horse and later would not advance him money for a suit of clothes. Pearson detected the presence of the poison in the water before harm was done.

GENERAL AMES

Attended Reunion of West Point Men

NEW YORK, May 8.—Seven of ten surviving members of the West Point class of '61, the first to be graduated by the military academy during the civil war, held a reunion last night on the anniversary of their graduation. Gen. J. W. Barlow, lately chief of engineers in the army, presided. The others present were Senator H. A. du Pont of Delaware, Col. E. B. Beaulieu, Gen. J. Ford Kent, Gen. Adelbert Ames, Gen. A. T. Buffington and Col. Charles H. Gibson.

The three members of the class who were unable to attend were Gen. John Rodgers, who is in El Paso; Gen. J. B. Rawles the Col. Wright Rives.

HAPPY REUNION

Two Sons of Mr. and Mrs. Larose Married

A happy reunion of relatives took place today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Larose, 31 Beaulieu street, the occasion being the marriage of the latter couple's two sons, Alphonse and Joseph, Jr.

Alphonse Larose and Miss Alvina Paris were married at a nuptial mass celebrated at 7 o'clock at St. Jean Baptiste church, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Fr. Ouellette, O. M. I. The witnesses were Messrs. Joseph Larose, Sr., and Alphonse Paris.

While this wedding was being performed, a brother of the groom, Joseph Larose, Jr., and Miss Eveline Beaudette were being married in Manchester, N. H., the nuptial knot being tied at a mass celebrated at St. Augustin's church by Rev. Fr. Chevallier. The witnesses were Mr. Elphege Beaudette of this city and Mr. Geoffrey Beaudette of Manchester. Immediately after the ceremony the couple and their witnesses left for this city arriving here in time to partake of a wedding breakfast served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Paris, 31 Lakeview avenue, parents of Mrs. Alphonse Larose. The two happy couples then repaired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Larose, Sr., where a reception was held in the afternoon, to be continued this evening. Tomorrow evening the couples will be honored at another reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Desrosiers, 75 Austin street. The two couples will make their home at 31 Beaulieu street.

WEATHER REPORT
NEW YORK, May 8.—The local weather bureau today received the following special from Washington: "Disturbance apparently developing off the Virginia coast will probably move northward and be attended by strong, shifting winds off the coast this afternoon and tonight."

POPULAR OFFICER ASSAULT CHARGE

Patrolman J. H. McKay Man Arrested for Lawrence Police

The many friends of Police Officer John H. McKay, one of the most popular members of the local police department will be deeply pained to learn of his death which occurred yesterday at his home, 130 Bartlett street. Deceased while not feeling well of late had been able to perform his duty as an officer up to within a week and was able to be about within a few days. Stomach trouble was the cause of death.

Officer McKay was 49 years of age and had been a member of the police force since 1884. No man in the department commanded higher respect from his fellow officers than did the deceased. He was the soul of kindness, quiet, modest and retiring, but pleasant and genial under all circumstances. He was scrupulously faithful to the performance of his duties and possessed of sound judgment at all times. He is survived by his wife, Belle; four children, Anna, James, John and Gertrude; his mother Elizabeth; one brother, Thomas F., the well known baker, and three sisters, Elizabeth T. Catherine B. McKay and Mrs. Michael Sullivan. Funeral notice later.

Tony Silva was arrested in this city last night by Inspector McCloughry for the Lawrence police who wanted him for alleged assault with a knife. According to information received in this city, Silva figured in a stabbing affair and after using the knife boarded a car for Lowell. The Lowell police were immediately notified and the inspector was ordered to keep tabs on the Lawrence cars. An inspection of the car on which it was thought that Silva would come to this city, failed to locate him as a passenger when it arrived in Merrimack square, but the inspector thinking that Silva might have left the car before it reached the square started over Bridge street and was just turning into First street when he ran across a person who answered the description of the man wanted by the Lawrence police.

Silva was taken to the police station where he denied his identity, but when searched, a knife which was covered with blood was found concealed in his trousers leg. After the knife was found he admitted that he was the man who was wanted in Lawrence and an inspector came to this city and took him into custody.

TRAIN WRECKED

Feared That Passengers Were Fatally Injured

ELMIRA, N. Y., May 8.—A passenger train on the Elmira and Cortland division of the Lehigh Valley railroad was wrecked about eight miles north of this city today and twenty passengers were injured, three of them perhaps fatally. The train left Van Etten about 45 minutes late and was making up time. When near Fowl-

John O'Brien and his plucky Fall River team formed the attraction at Spalding park today, it being their first appearance of the season. Among the old favorites with the visitors were Tommy Devine, the captain; Mike Flynn, formerly of Lawrence; Fred Rieger, the pitcher, who was with the Connecticut league; and "Chief" Williams, the Indian.

Lowell presented the same lineup as on Saturday except that Warwick was in the pitcher's box. Five hundred fans were present and they were pleased to see Umpire Stafford as the decision maker.

The lineup was as follows:

Lowell
Moulton 2b
Barrows c
Conner ss
Magee lf
Flynn rf
Wright 1b
Boultes 3b
Huston c
Warwick p

Fall River
Flynn lf
Conner ss
Magee lf
Devine rf
Wright 1b
Hickman 2b
Fredette 3b
Perkins c
Martini p

First Inning
For Fall River, Flynn drew free pass. Weaver fouled to Boultes. Flynn tried to steal second and was caught. Walsh fled out to Magee.

In Lowell's half, Moulton got a base on balls and Barrows bunted along the third base line and was thrown out by Fredette. Moulton tried for two bases on the play and as Walsh made a bad throw to third, Moulton scored. Conner fouled to Fredette and Magee struck out.

Second Inning
Devine fouled to Huston, and Williams followed with a single to center. Hickman hit to Moulton, scoring Williams at second. Fredette singled to left and Magee made a quick return of the ball to Moulton getting Hickman out of second.

Lowell scored again in the second. Flynn struck out, and then Wright drove the ball to left center, the farthest corner of the field, scoring a home run inside the grounds. Boultes fouled to Perkins and Huston fouled to Flynn.

Third Inning
Perkins fled out to Magee, and Barrows made a pretty catch of Martini's high fly. Flynn got a base on balls and for the second time was caught trying to steal second.

Lowell got four runs in their half.

Warwick got a base on balls and was advanced on Moulton's Texas leaguer to right. Barrow sent a fly to Williams, who dropped the ball and Warwick scored. Conner drew a free pass, and Magee singled scoring Moulton and Barrows. Flynn went out, Martini to Walsh, and Conner reached third. Wright went out, Flynn to Walsh and Conner scored. Boultes hit to Walsh and was out at first.

Fourth Inning
Weaver drew a base on balls, but did not get beyond first. Walsh struck out. Devine fled to Flynn and Williams hit to Wright and was retired at first.

Lowell sent ten men to bat in this inning and scored seven runs. Huston drew a base on balls, and scored when Warwick sent the ball over the left field fence for a home run. Martini was then taken out of the box and Wormwood sent in. Moulton, Barrows, and Conner scored singles, two more runs resulting. Then Fredette let Magee's grounder get by him. Fredette was taken out of the game, Flynn going to third, Weaver to shortstop, Devine to left field and Hayden to right field.

Flynn hit to right center for a home run sending in Magee ahead of him. Wright singled and was caught trying to steal second. Boultes and Huston struck out.

Fifth Inning
Warwick let up on the visitors and they made four hits and scored two runs. Hickman singled to left and Hayden fled to Magee. Perkins singled as did Wormwood and Hickman scored. Flynn singled, scoring Perkins. Weaver hit to Moulton and was out at first. Walsh fled to right.

For Lowell, Warwick hit to Wormwood and was out at first. Moulton got a base on balls and was caught trying to steal second. Barrows singled and tried to steal second but was caught.

Sixth Inning
Devine hit to Conner and went out at first. Williams was handed a free pass. Hickman fled out to Flynn and Hayden fled out to Barrows.

Conner struck out. Magee got a base on balls and Flynn hit to Hickman who got Magee at second and threw to first for a double play.

Seventh Inning
Perkins struck out, Wormwood fled out to Magee and Flynn fled out to Boultes.

Wright went out Flynn to Walsh. Boultes singled but was out at second on Huston's grounder to Flynn. Warwick drew a base on balls and Moulton hit one too hot for Wormwood to handle. Barrows fled out to Hayden.

Eighth Inning
Weaver fled out to Barrows. Walsh went out Boultes to Wright. Devine hit to right and was thrown out at first, Warwick covering the base.

Lowell added two more runs to the score. Conner led off with a single and scored on Magee's home run, the fourth of the game and the third inside the grounds. Flynn singled and was caught stealing third. Wright struck out. Boultes hit to Hickman and was out at first.

Ninth Inning
Williams led off with a single, and Hickman fled out to Magee. Hayden singled to left, Perkins fled out to Barrows.

Wormwood singled to center, scoring Williams.

RUNAWAY ENGINE

Barely Escaped a Collision With a Passenger Train

SALEM, May 8.—An accident of unusual interest in railroad history, which, for a few minutes, threatened the lives of many persons, occurred here today when a runaway shifting engine with one box freight car attached escaped a collision with a passenger train by a narrow margin of two feet, sped past the depot here at a terrific rate and whirled through the Salem tunnel, near the north end of which it was brought under control by the conductor, D. A. Churchill, who had "ruck" to his post on the car.

The engine in charge of Engineer J. H. Williams was shifting cars in the local yard when Engineer Williams suddenly found himself on the same track with an approaching passenger train from Boston. In an attempt to make a switch in the rear, Williams reversed the throttle with such suddenness that he was hurled through the cab window onto the ground. Fireman Dodge believing a collision with the train inevitable jumped from the engine.

The driverless engine took the switch and passed the passenger train by a bare margin of two feet. The engine dashing backwards at full speed was sighted by railroad employes about the Salem station. A hundred and fifty persons who were about the depot at the time were warned of the danger and retreated into the rear of the depot. When the runaway engine the car whirled by no one was on the tracks. Conductor Churchill clung to the train's step on the rear car until the runaway emerged from the tunnel. Then he climbed up over the car, slid down into the tender, dropped into the engine cab and brought the runaway to a standstill.

Neither Williams nor Dodge was seriously injured.

MORE FIGHTING

Renewal of Hostilities Expected in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, May 8.—While unofficially there is still hope here of peace negotiations, the official view is that the exchange between the representatives of President Diaz and Francisco Madero, Jr., the rebel chief, is a closed incident.

Francisco Carbajal, the government commissioner at Juarez, has been ordered to return to the capital. It is said that there are overtures for a new conference they must come from the other side, although the government officials maintain, as before, an attitude of willingness to listen to any proposition which does not include the point over which the recent negotiations broke and which was answered by President Diaz last night in his manifesto.

At the war department today, there was no intimation of the plans for a new campaign.

The posting of bulletins on the street corners late last night setting forth that Diaz would resign at a date which he deemed auspicious created much excitement.

Today the sentiment among the people of the capital, who by a large majority are revolutionaries in their sympathies, was that Diaz's promise with reservations while technically seeming to meet the revolutionary demand, fell short and offered too many loopholes for postponing the resignation. It is generally believed that the announcement of the president will not be accepted as satisfactory by the rebels and a renewal of hostilities is expected.

WOMAN COMMITTED SUICIDE

NEW BEDFORD, May 8.—Miss Annie Saxon, 52 years old, of 629 Purchase street, committed suicide last night while in the bathroom by turning on the gas. The body was discovered by her brother, George E. Saxon, a justice of the peace, at 6.30 a. m. today, after he had read her note, left on the kitchen stove, which informed him of the tragedy and warned him, "do not light any fires. Open the windows before you come to me."

Miss Saxon was a sufferer from nervous diseases for some years, and was often in intense pain.

BOSTON, May 8.—Men who draw the beer, stir the fragrant julep and shake the cocktail gathered in Faneuil hall today to the number of several hundred for the opening session of the 16th annual convention of the Bartenders International league. The welcoming band was held by Mayor Fitzgerald. Despite the fact that his honor declared that he had climbed on board the "aquatic vehicle," some years ago, he gave the alcoholic dispensers welcome both in word and song. The convention also includes cooks and waiters' unions, so that there were a number of women on the floor, including delegates from Cleveland, Seattle, St. Louis, Spokane and Chicago. Under a new provision of the league one of the women delegates is entitled to a seat on the executive board and a lively contest has started for the position.

General President Timothy Sullivan of Hartford presided and General Secretary-Treasurer Jerry Sullivan of Cleveland presented a report showing that there are 500 unions in the league and the membership has grown in two years to 42,651 while there is a working balance in the treasury of $32,000. The convention will be in session for four days.

TEN BUILDINGS

On Fire in Winter and Summer Streets Today

The alarm from box 19 at 2:10 (this afternoon) was for a fire that started in a shed in Winter street and communicated with neighboring roofs until it had a chain of ten burning roofs. Most of the damage, however, was confined to the Namack property where the fire started. The property extends from Summer street to Winter street. The cause of the fire was unknown but is supposed to have been caused by children playing with matches in the shed. It looked for a time as if the fire would make small work of several buildings but the firemen arrived in time to check its headway.

Patrolman James Kennedy and Motorman John J. McEwan forced a door to a room where the smoke was thick and rescued two women who were overcome with the smoke.

Shoe Shop Ablaze
Shortly after 1 o'clock a portion of the fire department was summoned to a fire in the shoe shop in the third building in Northbridge street. The fire was due, it was stated, to spontaneous combustion. One window was burned out and considerable damage was done to stock.

Another Fire
Another telephone alarm, shortly after the alarm for the fire in Winter and Summer streets was sounded, called a portion of the department to a fire in Day State court. The fire was in a pile of rubbish and did not amount to much.

MERRIMACK RIVER BILL

the legislature, assisted by Rep. Dennis Murphy, Rep. Barlow and the other members of the Lowell delegation the bill introduced by Senator Nason of Haverhill to the effect that the pollution of the Merrimack river and its tributaries be prohibited was killed in the legislature without debate, a most unusual thing, for in several years past in which the matter has come up it has been defeated. I only after a strong debate in the house. The bill first went to the committee on public health of which Rep. Coff is a member.

6 O'CLOCK MAN WAS FINED $20 He Was Charged With Larceny of Six Coal Bags

Peter O'Neill and George Paquette were arraigned before Judge Hadley in police court this morning, the former being charged with the larceny of six coal bags, each of the value of 75c, the property of John P. Quinn, while Paquette was charged with receiving stolen property. O'Neill entered a plea of guilty and after being found guilty was ordered to pay a fine of $20 or be committed to jail for three months, while Paquette was found not guilty and ordered discharged.

Mr. John P. Quinn, the complainant, testified that O'Neill had worked for him at different periods and about two months ago he became suspicious that some person was stealing his coal bags. He made a count and found that 313 bags were missing. As a result of what he learned he reported the matter to the police and last Friday swore out a warrant against O'Neill and subsequently Paquette was summoned in to court. Mr. Quinn during the course of his testimony said that he paid 75c a piece for the bags, each of which bore a large letter "Q," but that the letter on the bags which he found at Paquette's coal yard had been obliterated by the use of black paint.

John Bean, a young man who was to have appeared as a witness in the case Saturday, but who disappeared rather suddenly and who was later arrested on a capias, testified to having worked for Mr. Quinn and was with O'Neill when the latter sold the bags to Paquette. Witness said that he told Paquette that the bags belonged to Mr. Quinn, but that Mr. Paquette did not pay any particular heed to the remark. According to Bean all that seemed to disturb Paquette was how he would remove the letter "Q" on the bags and O'Neill said that he would take care of that and accordingly went over to a hardware store, purchased 10 cents worth of paint and with a brush succeeded in covering up the letter.

Paquette testifying in his own behalf, said that O'Neill in selling the bags said he had been in business himself and had sold out and was anxious to get rid of a number of bags which he had on hand. The witness said that he could not read, write or speak English and did not know what the letter on the bags stood for.

O'Neill testified to selling the bags and this concluded the government's case. A. O. Hamel, who appeared for Paquette, started to argue, but Judge Hadley stated that an argument was unnecessary and finding Paquette not guilty ordered him discharged. As above stated O'Neill was found guilty of larceny and ordered to pay a fine of $20 or be committed to jail for three months.

SHERIDAN STATUE WAS TRIMMED BY UNKNOWN PERSONS LAST NIGHT

WASHINGTON, May 8.—Startling news to the beholder because of its representation of life and action so unusual in the ordinary military statue, that of General Phil Sheridan in Sheridan circle, arrested the eye of the observer even more quickly than usual early today. Above the "front of Mars" rested a lace bedecked nightcap which fitted very well, as the sculptor had portrayed the famous general with horse suddenly checked by the rider's right hand while the other swept eastward, holding his wide-brimmed hat. Thrown about the bronze shoulders was an ornate cloak lavishly adorned with lace insertion and narrow ribbon of baby blue. The police are looking for the decorators.

FOREST FIRES UNDER CONTROL

WAKEFIELD, May 8.—The belt of forest fires that had been drawn around this town for the past two days was loosened today when it was believed that all of the blazes in the woodlands were under control. In all some 500 acres of good timber land have been burned over and several hundred acres of scrub growth have been scorched.

Practically all of the fires originating in other towns were stopped at the Wakefield boundary. One fire started in Saugus and worked toward this town but was held in check at the boundary line. Another blaze starting in Lynnfield and believed to have been caused by sparks from a locomotive was also checked at the town line.

WINTER WHEAT
WASHINGTON, May 8.—The average condition of winter wheat on May 1, was 56.1, compared with 52.3 on April 1, 82.1 on May 1, 1910, and 85.0, the May 1 ten year average. The area of winter wheat to be harvested was about 31,397,000 acres, or 1,940,000 acres partment of agriculture issued at 2.30 p. m. today. The average condition of rye was 50.0, compared with 59.30 on April 1, 91.3 on May 1, 1910, and 89.7, the May 1 ten year average. The area of winter wheat to be harvested was about 31,397,000 acres, or 1,940,000 acres.

DIAZ TO RESIGN

MEXICO CITY, May 8.—Gen. Porfirio Diaz last night issued a manifesto to the people of Mexico declaring his intention to resign the presidency as soon as peace is restored.

In this manner the president has virtually acceded to the demands of Francisco I. Madero that he make announcement of such an intention.

Negotiations have been begun for another armistice with General Navarro as well as a resumption of the peace conference which adjourned on Saturday. The unanimous opinions of representatives of the warring factions is that complete tranquility for Mexico now is in sight. Arrangements for the extension of the armistice to cover the entire country are expected to be made today. Peace negotiations will be hastened and no one anticipates any difficulty as to the government concessions on points other than the Diaz question which have been well known and acceptable for some time.

Facts of the secretly planned attack on Juarez became known today. Francisco Madero had announced his intention of marching his forces southward and abandoning the attack on Juarez for fear of international complications. His military leaders had accepted the decision with resignation. They gathered secretly, however, upon a plan of attack, notwithstanding their chiefs' orders. It was arranged that General Madero would be persuaded to leave camp first, and proceed to Huachuque, 11 miles away. Then their chief, out of reach they were to have pursued the attack with all the force

Caused Great Damage in New England Yesterday

BOSTON, May 8.—Dozens of forest fires raged in many sections of New England yesterday, being far more serious and numerous than at any other time this year.

While up to Sunday comparatively few buildings had been destroyed, flames in several places yesterday for a time got the better of the fire fighting and consumed dwelling houses, barns, ice houses and other buildings. Thousands of acres of woodland were burned over and thousands of feet of prepared lumber were destroyed as well as considerable cordwood.

Uxbridge Property Burned
At Uxbridge a house and two barns were in the pathway of the forest fire and all were last night in ruins. The fire covered 400 acres of timberland and burned up 300 cords of firewood with a total loss estimated at $3000. Two hundred acres was also burned over at North Uxbridge.

Chatham's Scene of Another
Chatham, a scene of another bad fire which during the day destroyed a dwelling house, threatened many summer cottages and left two square miles of woodland a waste.

The Village of Pleasant Lake, near Harwich, Mass., was the scene of three fires, one of which destroyed the residence and another building of Joseph E. Clark and also a cottage.

In nearly all parts of New England
there has been but little rain during the past weeks and the undergrowth is extremely dry. In some portions of Maine wells have gone dry and farmers are obliged to carry water for their families and cattle many miles.

DOMINICAN FATHERS

Open Two Weeks' Mission at St. Michael's Church

A band of three of those most noted missionaries, the Dominicans, opened a two weeks' mission at St. Michael's church yesterday, the first week for the women and the second for the men. The preachers are Rev. Frs. Foley, Kelly and Donahue.

The mission opened with high mass yesterday sung by Rev. Fr. Mullin and the preacher was Rev. Fr. Foley, an eminent pulpit orator, who after outlining the program of the mission preached a most effective sermon on "The Christian Home." Rev. Fr. Foley is a most impressive talker and his remarks were listened to with wraps of attention by a congregation which taxed the seating capacity of the church.

The regular evening services opened at 7.30 o'clock and it was necessary to place chairs within the sanctuary to accommodate the large number of women who were in attendance. At the evening service, Rev. Fr. Kelly recited the rosary and gave eloquent instructions on that devotion, after which Fr. Foley preached a powerful sermon on "The Christian Mother." During the two weeks of the mission the masses with instructions will be held at 6 o'clock and 8 and the evening services at 7.30 o'clock.

St. Patrick's Mission
One of the most successful missions ever conducted at St. Patrick's church came to a conclusion last evening when a congregation that crowded the great altitudes to the doors heard the final sermon and received papal benediction from the zealous priests who have been conducting the missions. The Dominican Fathers who conducted the mission were most gratified at the results.

SUPT. WHITCOMB QUEEN MOTHER

Tells Why Children Fail Will Not See Her Son of Promotion Crowned

Commenting on a report that two hundred thousand school children in New York failed of promotion in 1910, the St. Paul Dispatch says:

"The tragedy of failure and a sentence dooming them to repeating, have come to St. Paul's children, as well as to those in other cities. Failure of promotion on the part of a normal child means a radical weakness in the educational system. Failure to know whether a child is normal is quite as great a failure."

Superintendent Whitcomb's attention having been called to this statement, he declared that failure of promotion on the part of normal children usually means non-attendance. It may be a weakness in the educational system, but it is an admitted fact that teachers cannot successfully teach children who are not in school. Sometimes they are able to promote children who do not attend more than half the time, but they will not promote even as much as that. Mr. Whitcomb would demand proof before admitting that a single child, not mentally or physically defective, well prepared for his grade when he entered it and regular in attendance, has failed of promotion in the year.

"In failure to know whether a child is normal," said Mr. Whitcomb, "we are more at fault. In Boston an examination of the advance guard were slow and noisy. It was an unusually thick night and a drizzle of rain fell almost continuously. The advance guard of one of the rebel detachments which moved southward fired a farewell salute into the federal trenches and the federal returned the compliment. The troops under General Navarro were on the lookout but did not expect an attack. The news that President Diaz had submitted to the rebel demands by announcing his intention to resign came two hours before the time of attack and the insurgents turned back to their camping grounds, where, today, they are celebrating what they believe to be the triumph of the revolution."

Today the same cottonwood grove through which insurgents crept last night in their secret advance, Juarez will be the scene of a resumption of peace negotiations between the rebels and the federal government, broken off after a single day's conference because the latter had not answered the principal demand of the revolutionists.

FELL OVERBOARD

SABATTUS, Me., May 8.—While boating on Lake Sabattus yesterday Miss Nellie Kingston of Lewiston fell overboard and was drowned. At a late hour last night her body had not been recovered.

Miss Kingston, a waitress in a Lewiston hotel, was in a rowboat with a friend, about 200 feet from shore. She started to change her position, when she lost her balance and plunged headlong into the water.

She did not come to the surface and the rough water made efforts to rescue her futile. This is the first drowning accident of the season at this place.

search was made of the whole neighborhood. Marshal Busby and several men, after dividing the pursuers into searching parties, with instructions to scour the country, started back to Paton, believing that some hiding place had been overlooked. When they came to a schoolhouse near Paton, using no precaution whatever, the marshal went to the door and opened it. The report of a gun was heard and the marshal fell dead. One of the robbers dragged the body into the schoolhouse. Then a fusillade began between the robbers and the deputies.

The lifeless body of Busby was propped up in the window and from behind it the robbers fired on the deputies. By this time Sheriff Mc Bride Wilson and his assistants had arrived and Wilson called on the robbers to surrender, but he received a volley in reply. The officers then poured bullets into the windows and doors of the schoolhouse. Finally one of the robbers staggered through the front doorway wounded, saying: "I surrender, but my pal is going to fight till you get him."

Sheriff Wilson gave the uninjured bandit a chance to surrender, but he refused and the fight was renewed. The firing lasted 30 minutes. Finally the officers saw the robber stagger and Busby's body fall from the window. A rush was made for the door and the robber was found dead, with a bullet through his heart.

The wounded robber refused to give his name. One of his legs is shattered and will have to be amputated. A key from a hotel in Des Moines and papers bearing the postmarks, Sing Sing, and Chicago were found in his pocket. It is believed these men are the ones who blew the safe in the Bayard post-office a few weeks ago. They are about 35 years old. The injured bandit was taken to Sioux City.

At the First Congregational church, Sunday night, the pastor, Rev. E. A. Willmott spoke on "Lowell's Standards." The speaker referred to the vote of Lowell's representatives on the side of the saloon. He also told of the influence of the Sunday picture show. In part, he said: "What, after all, is a standard? Are not the standards which govern our civil life a coming together of the opinions of men about things? In a democracy is it not true that the ultimate court of appeal is public opinion? I sat next to the president of the senate the other evening, and he said, 'The men sent to us are not there to give their opinions; they are there to express public opinion.' If this be true, it is a most vital question that we should consider the standards of judgment or morals or civic well being which dominate our lives as citizens of this city."

"We must never forget that frequently we take the noisy and clamorous utterances of a public speaker as reflecting the consensus of opinion, whereas a majority of men are in disagreement with the noisy speaker. We must never forget that back of (all our politicians who speak glib, noisy platitudes in public and rob the treasury in private, there lurks a steady, abiding public opinion which does not voice itself until the crisis comes. But we do well to remember also that if silent on these great questions, we give people the impression that the noisy politician interprets the real standards of morality and judgment. And so we do well to speak, at all times, our judgment on questions of civic righteousness."

"It is sometimes discouraging to a man who is trying to serve the public either as a preacher or in public service, to have good men silent and bad men noisy; to be forgotten by all good men, and surrounded by the clamor of the self-seeking, greedy politicians."

"I have been impressed with the false standards of judgment in two or three things lately. Here is one: Quite recently a lady of men and women who have lived most of their lives among the poor and given their lives for social settlement work, brought before the Massachusetts legislature a bill known as the bar and bottle bill. It was not foisted upon the public by extremists, but was put before the legislature by such men as President Wilson and the social settlement workers of Boston, and was a measure not remedial, but preventive. It was designed to save the boys and girls from the drunken orgies that take place in the houses after the saloons are closed in the evening."

"Who protested? Men who had a financial interest; men who had invested large sums of money in the business. Did they care for the public? Did they care for the home, the children or the school?"

"Meanwhile, we have sent to the general court in Boston, men to represent us—men who are supposed to express our standards of right, and almost without exception, where were they? They were on the side of the saloon. What was their excuse? It could not be that the devil's representatives had bought them; you can scarcely conceive such a thing. It could not be that their consciences approved of it, if so, then to what depths have we descended? The only other reason is that they reflected our judgment, our standards; that they did what they thought we wanted them to do. That is the only charitable surmise."

"Is that the standard by which we test men and measures—that a thing is profitable and therefore it is right? I cannot believe that this city has any such standards as that. And this measure was not to do away with the sale of liquor; it was merely to take away one of the disastrous effects of it. If our legislators reflected our judgment, they reflected standards that are false."

"Here is another instance: The picture shows are running Sundays, and we are told that the foreigners want them. I notice that mostly English-speaking people are running them; and they are doing it for money, not to give to the people something good on Sunday. Within a short time a clean wholesome boy was taken into court as a thief. He told the judge that first he had been reading bad books, and second, he had been to the picture shows, and seen how men and boys evaded the police, and thought he would like to try it. Yet no evidence that I have seen has given voice to protest. Our public servants seem to care little about it. We are bringing into the world boys and girls with the instincts of criminals, and training them to evade the law."

"In these two things, Lowell has a low standard. They could not exist, if our standards were high enough to condemn them. Light your candles, and in your tolerance you have failed to appreciate the fact that it is greed for money alone that has asked for these licenses."

First Trinitarian
Mr. H. W. Gibson, secretary of the state executive committee of the Y. M. C. A., was the speaker at the First Trinitarian Congregational church, Sunday afternoon. Subject was "Men and Religion Forward Movement."

Pawtucket Congregational
At the Pawtucket church Sunday evening, there was a very interesting service, when several ladies who had visited "The World in Boston," during the previous week, gave their impressions of the great missionary pageant "Darkness and Light," each clearly and one of the episodes into which the pageant is divided; Miss E. C. Coburn told of the Indian scene; Mrs. Norman J. Peaver pictured the Livingstone episode and Mrs. C. G. Coburn, the Hindu. Mrs. A. C. Varum gave an excellent idea of the fourth and fifth episodes. Appropriate hymns were sung, and Mr. Fred Leclachere gave a brilliant solo.

First Baptist Church
At the First Baptist church, Sunday evening, the pastor, Rev. S. W. Cummings, preached on "The Pitfalls of Strong Drink." He said that subject was selected because three-quarters of the cards which were sent to him suggesting the dangers to young men in Lowell, mentioned this as the greatest of all pitfalls. "There is no doubt that it does undermine manhood and enslave a man's mind and will to the level of a brute. A city may be devastated by fire, as was the city of Bangor a few days ago, and it may in a few years rise from its ashes, to be more beautiful than before, but a man once brought down by strong drink finds it almost impossible to recover his old strength and manhood. We have schools, churches, factories and other places for the help and effort of the worker, but the saloon outwits the young as well as the old in its sordid, destructive tolls. God hasten the day when man will see this as the great political question of the day, and work for the abolition of the saloon. The note of warning against strong drink must be uttered by the pulpit again and again. No young man today is obliged to yield to the invitation to take the social glass; on the contrary, he who refuses is respected and esteemed the more."

CHASE PROPERTY

Was Purchased by St. Columba's Parish

At all the masses in St. Columba's temporary church yesterday, Rev. Fr. Degan, the popular pastor, made the interesting announcement that the Josephine M. Chase homestead and its accompanying two acres of land

REV. FR. DEGAN.

In Mammoth road had been purchased for a new church for St. Columba's parish while the homestead will be utilized as a parochial residence.

The deeds were passed Friday afternoon conveying the property to the Roman Catholic Archbishop of Boston and the sale was made through the office of Robert E. Crowley & Son.

Fr. Degan also announced that Contractor Patrick O'Hester, would begin work today on an addition to the barn 50x20 feet which will be used as a temporary church with a seating capacity of 500. The permanent church will be located on the south side of the homestead facing Mammoth road. The temporary structure will meet the demands of the parish for the present and will afford them ample comfort.

In order that the parishioners may inspect the new house, Rev. Fr. Degan will hold a reception and tourist party at the Chase residence tomorrow evening.

CARBONOL

For Sanitary Housekeeping

Wherever there is dirt there are disease germs. Carbonol destroys these. These germs lurk even in comparatively clean places—such as rugs, draperies, corners, closets, etc. A few drops of Carbonol in the water used in cleaning or a dust cloth wrung out of such water, at once makes these germs harmless.

A few drops used in the dish water dissolves the grease quickly. A little sprinkled in kitchen corners and cracks drives away water-bugs and roaches. Try it. 10c and 25c a bottle.

FOUND IN RIVER

Man Was Missing Since April 24

BOSTON, May 8.—The body of Wm. G. Mulhearn, 28 years old, of 35 Cleveland street, Arlington, was found floating in the Charles river on the Cambridge side, near the Charlesgate hospital, yesterday afternoon about 2:30 o'clock. Patrolman Joseph Doherty discovered the body, which was but a few feet from the shore. He drew it ashore and notified police headquarters.

The body was fully clothed, the hands gloved. A small amount of money, together with a Boston elevated employee's ticket, with the number 11,788, was found in the pockets. On one hand was a seal-ring with the initials W. G. M.

Medical Examiner Thos. M. Darrall of Somerville was notified and ordered the body removed to Litchfield's morgue, Lafayette square. After viewing the body he said that it probably had been in the water two weeks. In his opinion death was due to drowning.

Mulhearn had been missing from the home of his sister, Mrs. C. W. Smith, in Arlington, with whom he lived, since April 24. He had been employed by the elevated road as Umkeener on subway construction. He was a native of Chatham and was unmarried.

Three months ago his mother died, and since that time he had not been his usual self.

MAY PARTY

FOR CHILDREN AT THE FIRST TRINITARIAN CHURCH

The children of the cradle roll, kindergarten and primary departments of the First Trinitarian Congregational Sunday school were given their annual May party Saturday afternoon in the vestry of the church in Dutton street, and as usual the affair drew forth a large attendance.

The children under 7 years of age enjoyed their games in the intermediate room under the charge of Miss Nellie Jensen, while the children from seven to ten years of age were entertained in the main vestry under the charge of Miss Elsie M. Crigin. After the games, which lasted from three to four o'clock, an entertainment consisting of recitations by Isabelle Roy, Greta Pickering, Harold Sunbury, and several others with a song by the kindergarten was given under the direction of Mrs. George E. Ames.

Mrs. J. T. Roy presided over the festivities and refreshments were served. The affair was under the direction of the superintendent of the three departments of the school, Mrs. George E. Ames, of the primary department, assisted by the teachers, Miss Elsie Crigin of the kindergarten, assisted by Miss Nellie M. Jensen, and Miss Mary J. Martin of the cradle roll assisted by Miss Louis M. Kildredge. The National association assisted largely in the success of the party.

THE FIRE DEPT.

Was Kept on the Jump Yesterday

The local fire department was kept on the jump yesterday answering alarms for grass and brush fires. About three o'clock in the afternoon a portion of the department was called to extinguish a grass fire which broke out in Tenth street. The fire, however, was quenched before any damage was done.

Later in the afternoon a fire broke out on Alden street and brush and shortly after the dump fire a grass fire broke out in Hildreth street.

At two o'clock an alarm from box 125 was sounded for a fire in a bundle of rags in a tenement. In Dummer street. The damage was slight.

The alarm from box 74 Saturday night about 9 o'clock was for a brush fire in Gumpus road which kept the department members busy for more than an hour. No damage.

An alarm from box 76 shortly after 5:30 o'clock last night called the department to a grass fire on New Moody street. There was no damage.

THE OPERA HOUSE

One of the biggest and greatest treats in store for the patrons of the Opera House on Thursday, May 11th, is the coming of Frederic Thompson's biggest success, "Polly of the Circus," with dainty and winsome George Olp as Polly.

Mr. Thompson has provided a cast of well known players and a grand array of circus talent, among whom are the Dutton family of equilibrists, the Carlow dog, and pony show, "Little Hip," a performing elephant that does everything but talk, the Korber family, aerial and horizontal bar acts, clowns, acrobats, gymnasts and bareback riders of note, also carrying horses, dogs, ponies and the greatest performing elephant in the world, "Little Hip."

This play is a sermon on narrow-mindedness, is simple, sweet, natural and charming, and disarms criticism. It is a play for mothers, wives, sisters and sweethearts.—Adv.

RICHARD CARLE

To make the hard working public laugh is quite as laudable a mission as to instruct those who really prefer relaxation, so that a musical comedy constructed solely for laughing purposes and interpreted by the funniest comedians of the day and a strong cast should be a welcome visitor in these strange days. Such is "Jumping Jupiter," in which Richard (himself) Carle has been making the record run of the season in Boston, and which he will present at the Opera House on May 24. Carle, of course, wrote the piece to fit his own unique talents and odd personality, but he has also constructed a number of other excellent roles which find capable interpreters in the persons of Edna Wallace Hopper (specially engaged), Will H. Philbrick, Ina Chaire, Joseph C. Miron, Helen May, Helen Raymond, Barrell Baraballo, and a large contingent of pretty girls. Karl Hoshina, of "Madama X," fame, wrote the charming music of "Jumping Jupiter."—Adv.

MERRIMACK SQUARE THEATRE

Lovers of good music should not fail to visit the Merrimack Square theatre this week. The feature number, given by Piers and Reslyn, operatic troubadours, is the highest-class musical act seen on a local stage in seasons. Both are excellent singers and their offering gives both ample opportunity to displaying their wonderful skill. Miss Reslyn is a soprano of reputation and her songs include some of the classics from the best masters of the world, while Mr. Piers possesses a sweet, baritone voice of considerable range and volume. Their program is most entertaining, one that should meet with the approval of all. It has in all of the western cities, where they have appeared and surely should delight local audiences, for Lowell theatre-goers are noted for their appreciation of good music. This pair will appear

HATHAWAY THEATRE

This week will give the theatre-goers of Lowell a final opportunity to see the Donald Meek stock company until next fall, as the company closes with the week and is presenting as a closing attraction that uproariously funny and high class comedy, "The Bachelor's Honeymoon," one of the great laughing hits of the past season, with Donald Meek and Severin DeDeyn in particularly attractive roles. The play tells the story of a young old man named Bachelor who is the father of twin daughters of an susceptible age and the brother of an exacting sister who handles the family fortune. In the absence of the sister and daughters from home, the "Bachelor" marries an actress to whom he represents himself as a bachelor and takes her to his home for their honeymoon in the study of the others who suddenly return unexpectedly to find a "strange woman" presented as the new housekeeper in the house. The attempt of the head of the house to hide the identity of his wife and the suspicious of the other women cause innumerable ridiculous complications, which keep the audience in roars. The play abounds in funny situations and bright dialogue, but is absolutely free from coarseness or vulgarity. It is beautifully staged and elaborately costumed. It will be given twice daily all week. Beginning May 21st, Donald Meek returns to the John Craig stock company at the Castle Square theatre, Boston, where he will appear as "Kid Burns" in Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway.—Adv.

STABBED TO DEATH

Body of Man Was Found in Front of His Home

Alleged Murder Occurred at a Drinking Party at Chrisholm, Me.—It is Thought That Three Men Were Involved—Man was Stabbed in the Neck and the Right Side

LIVERMORE FALLS, Me., May 8.—Stabbed to death by one or more fellow-countrymen, according to the opinion of town officials, was the fate which befell Domenico Ventrell, whose body was found early today in front of his home on Church street at Chrisholm. Broken glasses, an empty beer keg, smashed furniture and bloodstains all over a room in the house furnished evidence of the scene of the crime and that there had been drinking. Officials learned that three men thought to have been concerned in the affair, especially as Ventrell had been accused of paying unwelcome attentions to the wife

He had been stabbed once in the neck and twice in the right side, the knife penetrating the lung. Sheriff W. B. Small and two deputies started an investigation today and a coroner's inquest will be held.

Ventrell was of a quarrelsome disposition, they learned, and within a year, while drinking, entered the post-office and threatened the postmaster with a gun. The latter took the gun away from him and ejected him from the office. He had been here a year or more.

WM. N. OSGOOD

Addressed the Boston Central Labor Union

Hon. William N. Osgood was the educational hour speaker at yesterday's meeting of the Boston Central Labor Union, speaking on "Scientific Management and Scientific Co-operation." In the scientific management of industry, Mr. Osgood indicated as a first step the squeezing of the "water out of capitalization" as a means of stopping one great item of waste.

WILLIAM N. OSGOOD.

On railroads alone, he computed from the railroad annual, the people of the United States paid about $1,000,000 a day in dividends or interest more than they ought to pay. This, he argued, was sheer waste, looked at from a national standpoint, though it was obviously regarded as a cherished privilege by those who received the money. Added to the above sum, he indicated other sums running into the millions of inflated capital in industrial trusts and public monopolies exploited by private corporations. These sums were characterized as a perfectly needless waste of effort, entailing, as it was held to do, added labor and energy by the mass of people to keep up the flow of dividends and interest on capital that represented no original contribution to the public weal.

"Scientific management," Mr. Osgood observed, "was an unfortunate term." It seems utterly devoid of warmth and sentiment. At its recitation a picture at once presents itself of a group of unsympathetic and hard-headed capitalists of industry planning and scheming and straining every nerve to devise some way to increase the products of their plants, to decrease expenses and cut corners.

"Greater efficiency of men and machines must be had at any cost. These

EXPERTS SAY BURNS WILL MAKE WOLGAST SHOW TRUE FORM

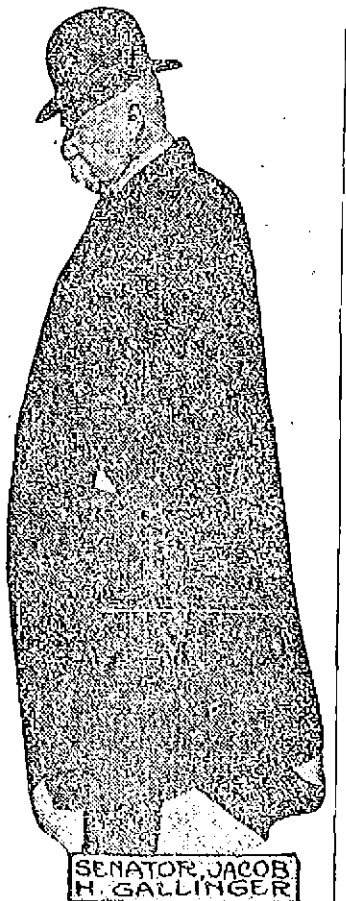

SAN FRANCISCO, May 8.—Many fight critics predict that Ad Wolgast, the lightweight champion, will more than have his hands full when he meets Frankie Burns, the local boy, here May 29. The latter is in great shape for the battle. Experts who have visited him at the training camp say he has improved wonderfully in the last few weeks and will make the champion go some to win out. Burns has a decision over "One Round" Hogan to his credit. Within the last few months he has defeated every lightweight of note here. Wolgast's admirers say the title holder will add another K. O. to his list. The length of the contest is twenty rounds.

House and Barn in No. Billerica Destroyed by Fire

A threatening fire broke out in North Billerica, Saturday night, and destroyed the house and barn of Mrs. Angeline Litchfield on the Allen road.

The alarm was given and the local company, under Chief Ernest Bartlett, made a quick run to the scene, which is about a mile and a half from the fire station. When the firemen arrived they saw at once that the buildings could not be saved and they directed their efforts to the houses nearby. The barn owned by Arthur T. Barsley and a henhouse of Daniel Donohue were ignited by sparks from the Litchfield blaze, but the firemen extinguished them before any damage was done. A grass fire was also started at Fox Hill, from the flying sparks, but was quickly put out. The Litchfield property was razed to the ground. It consisted of a one and half story house with a large barn. Part of the furniture was saved, but the greater quantity was burned, as well as many other household articles of value. The wind was blowing in the direction of the buildings that were ignited and but for the good work of the firemen the fire would have spread, and the damage would have been greater. As it was the loss reached $3000, which is said to be partly covered by insurance.

MURDER CHARGE

Shooting Followed a Fist Fight on Board the Nebraska

BOSTON, May 8.—An early morning fist fight on the berth deck of the battleship Nebraska at the Charlestown navy yard today between Alexander Allen and James Beeks, two colored mess attendants, was followed an hour later by a shooting affair in which Allen was killed. Beeks was locked up on a charge of murder.

The officers of the Nebraska stated after the shooting that the two men had quarreled frequently for some months, but had always settled their difficulties with their fists. Some- times Beeks, who was the larger of the two, came off the victor, while on other occasions Allen, by reason of his quickness, managed to floor his antagonist.

Both rolled out of their hammocks at cock crow this morning and were soon battling, hammer and tongs. This time Beeks was badly punished. Another hour later a shot was heard, followed by four more, and those on the berth deck who saw the shooting say that Beeks fired one shot that sent Allen to his knees and followed it by four more to the chest which killed the little colored man. Beeks ran up on the main deck and surrendered himself to the officer in charge. He was at once locked up in the brig.

No one was allowed to leave the ship for the next three hours while an inquest was held and a report sent to the secretary of the navy.

The Nebraska sails on Thursday for the spring practice and Beeks will be turned over to the federal authorities in this city.

SEARCH IN VAIN

No Trace of Newton Woman and Children

BOSTON, May 8.—Up to an early hour this morning the Newton police had not received word nor trace of Mrs. Margaret McKenna, who left her home at 23 Keefe street, Newton Upper Falls, early Friday afternoon, accompanied by her two small children, and has not since been seen by those who know her.

It is believed that family troubles caused the mother to go away. It has been thought that she may have gone to the home of an aunt in Norwood, but the husband does not know the aunt's name, and so far, the Norwood police have been unable to locate any such relative. Mrs. McKenna also has a sister in Yonkers, N. Y., and the Yonkers police have been asked to inquire if the woman is there.

Early yesterday morning a woman called the Newton police by telephone and said she saw a woman answering Mrs. McKenna's description and accompanied by two small children leave a train at the Chestnut Hill station late Friday afternoon. The police attempted to follow up the clue, but could get no trace of the woman.

SCHOOL REOPENED

Young Sheridan Has Suffered From Leprosy for Four Years

PAWTUCKET, R. I., May 8.—The Darlington grammar school, from which Harry Sheridan, the boy afflicted with leprosy, was taken on Thursday, was re-opened today. Pending the action of the state authorities, the boy remained at his home with police guarding the house to see that he does not escape.

Dr. Gardiner Swartz, secretary of the state board of health, stated today that there was no quarantine at the house, the boy's father, who is superintendent of a large knitting mill, going to his business as usual and other members of the family leaving the house as well. The police are stationed at the house simply to see that the boy does not get away. About six years ago a leper escaped from an institution here and the authorities are taking care to see that this, the next case, does not get away. Dr. Swartz ridiculed the idea of danger from infection, saying that because of the influence of the bible "the mere mention of the disease makes us shiver." He said that tuberculosis was a thousand times more dangerous.

Sheridan has been suffering from leprosy for four years. Dr. Swartz declares, and his chances for recovery are very small, although he will probably live for years. It is not likely that the boy will be sent to Penitentiary Island, as the Massachusetts authorities do not care to establish a precedent by taking in patients from outside the state and some provision will be made for his seclusion in Rhode Island.

Forest Fires Were Quite Destructive Was Taken by Man by Mistake

MILFORD, N. H., May 8.—One of the most destructive forest fires that has ever broken out in this section of New Hampshire was brought under control today after a tract of between 800 and 1200 acres of heavy woodland had been burned over, causing a loss estimated from $20,000 to $30,000. The fire bore every indication of having been of incendiary origin and during the forenoon the local authorities arrested Albert Nickerson on suspicion of having started it. Nickerson was formerly a farmhand employed by one of the men whose woodland was destroyed by fire. He and his employer are alleged to have had trouble and a short time ago Nickerson quit work. About a week ago a fire, apparently of incendiary origin, broke out in the woodland owned by Nick's employer but was extinguished before much damage had been done. Yesterday noon fire broke out again, but before it was brought under control a triangular tract a mile and a half wide was destroyed.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE LYNN MANUFACTURERS HELD TODAY

LYNN, May 8.—The annual meeting of the Lynn manufacturers was held here today. It is known that previous to the meeting a movement was on foot to have a full discussion of the grievances the manufacturers have against the employees and some of the labor unions. It was also said that there would be put before the meeting a proposition for a general shut-down of all the shoe factories in the city, to be operated May 15.

There was no change in the strike situation at the factory of Little & Co. where more than 1000 operatives have been forced into idleness for more than a month by a strike of 70 strikers.

DIAMOND NOTES

"Little Jawn" and "Little Tommy" Devine are with the Fall River team which means a scrappy game.

Maybe Jake Boultie didn't show up his critics, Saturday. Four times up, four hits with a total of six and four runs. The bunch that yelled loudest for his release were his most enthusiastic supporters on Saturday.

Wolfgang pitched a beautiful game even if they did hit him hard at the finish.

"Nukoy" Abbott is slower than ever.

Tom Logan got the first conignment of "Bull Durham" for a home run on the local grounds.

Old Boy Terry McGovern has his batting eye with him. Terry recently injured the ligaments of his leg and played Saturday's game under difficulties.

Come on with an umpire Jake. Stafford preferred.

Choney, Moulton and Wright pulled off a classy double play while Moulton was full of ginger on second.

The attendance at Saturday's game shows that they will support a winning team. The fans like plenty of batting and the Lowell team this season is batting most satisfactorily.

Frank Leonard looked as natural as life on the game.

Several auto parties came up from Lynn but they had little opportunity to roam.

SCOTT FLUHARTY

Lowell Outfielder Leads League in Batting

Jimmie Magee Heads List of Run-Getters, With Moulton in Second Place—Wallace of Lynn Leads for Stolen Bases

Scott Fluharty, the young man from Panama who plays regularly for Lowell, leads the New England league in batting with an average of .464. There are some players with better averages but all of those who have taken part in at least four games, the Lowell swatter is the leader. Jesse Burkett, champion last year, is a good second, and Halo of the same team is third, tied with Smith of Lynn. Joe Briggs of Lawrence is entitled to some consideration as the league leader, as he has an average of .390 and has played in every game, three more than Fluharty.

Brookton has the best showing of any team among the twenty-five leaders, being second with seven and a half of the twenty-five. Worcester has five, Lynn four, Lowell and New Bedford three each. Lawrence two and Fall River one. Haverhill cannot produce one man in the first twenty-five. There are more than thirty men clouting the ball for 300 or better.

Magee, another Lowell man from Panama, leads the league in runs scored with 16, closely followed by his teammate, Moulton, with 14. Carlstrom of Lawrence is third with 12.

Wallace of Lynn leads in stolen bases with eight. Phoenix of Lawrence being second with seven and Devine of Fall River third with six.

Haas of Worcester leads in sacrifice hits with five, several trailing along with three and four each.

Brookton has the call on pitchers, Ward and Weaver having won six

WOODSMEN FIGHTING FIRE

AUGUSTA, Me., May 8.—A big forest fire which started in Compton and Beach counties and swept to Massachusetts Gore in the township west of Bingham Kennelbach purchase, was reported today at the office of the state forestry department. Woodsmen hope to hold the fire to the Gore unless the wind changes. The fire is on land belonging to the Berlin Mills Co. of Portland, south of Lake Megantic and Lowelltown, the Canadian Pacific station near the border. Word was received today from Barrington that a fire was burning on the wild land of the Elton estate in Washington county.

TESTIMONY IN DIVORCE CASES

BOSTON, May 8.—A new order made by Judge Hitchcock in the superior court today directs that the testimony in all divorce cases relating to a statutory offense shall be taken down by a stenographer and transmitted to the district attorney. Every instance of the offense testified to will go to the district attorney for presentation to the grand jury. There has been considerable agitation in the legislature and in public gatherings over the so-called divorce evil. It has been said by those familiar with divorce proceedings that there has been more or less collusion between the principals resulting in one or the other getting a divorce without a contest.

STRUCK BY AUTO

Lynn Boy Not Expected to Live

LYNN, May 8.—While crossing Washington street opposite Amity late yesterday afternoon George Gould, the 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Gould of 51 Amity street, was struck and fatally injured by an automobile owned by O. D. Young, a Boston attorney, and operated by Patrick Lyons, who lives at the Paul Revere hotel, Lexington.

It was said at the Lynn hospital, to which Lyons carried the unconscious boy, that the lad had sustained a very serious fracture of the skull and that his recovery was impossible.

After conveying the victim of the accident to the hospital Lyons drove to the Sutton street police station, where a technical charge of assault was brought.

Lyons said he had been to Nahant with a party of friends and was returning to Lexington when the machine struck the boy. He said the boy, with several others, was playing in the street and unaware of the approach of the automobile the boy started for the sidewalk.

Lyons swung his car, which eye-witnesses of the accident told the police was moving at a very moderate speed, sharply toward the left, and if the boy had kept on going a collision would have been avoided.

Some of the boy's playmates shouted to him and instead of keeping on to ward the sidewalk at Amity street he turned and started back across the street. He ran directly in front of the automobile and was struck, as the police believe, by a crossbar in front of the radiator.

Lyons brought the car to a stop, and upon reaching the consciousness of the boy's condition he picked up the little fellow and drove at high speed to the hospital. He was told by the physicians that the boy was probably fatally injured.

A hurried investigation by the police resulted in the announced belief that the accident was unavoidable. At an early hour last evening Lyons was released on bail. Boston parties furnishing sureties amounting to $500.

ASTOR BUILDING

HAS BEEN DECLARED TO BE UNSAFE

NEW YORK, May 8.—The building department addressed a formal order to Col. John Jacob Astor yesterday declaring unsafe the five-story loft building at 548 Broadway, owned by the Astor estate, where 14 girls were injured by the collapse of a balcony in a fire panic Thursday afternoon.

Inspectors reported that the board partitions and balustrades in the building are in danger of collapsing and that the flooring throughout is badly worn and broken. The order requires Col. Astor to have the old flooring replaced with new, to install iron balustrades on all stairways and to replace weak partitions with properly braced ones. Notice is also given that the fire escapes must be kept clear at all hours, and that boxes, cages and goods must be removed from their present resting places in so-called blind alleys.

The demand of the hour is for more small playgrounds and the improvement of the large ones.

There is still as much need as ever for that ball ground on the east side of Fort Hill park. The ball ground on Shedd park is still far in the future.

DEFENDING THE SHOE MACHINERY LEASE

Congressman Weeks, in speaking against the removal of the tariff on shoes, defended the United Shoe Machinery leases while at the same time pleading that the export of American shoes has decreased, a fact due to the use of the machinery leased by this very company in England. The same company is teaching the Japanese and the Chinese how to use its machines in competition with the United States in the manufacture of shoes. We do not think Mr. Weeks' address had the merit of consistency.

NO PARTITIONING OF THE SOUTH COMMON

Neither the park board nor the city council has any right to set apart any portion of the South common for the special use of the militia as a drilling ground. If the companies wish to use the common for drilling purposes, same as do the high school boys, they are welcome to do so, and they will be amply protected from interference by the police if necessary. Judge Pickman of the park board has under consideration the legal authority of the board in this matter, but it will not take the judge long to decide that the board has no right to cut off a portion of any of our public parks to be used as a drilling ground for the militia. If the board gets a piece of land for that purpose and lays it out specially for drilling purposes, we do not believe there will be any serious objection to its exclusive use by the militia. The South common, however, is a public park, to be used for the benefit of the people at all times except where the legislature has made certain concessions to the board in connection with holidays or big celebrations.

THE CONTAGIOUS HOSPITAL

In order to give the readers of The Sun a clear idea of the merits of this controversy over the location of the contagious hospital, we present today a diagram drawn to scale and showing the exact location of the proposed hospital in its relation to Chelmsford street and the present Chelmsford street hospital. We believe it would be a grave mistake to locate a contagious hospital so close to the street and so close to a large pauper institution occupied by hundreds of people in feeble health. The matter of constructing a sewer about 1000 feet in length seems to be one of the deciding arguments in favor of the site selected. That sewer will have to be constructed anyhow in the near future, and it should not enter into the consideration at all. With a good site elsewhere available there is no need of crowding a new hospital between the street and the old, and so near the car line that passengers may be deterred from riding past with children lest they should catch some of the contagious diseases treated there. The location of the hospital where proposed would also link it too closely with the pauper institution, a fact that might seriously impair its usefulness.

CARNEGIE AND THE PEACE MOVEMENT

Twenty-one American republics joined in paying tribute to Andrew Carnegie as the "Benefactor of Humanity" the other day. Mr. Carnegie has done much to bring about a better understanding among these republics and to induce them to live in peace and mutual good will. There are many republics in that number that do not amount to much, many, too, that have hitherto paid little heed to the movement for universal peace. The Pan-American union, however, is likely to operate strongly in the future in favor of maintaining the Monroe Doctrine, so that the burden will not rest entirely as it has done upon the United States. The movement for universal peace is beginning to be seriously considered by the great military powers, such as England and Germany. The rivalry between these two countries is the greatest obstacle to the peace movement. England is willing and in fact anxious to see the movement taken up by the great powers, and in all probability the time will come when a majority of the powers will agree to enter a peace compact and to compel all the other powers to submit to its provisions. There will always be some ambitious ruler unready to enter such an agreement. The world cannot wait for such stumbling blocks. They should be overruled by the majority in favor of a peace compact that will make it compulsory in all civilized states to submit their disputes to The Hague tribunal where otherwise they would resort to the deadly arbitrament of war. The peace congress just held at Washington was a notable event, judged from the utterances of President Taft, Cardinal Gibbons and Andrew Carnegie. There have been many gatherings of this kind, but never before one at which the speakers seemed so hopeful and enthusiastic. The address of Cardinal Gibbons was a most eloquent plea for universal peace as may be judged from this single paragraph:— "When the waters receded from the earth after the deluge, Almighty God made a solemn covenant with Noah and his posterity that the earth would never again be destroyed by water, and as a sign of this covenant He placed a bow in the heavens. Let Britain and Columbia join hands across the Atlantic and their outstretched arms will form a sacred arch of peace, a rainbow which will excite the admiration of the nations and will proclaim to the world that with God's help the earth shall never more be deluged with bloodshed in fratricidal war." One of the strongest peace arguments put forward at any meeting was that which exploded the false assumption that no nation could submit to arbitration any question involving its honor without losing its sovereignty. This was pronounced a gross fallacy both by President Taft and Andrew Carnegie, the latter showing that sovereignty meant power over all to dispose of any question at will and with supreme authority. Heretofore this contention which some attribute to Roosevelt has been one of the stock arguments of those who opposed the peace movement. It has been completely refuted by eminent authorities.

SEEN AND HEARD

A moving picture of a family moving from one flat to another because the landlord wouldn't paper the dining-room again might deter other families from moving.

There is a good deal of talk about abolishing the fly, but perhaps you have noticed that the man who makes window screens doesn't seem to be at all concerned about the future of his business.

Here's another summer coming, and the automobile lawn mower hasn't been invented yet!

No matter what a little mite a baby is, no mama seems too grand for him, to the mother's mind.

The man who can build a hen-coop without getting bruises on his hands must have had manual training when he went to school.

If you did a foolish thing once, there is always somebody who is willing to remind you of it.

What is the moral of this story: A small boy in a town cut west stole a newspaper that the carrier had just left at a citizen's front door. As he ran across a railroad track directly afterward, he caught his foot in a frog, and was held fast in front of an approaching train. By waving the newspaper, that he had stolen, he attracted the attention of the engineer in time to save his life.

SPRING FEVER

When birds awake at half-past three instead of half-past five. The way they did a week or so ago— You're either sorry you ain't dead, or glad that you're alive. And either way, you've got it, when the buds begin to show, And the winds begin to blow.

Then poetry will thrill you to your very finger tips. Or drowsiness will keep you in the hay. The perfume fills your nostrils and the violets brush your lips— Or you fall for chills and fevers, influenza, colds and pips. When the glamour of the springtime comes a-leading down this way, As it leaped along, today!

It stole into my window, at the very peep of dawn. Ere the dream I had of summer was forth. At its touch upon my eyelids, all my sorrowing was gone. But so, was all ambition to get up and clean the lawn. Can I write a vernal idyll, now the weather has got so hot? Well, I rather think I'll not!— Ted Robinson in Cleveland Plain Dealer.

SPRING FEVER

The days are growing warmer now. We feel the breath of spring. If we're attentive, pretty soon. We'll hear the bluebirds sing. The swarming pussy willows all. Are fuzzy, fat and big. And, as of yore, men simply yearns To get out doors and dig!

How strange, with each recurrent year. The clock back to the soil! The pleasure's so inviting that. You clean forget the toil. What though the neighbors poke their fun. You do not care a fig! When springtime comes, you always want To get out doors and dig.

Well, don't resist! Hunt up the hoe! The spade, the rake, the fork. Get all the seeds you fancy from Those fellows in New York. If any one turns up his nose. Why, let him be a prig. But you, put on your garden clothes. And get out doors and dig!—Somerville Journal.

HOW TO GET RID OF PIMPLES

It is truly remarkable how Cadum, the new remedy, causes pimples to disappear. Bad cases are frequently helped in a week, and sometimes even sooner. Cadum causes pimples to dry up and fall off, leaving the skin as soft and smooth as a baby's. Pimples are a disease of the skin and are not caused by bad blood, as many people suppose. Cadum helps these annoying and disfiguring facial blemishes because it can be applied direct to the trouble, and its soothing, antiseptic and healing powers stop the itching at once. Cadum is equally good for rash, blotches, eczema, skin chafings, eczema, sores, eruptions, skin diseases, etc. 10c and 25c per box at all druggists.

Worcester, Massachusetts, was issued today by Census Director Durand, it contains a summary comparing the figures for 1901 and 1909, by city totals prepared under the direction of Mr. William M. Stewart, chief statistician for manufactures, bureau of the census. The figures are preliminary and subject to such revision as may be necessary after a further examination of the original reports.

The summary shows increases in every item. There was a 58 per cent increase in the cost of materials used; 65 per cent in the number of salaried officials and clerks; 48 per cent in the value of products; 42 per cent in the miscellaneous expenses; 37 per cent in the salaries and wages; 37 per cent in the value added by manufacture; 33 per cent in the capital invested; 24 per cent in the average number of wage-earners employed during the year; and 23 per cent in the number of establishments.

There were 580 establishments in 1909, as compared with 470 in 1904; an increase of 110, or 23 per cent. The value of products was $77,145,000 in 1909, and $52,145,000 in 1904, an increase of $25,000,000, or 48 per cent. The average per establishment was approximately $133,000 in 1909, and about $111,000 in 1904.

The value of products represents their selling value at price at the plants as actually turned out by the factories during the census year, and does not necessarily have any relation to the amount of sales for that year. The values under this head also include the amount received for work done on materials furnished by others. The preliminary totals for steam laundries for Worcester, Massachusetts, are given separately, as follows: Number of establishments, 13; capital, $174,000; cost of materials used, $60,000; salaries and wages, $166,000; miscellaneous expenses, $58,000; value of products, $16,000; number of salaried officials and clerks, 20; and average number of wage-earners employed during the year, 357.

Considering the March exports by principal articles, those showing the largest growth when compared with March exports a year earlier are iron and steel, and manufactures thereof, 5-1-3 million dollars increase; copper, pigs, bars, and ingots, an increase of nearly 2 million dollars; agricultural implements, over 1 million dollars; cotton manufactures, 1.1 million dollars; refined mineral oils, nearly 1 million dollars; vegetable oils (chiefly of cotton-seed), three-quarters of a million dollars; cars and carriages, including automobiles, 1.4 million dollars; chemicals, drugs and medicines, half a million dollars; and photographic goods, an increase of nearly a half million dollars. Exports to the general rule of greatly increased exports during March include boards, deals and planks, in which the increase was but about $100,000 over the 3 1/2 million dollars worth exported in March, 1910, to $4,955,027 in March of the present year.

Many less important articles also show increased exports. In March when compared with the corresponding month a year earlier. Among these are aluminum manufactures, painting and stainers, brass manufactures, brooms and brushes, celluloid, cement, clocks and watches, dental goods, earthen stone, and chinaware, furs, glass and glassware, manufactures of India rubber, scientific instruments, jewelry, lamps and chandeliers, paper and manufactures thereof, perfumeries, silk manufactures, and starch. In most of these, increases also occurred in the nine months ending with March when compared with the exports during the corresponding period of 1910.

A study of the distribution of the exports of manufactures shows that in some instances the growth was confined to a few countries only, while in other cases it extended to practically every section of the commercial world. Of the exports of agricultural implements, for example, aggregating 5 million in March, nearly 1 1/2 million went to Russia in Europe, three-quarters of a million to Canada over a half million to France, and about one-third million to Argentina; while Oceania and Africa are also markets for a considerable share. The exports of automobiles, valued at 1-2-3 million dollars during March, went chiefly to Canada, three-quarters of a million dollars, and the United Kingdom, one-third million, no other single country showing as much as $100,000 worth during the month. Copper pigs, ingots, and bars, exported from the United States are marketed almost exclusively in Europe, the 7 million dollars worth exported in March having gone to Netherlands and Germany, each about 2 million dollars worth; the United Kingdom, 1 million; France, three-quarters of a million; Italy, nearly a half million; and other Europe, two-thirds of a million dollars, but 100 thousand dollars' worth going to all other countries, chiefly Canada. Cotton cloths, on the other hand, make but little headway in European markets, but go chiefly to China, the Philippines and other oriental countries. South America and the West Indies and Bermuda. Iron and steel manufactures are widely distributed, certain grades being sent to the United Kingdom, Germany, France, and other industrial communities, and numerous other manufactures to practically every section of the world. The United Kingdom buys over half the sole and upper leather exported from the United States, while the exported boots and shoes go mostly to Cuba, Canada, Mexico, and but about 25 per cent of the total to the United Kingdom and other European countries. American illuminating oil is consumed in every part of the world, Great Britain, Germany, the Chinese Empire, and India being especially large markets, though large amounts go also to practically all the important countries and sections.

BANGOR GIVEN ANOTHER FIRE SCARE

BANGOR, Me., May 8.—Bangor had another fire scare yesterday afternoon, when, at about the same time the conflagration started last Sunday, two alarms came in from the lower section of the city and clouds of black smoke sent thousands of people down the Hampden road.

The blaze was in a long line of lumber piles at the Sterns lumber company's mills in East Hampden about two miles below the city. The direction of the stiff wind was fortunately away from the main plant otherwise a half-million dollar loss might have been added to the state fire loss for 1911.

Bangor firemen, assisted by many citizens, fought several hours to save the mill and a valuable pine grove. A number of summer cottages, the American Icehouse and other buildings were in the path of the flames, while the mills and buildings on the Brewer side of the river were in danger from flying sparks.

The fire was confined to the piles of lumber, which were mostly dry spruce and pine boards. The loss is estimated at $25,000, insured.

ST. ANTHONY'S

ANNUAL REUNION OF PARISH OPENED WITH CONCERT

The annual reunion of St. Anthony's parish opened last evening in Lincoln hall with a sacred concert and will continue three nights this week. There was a large attendance of parishioners and friends of the parish, and the concert was excellent. It was as follows: Piano solo, Arthur Martel; trio, "Misereatur" from "Il Trovatore," William Gookin, John J. Dalton and Edward M. Shea; solo, Miss Katherine Mullin; solo, "Ah, So Fair," from "L'Artha," Mr. Datt; reading, Miss Green; solo, selected, Mr. Shea; piano medley, Mr. Martel; solo, Mr. Gookin, and trio, selected, Messrs. Gookin, Dalton and Shea.

On Thursday, Thursday and Saturday evenings the reunion will be continued in old St. Anthony's church, Gorham street.

A largely attended and very interesting meeting of the Mathew Temperance Institute was held yesterday morning in the rooms of the institute in Duane street. President James J. Gallagher presided. Many matters of interest pertaining to the welfare of the society were acted upon. The Easter Monday ball committee will meet this evening and approve bills that were contracted in the running of that social event a few weeks ago.

The minstrel committee met after the regular session of the society and went through a large number of business transactions for this affair, will be held tomorrow evening. Inasmuch as the show is only three weeks away, rehearsals will now be held continuously from now on till Friday, May 20.

THOMAS CAR IN LOWELL

In Europe, according to show reports, the long-stroke, large-valve, six cylinder motor has revolutionized automobile construction. In this country, the leading manufacturers of high grade cars are adopting this type motor. One of the first American cars of this design is the Thomas 6-40, which is now in its third year, and will be standardized and perpetuated by this company.

One of these cars is now en route visiting twenty-five New England towns, after having covered about 6,000 miles, which includes Lawrence, Mass., Haverhill, Mass., Dover, N. H., Concord, N. H., Franklin, N. H., Manchester, N. H., Nashua, N. H., Marlboro, Mass., Ware, Mass., Springfield, Mass., Holyoke, Mass., Westfield, Mass., No. Adams, Mass., and Northampton, Mass. Automobile enthusiasts in Brockton, Taunton, Fall River, New Bedford, and Plymouth, Mass., who have been visited, expressed themselves as highly pleased with the performance of this automobile which will be in this city Monday and Tuesday, May 8th and 9th, at which time the Thomas representative, Mr. C. F. Walker, with headquarters at the Walker hotel, will be ready to give the public an opportunity to inspect this machine which has a wonderful record for giving satisfaction, not one car of this model, it is said, having been offered for sale by a New England owner.

This automobile brings to notice the police patrol recently purchased by this city, which was manufactured by the same company and which has proven its efficiency and reliability.

An Old Fashioned Remedy. It is a satisfaction in these days when there is so much restless striving after things just because they are new, to find an old-fashioned thing that people stick to. Stick to it, because it's good, and they know it's good, and know it's a thing else that will accomplish the same results. We mean Tolleine. Twenty years ago this remedy, now recognized as probably the most effective healing compound ever discovered, was introduced through a house to house canvass by Mr. B. F. Miller of Greenfield, Mass. The merit of Tolleine was so apparent in the immediate relief it afforded in cases of inflammation, both internal and external, such as coughs, colds and all throat troubles, cuts, burns, bruises and sores that the sale of Tolleine spread rapidly all over New England. And we believe we are safe in saying that today there is no household remedy of any description that has more ardent, long standing and steadfast supporters than Tolleine.

Were Held by Lowell Aerie, Order Hearing of Case May be Brought to a Close Tomorrow

The annual memorial service of Lowell aerie, No. 233, Fraternal Order of Eagles, was held last night in Colonial hall. There was a large attendance including members of the order and their friends and also relatives of deceased members. Five members of the order died during the year and tender tribute was paid each by Alderman James J. Gallagher who was the orator of the day. The program was both appropriate and impressive.

The interior of the hall was decorated in an appropriate manner. The stage was clothed in black while in the background were five vacant chairs electrically illuminated. On each side of the five chairs was the organization emblem illuminated by electricity.

The following musical program was carried out:

Funeral March ..... Chopin
"God Wills It" ..... Gounod
Eagles' Orchestra
Quartet, "There is a Land" ..... Crowninshield
Address:
Patrick McCann, worthy president:
Solo, "Jesus, Lover of My Soul," ..... McDougall
Mr. Harry Hopkins
Prayer,
Thomas H. Corcoran, chaplain:

Miss May E. Whiteley.

Address:
John H. Farrell, past worthy president:
Solo, "Angels Land" ..... Pensulo
Mrs. F. L. Roberts.

Roll Call,
John M. Hogan, secretary:
Solo, "The Light of Heaven's Own Day" ..... Briggs
Bro. James E. Donnelly.

Oration,
Bro. James J. Gallagher:
Quartet, "Some Blessed Day" ..... Nevin
Nocturn, "Reverie" ..... Behr
Eagles' orchestra:
"Nearer, My God, to Thee" ..... Benediction,
Thomas H. Corcoran.

James J. Gallagher's tribute to the dead was in part as follows:

My friends: Many words in our language have been exalted as having especial sweetness and significance. Mother, home, friend, country and many others too long a list to be enumerated, are watchwords which inspire the purest ideals and noblest deeds; yet one by one that which they represent passes from our lives. The silence of the grave closes over our dear ones. We see them no longer in their accustomed places, and our hearts grow heavy with sorrow. Life for a time loses its charm, and we are desolate indeed. Then a ray of light pierces the gloom. Memory whispers that all is not lost.

And I, with faltering footsteps, journey on,
Watching the stars that roll the hours away,
Till the faint light that guides me now is gone,
And, like another life, its glorious day shall open o'er me from the empyrean height,
With warmth and certainty and boundless light.

Those we have loved, and who have made the brightness of our lives, return to us by its light, and we see them in the guise of other days. The loving words, the tender ministrations, the communion of soul with soul, even the garments they wear are made real, and in memory they are with us again. Blessed memory! It is well that occasionally we should pause to pay tribute at thy shrine, for thou alone art constant; nothing can rob us of thy peace. If we too have been true.

In the darkest day or the darkest night we may withdraw into silence and recall from out the past the scenes we enjoyed, the faces we loved. And he is happy, indeed, who can do this with no tinge of bitterness or regret. O memory! Thy chamber walls are hung with regrettable pictures. Old age never exists in memory's blissful land. There the lines of mutability are not written. Every day we are building for eternity. It should be an inspiration for the best of what we are capable, that as we are, so shall we live in the hearts of those who will sorrow because of our going out. Yet even here memory is our steadfast friend.

It is the pleasant things of life, the bright spots, the friendly hand clasp, the eyes which looked lovingly into our own, which we miss upon when bereft of the living presence. Our tender thoughts of them soften and sweeten us who linger behind.

They are tender to the living who are true to the dead, and these companions with them aggrandize life, broaden its range of vision and afford us a glimpse of that ideal life, touched with a divine comprehension and toned to a divine calm.

Once a great teacher in the school of patriotism, likened our life to a traveled road at the end of which is a great wayside inn where all must meet, and the only salutation is "Good Night." This cannot be. All reason cries out against it. The night he would describe is but the passing shadow of an hour.

This inn is not a "windowless palace of death," but rather a place of life, wherein hope has set her many windows facing to the sky, and in every pure life and abiding faith has fixed an immovable star that shines and shines until it is lost in the blazing sunshine of eternal life.

Charity throws a silvery mantle over the failings, the shortcomings of those who have preceded us into the mysterious future.

It is the good men do which we contemplate, and which lives after them. It is rare indeed that something of praise may not be truly spoken side each open grave. Remembrance of the acts of charity and deeds of kindness, and the cherished memory of their generous and lofty characters—a rich legacy to us—will burst into blossom and lavish a fragrance on the air; and these treasures bequeathed will ever abide with us. We nurture the loftiest sentiments and enshrine them with our tears, and this service of praise and remembrance, and the adornment of their graves tends to exalt the good and keep it fresh and green as amaranth in our memories, and their names, rescued from oblivion, inscribed on the imperishable tablets of our souls.

It is an augury of the coming of "Peace on Earth" that even in this time of unrest, of wars and international disturbance, of a carnival of

WASHINGTON, May 8.—After having been out of the public eye for some time, the Cunningham Alaskan coal land claims which brought about the Ballinger-Pinchot congressional investigation because of charges by Louis R. Glavis, a former field agent of the land office, today approached their final determination. Attorneys for the Cunningham claimants appeared to argue their case before Secretary of the Interior Fisher, Land Commissioner Dennett and members of the board of law review of the general land office. It was expected that the hearing would be concluded tomorrow.

E. W. Hughes of Seattle and John Gray of Wallace, Idaho, are representing the claimants. Commissioner Dennett is charged with handing down the decision. Secretary Fisher determined to sit at the hearing, however, so that in case an appeal is made to him time and expense may be saved for all parties concerned.

The Cunningham coal land claims, 33 in number, are so called because it was Clarence Cunningham of the state of Washington, who, while in Alaska in 1902, discovered the coal which led to the filing of claims by himself and by 32 others. Opposition to the final granting of the claims was due to the charge that there was conspiracy to defraud the government.

Glavis, who wrote to President Taft charging former Secretary Ballinger with maladministration of the public land laws, started his fight against the Cunningham claims early in 1908. He asserted that through an assignment of the Cunningham claims the Guggenheims were about to be given a monopoly of Alaskan coal.

The Ballinger-Pinchot investigating committee filed two reports, the majority one exonerating Mr. Ballinger and the minority one sustaining to a large degree the allegations made by Glavis. No action respecting the merits of either finding was taken by congress and since the proceedings were directed chiefly against Mr. Ballinger, his resignation forestalls a congressional verdict. The majority did not pass upon the merits of the claims, declaring only that "if they are regular patents they should be allowed."

crime without parallel, (that the principles of fraternity should be predominant, as it unquestionably is. Helpfulness is the keynote of the grand symphony of the future.

The grandest objects of our association, mutual assistance, helpfulness, cheer, protection among your living ones, tender sympathy for the mourning ones, wisest benediction of a world, the administration of angels, and the "well done" of God. You brothers of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, will never finish the work so nobly begun.

Your grand organization, with its pronounced doctrine of the "faith that inspires and revelation that assures," that "through the fulness of time will bring the consummation, when the sword shall be turned into the pruning hook," you are advancing a step towards this great end. I can only say God hasten the day—but which is sure to come—when all the instruments of war will be converted into the implements of husbandry—when the people of all nations and tongues shall stand together in the brotherhood and majesty of enlightened conscience, and when he who sits in his great supremacy upon the throne of the universe shall be recognized as sovereign of all.

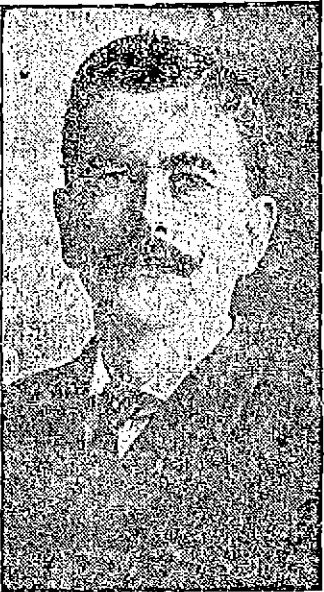

And so to you, absent, yet ever present, brothers, but to whom the "Great Hereafter" has become the "Glorious Here," we send our thoughts after you today with no misgiving. We are one with you, living the same life, always in close touch with you.

Ere long the gates will open, and others of our great organization will pass through and over. Not into darkness, but into light. Not into fears, but into joy and in the presence of ever living liveliness. It is but a few steps beyond our vision. The frontier of mortality is but an imaginary line. They who have crossed the river now stand hand in hand, and heart and heart united are walking the grand, the endless, the beautiful avenue of the Eternal City. They are dead, but are they dead? Let us rather say they have only begun to live. Nor is this a vagary woven in loom of fancy; for we are guided by the truths of revelation and the strongest analogies of our nature.

The crowning glory of science and of our age is the disclosure that we are standing on the borders of an unseen universe, vast and limitless.

When we reach the upper of the natural, we have only touched the lower of the spiritual; it does not yet appear what we shall be, but we concur in the almost universal belief that love universally reigns, and for those who have been translated it means the fullness, the grand symphony of life—the eternal music of the soul.

My Eagle brothers, if I may, for I have been one of you, your association is a grand one and confers a glory upon humanity by reason of its sublime record, its power and influence exerted for good in our land.

It merits the pride cherished of its work which has extended and broadened to immense proportions, until now there is in our country a total membership of about 310,000, and in our own aerie, about 750, willing and apt workers, second to none in aims and influence.

It will live and prosper to develop manliness above self, and a never-ceasing safeguard against the turmoil of demagogues and the ragings of the debased.

My friends, this memorial service is no idle ceremony, for most worthy of the living is worthy commemoration of the dead. They need no sympathy, but they need our remembrance. Tears keep alive memories of dear ones as dew of heaven freshens the flowers that bloom over their quiet rest, and the very music of this hallowed hour has wafted cooling draughts to fevered brains, a freshening breeze to languid souls, a joy and an inspiration to those so fond of cherishing remembrance of loved ones in eternal repose.

Let us live for those who love us, For those whom we know are true, And the heaven that smiles above us, And the good that we can do.

An Important Sale This Week of the New Ever Sharp Shears

Beginning today, we offer 1000 Pairs of these elegant NEW TENSION SHEARS at half and less the regular prices. Sizes 7-Inch, 8-Inch and 9-Inch. Regular prices 75c and $1.00.

Only 39c

There's no rivet to wear out, no screw to get loose. The cutting edge is indestructible and will wear a lifetime. They will cut anything and everything from net and tissue paper to a heavy horse blanket.

A FIVE YEAR GUARANTEE GOES WITH EVERY PAIR OF THESE SHEARS.

These SHEARS are dependable in every way. No matter how many pairs of the ordinary kind you may have, there is always a place for these. For SHEARS that are always sharp, certainly they are a great asset to any home. Dressmakers will find these SHEARS especially adapted to their particular needs and because of their particular shape, they will not tire the hands as ordinary SHEARS do.

Adjustable Detachable Self-Sharpening

Made from the best carbon steel by a new process which insures strength and a keen cutting edge. The Tension Spring Attachment does away with re-sharpening entirely, and enables the user to set the tension on the rivet so that any-kind of material intended to be cut with SHEARS may be cut with perfect ease without tiring the hand. The Tension Spring takes up all wear on the rivet, making the SHEARS practically indestructible, with no wear out of them. A simple turn of the thumb screw shown in the engraving tightens up the blades as closely as may be desired.

DIAZ TO RESIGN

Continued

PRESIDENT DIAZ' MANIFESTO
MEXICO CITY, May 8.—The announcement that President Diaz will resign when peace is restored, expected Saturday was made last night.

As to when peace is actually restored, General Diaz reserves the right to be the judge. In the words of his manifesto, it will be "when, according to the dictates of my conscience, I am sure that my resignation will not be followed by anarchy."

The president declares that his determination not to relinquish the presidency at this time is not due to vanity or love of power, because, as he points out, power now has no attraction, accompanied as it is by tremendous responsibilities and worry. He says he is prompted solely by a desire to conserve the best interests of his country.

The president makes it clear that he does not propose to abandon the presidency while his country is at war, and that he will not do so at any time under compulsion.

The promise of the president is made to the people of Mexico and its receipt by revolutionists will be incidental. That is will be sent to them immediately, however, by private individuals, and that it will be regarded as entirely satisfactory by them, is taken for granted.

It was at a cabinet meeting yesterday afternoon that General Diaz announced to his ministers his decision. For two hours and a half they discussed the terms of the manifesto, and at the conclusion of the meeting there remained nothing to do but to secure its official promulgation.

Only in a general way does the manifesto refer to the revolution. The government's position is that General Diaz could not have made a public statement at an earlier moment, and it is indicated that the revolutionists failed to observe the necessities of the peace negotiations by making them public.

Officially it is said that Madero and his advisers were guilty of betraying an agreement by injecting into the conference either secretly or openly the question of the president's resignation. It is declared that it had been agreed in confidence that this point should not be permitted to become an issue.

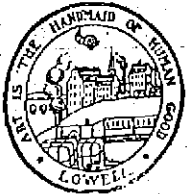

Proffering the declaration of his willingness to retire, the president discusses the political conditions of the country and the efforts that have been made by the government to establish peace. He calls attention to the progress already made in the direction of adopting the anti-revolution law and declares that the projected reform of the electoral laws and of the judiciary are being studied.

He shows further that the government in all its acts wishes to confirm the demand of the public in so far as it is wise and for the best interests of the country.

Events leading to the beginning of negotiations for peace are taken up.

MEXICO'S PRESIDENT AND THE MAN THE REBELS WANT TO SUCCEED HIM

and it is indicated that the government is disposed to take into consideration proposals the revolutionists have to make.

Regarding the point upon which the rupture of negotiations occurred, the manifesto declares that compliance with the demands for Diaz' resignation could not be entertained because his immediate resignation would doubtless precipitate anarchy throughout the country, whereas if his retirement was fixed for a future date the government would not have sufficient stability to assure the return of normal conditions pending the selection of a new executive.

In concluding, Gen. Diaz appeals to the patriotism of the people, calling upon them to act together for the peace and progress of the nation, and eulogizes the army.

At no place in the manifesto is there made mention of a new election. According to the constitution resignation is equivalent to political death so far as it affects the succession. The vice-president would assume the executive chair, and he in turn would be followed by the minister of foreign affairs.

In this case the vice president is seriously sick and is in Europe on an eight-months' leave of absence in an endeavor to regain his health. Should Vice-Pres. Corral not be back in the country at the time the president leaves his post the new incumbent would be Minister de la Barra, the choice of the rebels themselves for provisional president. What course affairs would take once the vice-president or the minister was in power, remains to be seen.

Although the announcement of Gen. Diaz that he would resign once his country was at peace will not reach the rebels through official channels, it can be regarded by them as nothing less than compliance with their chief demand. Officials and civilians in the capital believe that Madero will not quibble over the method and if he is sincere in his desire to end the war he will at once order the cessation of hostilities.

"I understand the immense sacrifice which we make in this. Our field of view, especially our generals, have manifested with great insistence their desire to take the city at hand or to sacrifice their lives in the attempt."

"Gen. Orozco especially, who at the last time when he was near to the city of Juarez could not attack, considered that it was a military obligation that he should not retire a second time without making an assault. But, showing an example of patriotism and abnegation, will sorrow he has joined me in this; but I promise you that which I also promised him, which is that from now on we will make a very active campaign, which will carry you into many battles, where you will be able to satisfy your legitimate desire of fighting for your country and your ardent wish to cover yourselves with glory."

"In a word, I promise you that we will make a triumphant march until we arrive at the capital of the republic, where you will receive the reward which your patriotism and self-sacrifice have fully earned. Effective suffrage and no re-election."

"Camp of the army of liberation on the shores of the brave, before Ciudad Juarez, on the 7th day of May, 1911."

"Madero I. Madero, Provisional president of the republic of Mexico."

To Muster 20,000 Men

General Madero, it is believed, will march due south to Madera, near the point where he stopped recently, prior to his march to Juarez.

He intends to carry the fighting into the state of Coahuila, and mobilizing all his forces, effect a junction with Ambrosio Figueroa and the other southern rebel chiefs and attack Mexico City.

All the provisional governors who hitherto have been in the United States, consulting with the juntas of the revolutionists, now will return to their respective states.

"One month more and we'll have Mexico City." This was the oft-repeated phrase with which the rebel leaders last night prepared for the march. Rebel detachments are scattered throughout the state of Chihuahua and are now believed to number 4,000 men. With the additional troops which the rebels expect to recruit on their march, they hope to muster 20,000 men for their grand attack on the capital.

A report that General Rabago, with about 1000 federals, had left Terrazas, near Chihuahua, immediately after the armistice was broken off, reached here last night.

There is a strong likelihood of an engagement between Rabago and a detachment of the insurgents army.

About 7 last night the insurgents opened fire a few shots toward the federal trenches. The federals returned the fire but in a few minutes the insurgents moved away.

It is thought the insurgents vanguard which already has started south, decided to give the federals in Juarez a farewell salute.

MANIFESTO BY MACERO

EL PASO, Tex., May 8.—Fearing complications with the United States, Francisco I. Madero, Jr. has given orders to all the revolutionists on the Mexican border to withdraw from the frontier.

He, himself, with all the insurgents before Ciudad Juarez will proceed southward, his objective point being the City of Mexico.

Gen. Madero in a manifesto to his army yesterday cited the Douglas, Ariz. incidents and declared that while the taking of Juarez might be an immense military advantage, it would bring about complications with a nation which has always given us proofs of its friendship, and with whom an international conflict would be probable.

"On to Mexico City" was the cry last night in the Madero army as the men prepared to break camp.

The peace negotiations have been a hopeless failure. The political chiefs gathered yesterday for a final conference, completed the organization of the provisional government and bade farewell to their leader. Two commissions were appointed, one of which is to be an executive consulting junta to receive any new proposals from the Mexican government and the other to direct the diplomatic or commercial relations of the revolutionists with the United States.

It was no secret at the Madero camp yesterday that the abandonment of border warfare is in line with the policy of the Insurrectos from now on to court early recognition by the United States of their belligerency.

Madero's Manifesto

Madero's military lieutenants were loth to abandon their positions around Juarez, especially Gen. Orozco, who was confident he could take the city. Gen. Madero, however, reassured his men of his faith in them, explaining his plans in the following manifesto:

"When you were invited to come and take the important city of Juarez you all responded to my call with a cry of enthusiasm. I know that your efforts would have proved irresistible and that very quickly this city would have fallen into our hands; but since arriving at the border I have received knowledge that when our brothers took another town, which is also on the international line of the United States, the bullets of those fighting fell on American territory and claimed many victims."

This brought diplomatic complications, which would be inevitable if an attack were made on Juarez, and might bring about very serious complications with a nation which has often given us proofs of its friendship and it devolves upon us to sacrifice this immense military advantage which would result in the taking of Juarez, which would probably result in an international conflict.

HARVARD MEN

May Not Protest Dartmouth Victory

CAMBRIDGE, May 8.—The general opinion among the Harvard athletic authorities today appeared to be in favor of allowing Dartmouth's victory on the track Saturday by a score of 60 to 57 to stand without protest, despite the fact that Smith who scored five points for the Green in the high hurdles kicked down six barriers in violation of the rule recently adopted which disqualifies a runner who knocks down more than two.

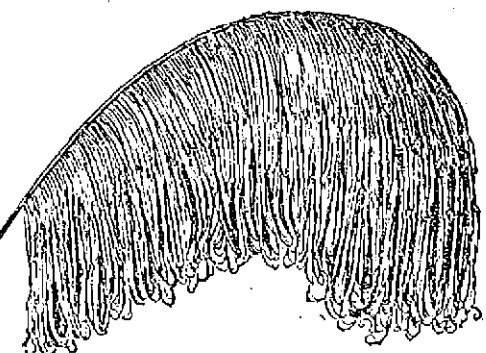

Manager Floyd of Harvard said that he was talking with Manager Hillman regarding an agreement when the pistol sent the hurdles away, while Referee Billings states that he heard something of such an agreement so he made no ruling when Smith broke the tape, leaving six hurdles flat in his path.

Athletic Manager Garcelon stated today that there would be no appeal to the referee for a decision on this high hurdle.

100 CHILDREN DOUBLE EVENT

A very imposing service was held in St. Andrew's church, North Hill, yesterday morning when about 100 children received their first communion. The event took place at the 7 o'clock mass, which was celebrated by Rev. E. J. Cornell, O. M. I., pastor of the church, who also administered the sacrament to the children. A very large congregation was in attendance and at the close of the service, Rev. Fr. Cornell, O. M. I., addressed the children and explained to them the significance of the event, which he said was the happiest of their lives up to the present time.

After the mass a dainty breakfast was provided for the children, the meal being served on the grounds of the church by the ladies of the parish. Two long tables were used, cross-shaped in arrangement, and at these the children were seated, girls on one side of the board and boys on the other. Above the tables hung a large American flag, emphasizing the fact that while the youthful participants were enrolled as soldiers of God by the administration of the sacrament they had just received, they were also reminded by the presence of the stars and stripes that a soldier of God would also prove true and loyal to his country's cause.

The following women were in charge of the outdoor banquet: Matrons, Mrs. Dennis J. Dewire, Mrs. J. H. O'Brien, Mrs. Thomas F. Sheridan, assistants, Miss Mary Twomey, president of the Children of Mary; Miss Helen Murphy, vice-president of the Children of Mary; Miss Lena Cassidy, president of the Blessed Virgin Mary sodality; Misses Ella Page, Frances Rogers, Elizabeth Rogers; Aids, Misses Agnes Collins, Anna Higgins, Agnes Hennessey, Marcelle Henley, Alice Maxwell, Alice Riley, Florence Mahoney. Mary Reedy, Isabel Kennedy, Mary Cassidy, Ella Cassidy, Mary Higgins, Ella McCusker, Mary O'Brien, Mrs. Michael Hayes, Mrs. Henry Mahoney, Mrs. B. W. Kearney, Timothy McCarthy, William McCarthy, Charles Hayes, Joseph O'Brien. In the afternoon at 3 o'clock, vesper service was held and the children were enrolled in the scapular.

ELEVATOR FIRE

Stubborn Blaze in Omaha Today

OMAHA, Neb., May 8.—A stubborn fire which started in the elevator shaft of Creighton college today did damage exceeding $60,000 and will cause the suspension of classes of 500 students in the building for some time. Creighton college was established and is maintained by a $2,000,000 endowment of the late Count John A. Creighton and is conducted by the Jesuit order.

DOUBLE EVENT

Was Observed at St. Joseph's Church

The 43d anniversary of the foundation of the first French Catholic parish of this city was celebrated in an elaborate manner in the churches yesterday. The occasion was a double event in the old temple in Lee street, being also the feast of St. Joseph. Rev. Fr. Watelle, O. M. I., pastor of St. Joseph's parish, officiated at high mass at St. Joseph's church, which was celebrated at 10.30 o'clock. He was assisted by Rev. Fr. Baron, O. M. I., as deacon and Rev. Fr. Racette, O. M. I., as sub deacon. The choir was to repeat the Easter program, but on account of the illness of St. Joseph, it was abandoned. The harmonized mass of Mrs. second tone was rendered under direction of Mr. Frank Gourdeau, with Mrs. Joseph A. Bernard at the organ. The soloists were Telephore Trudel, E. J. Laroche, Edgar Montmarquet, the latter of Manchester, N. H., Telephore Mink and Frank Gourdeau.

The altar was prettily decorated and the electrical effects were beautiful. The sermon a powerful one, was delivered by Rev. Fr. Watelle, O. M. I., whose text was "St. Joseph." The able preacher spoke at length on the patron of the parish, and then he gave a brief sketch of the parish and its work since its foundation, paying a tribute to the late Fr. Garin, O. M. I., the zealous and indefatigable worker.

The church was filled with the faithful, many coming from other parishes, especially a number of the old pioneers, and the ceremony was a most impressive one, as it reminded some of nearly 50 years ago.

St. Jean-Baptiste

At St. Jean Baptiste church the Easter music was repeated by the choir under the direction of Dr. George E. Casse, Mr. Arthur J. Martel presiding at the organ. A large congregation attended and the sermon was preached by Rev. Fr. Denzil, O. M. I., D. D. Rev. Fr. Brulard, O. M. I., D. D. was the celebrant.

Notre Dame de Lourdes

Rev. Fr. Lamotte, O. M. I., officiated at Notre Dame de Lourdes church yesterday and Rev. Fr. Megnan, O. M. I., delivered the sermon. The Easter program was repeated under the direction of Mr. J. A. Racicot, Miss Alexandra presiding at the organ. The notes of the mass were sustained by Misses Blanche Levesque, Cora Renaud, Beatrice March, Emma March, Marianne Deslats and Grace Loranger. At the offertory Miss Bella Lavigne and Mr. H. A. Racicot rendered a beautiful "Ave Maria."

A NEW HOSPITAL

DONATED BY REV. PETER AND

LATE REV. M. RONON

BOSTON, May 8.—Archbishop O'Connell announced at the dedication of St. Margaret's hospital, Cushing avenue, Dorchester, yesterday, that the donors of the building were the Rev. Peter Ronan, pastor of St. Peter's church, Meeting House Hill, and the late Rev. Michael Ronan, who for many years was pastor of St. Peter's church Lowell, and that the gift had been made in memory of their mother, Mrs. Margaret Ronan. It had been known that the money to erect the building was donated, but it remained for the archbishop to reveal the identity of the donors.

ALL IRISH PARTIES UNITED IN MOVEMENT TO REVIVE GAELIC TONGUE AND ANCIENT ARTS

By GEORGE WAUGH ARNOLD.

THAT it is possible to get Irishmen together on one object and keep them enthusiastic workers at it for seventeen years, though they differ widely in religious and political views, is proved by the remarkable history of the Gaelic League.

Its messengers now in America from the parent body on the "old sod" are the Rev. Father Michael O'Flanagan and Mr. Fionan MacColum, and to look after the art industry side of the campaign are the Misses Marian O'Shea, Brigit O'Quinn, Eileen Noone and Brigit MacLaughlin. A mass meeting will be held in Chicago on May 11 to celebrate the success of their winter's propaganda, and they hope to take back to the educational fund of the league an even greater fund than the $55,000 subscribed by American sympathizers five years ago.

League Has Dual Purpose.

The league has two purposes. One is the restoration of Gaelic as a spoken tongue and the other the revival of Irish arts and industries.

The headquarters are in Dublin, in charge of President Douglas Hyde, and there are branches in each of the thirty-two counties in Ireland, with a total membership of 50,000. When the league was organized there was scarcely a school in which Gaelic was taught. Now there are 131 schools in which the whole course of study is bilingual—English and Gaelic—and in 3,066 out of the 6,638 Irish primary schools the ancient language is taught either as an ordinary or as an added subject. Then the league has established six summer and four winter colleges in which Gaelic is the only language used. And the crowning victory is the determination of the senate of the National university to make Irish a necessary subject for entrance beginning with the year 1913.

The league's success in the revival of arts and industries has been quite as great. Thousands of young folks have been made self supporting, and thousands more are making bigger salaries than they ever dreamed of making except they emigrated.

Tremendous Industrial Boom.

An interesting example of how Ire-

land's high class exports are increasing is shown in its trade with just one American city, St. Louis. Four years ago, when Father O'Flanagan first began to arouse in that city public interest in the league, the average value of goods imported from the Emerald Isle was $20,000 per year. But in 1910 there passed through the St. Louis customhouse Irish goods to the value of $315,137, divided as follows: Linens, $12,482; fabrics, $25,168; handkerchiefs, $12,742; laces, $6,003; miscellaneous, $37,766.

As Father O'Flanagan said in one of his speeches, "You who have endured the pangs of sorrow, the heartbreak, when you parted with your parents, your relatives, your sweethearts and friends when leaving the Green Isle know what it would have meant to you to have been able to secure profitable employment at home."

Colleens as Pretty as Clever.

The four young ladies who have come over to show their American sisters how to train their nimble fingers to reproduce old Irish art work are experts in their respective lines and are as pretty as they are clever. They come from the "four winds of Erin," and each has the typical beauty of her locality. One has also black hair and deep blue eyes, another has shimmering bronze hair and brown eyes, another brown hair, light blue eyes and marble skin, and another auburn hair and gray eyes.

Miss O'Shea lectures, while Miss O'Quinn makes Limerick lace and Irish crochet, Miss Noone makes marquetry and repoussé leather work and Miss MacLaughlin weaves rugs.

At the lectures the colleens wear gowns that are historically perfect reproductions of Gaelic fifteenth century dress. They are loose fitting tunics made in one piece with a girle of cord, from which a purse is suspended. The designs are copied from the Book of Kells, in Trinity college, Dublin.

It will probably surprise most Americans, as I am frank to say, it did us," said Mr. MacColum, "to know that on this continent there are 600,000 persons who speak Gaelic. There are 60,000 in New York city alone. You can imagine their interest in this revival of their mother tongue, and we have published for them in the last three years scores of works in Irish—histories, novels, plays, poems and operas."

One very important feature of the league is its constant teaching of temperance. The clergy, the employers, the police and even the publicans are praising it for the fine results it has achieved. Dr. Hyde's idea is to have all through the long winter frequent Gaelic concerts and dances, and the 130 organizers and traveling teachers must know how to dance and sing and play the pipes as well as understand the intricacies of the Irish vocabulary.

Then in summer there is the fells, or as we would say, educational festival, and, thanks to the league influence, the sight of even one drunken man at these gatherings is extremely rare. It is a strict rule of the league that no intoxicants shall be offered for sale at its festivities, and no meetings for either business, study or sport may be held in a house where liquor is sold.

The league is also reviving the old Irish games and customs, including the cailin, or roadside dance, and the hurling match. It recognizes that healthy amusement has become a necessity in modern life. It works to elevate the tastes of the people. While promoting real fun and humor, it steadily discourages not only objectionable entertainments, but also those which are merely vulgar.

Gaelic Older Than Latin.

Gaelic is the principal living branch of the old Celtic language, which was spoken over western Europe before Rome was built. The names of many rivers and mountains in western and central Europe prove this, just as the Indian names of places in America prove that that language was once spoken in the greater part of the United States. For instance, there is the river Garonne, in France. That would be written in modern Irish "Garbhann," which means rough river. The Rhone would be "Rudhabhann," meaning red river. The termination "abhann," meaning river, is found all through Great Britain under the form "avon." There are plenty of good old Gaelic words in English, like "salute," spelled "goilear," which means plenty or enough. "Shants" is simply "sean-tigh," which means literally "old house."

There are nine varieties of lace made in Ireland, and there are about 10,000 girls constantly engaged in its manufacture, while there are two or three times that number who intermittently or not altogether as a means of livelihood work at lacemaking. From 50 to 75 cents per day of eight hours work will perhaps be the average pay of the lacemakers, although it should be stated in this connection that a dollar there has about twice the purchasing power which it has here.

All Irish lace is made by hand. The implements are simple—sewing or crochet needles, depending upon the design of the lace to be made, and for certain varieties a small frame, upon which the threads are woven. Irish point lace is the most expensive variety and sells for about $35 per yard. It requires two or three weeks for an operator to produce a yard of this lace. Of course there are masterpieces in lacemaking, just as in any other branch of art. As the value of a wonderful painting may assume fabulous proportions, so very large sums are paid for lace creations which may be classed as masterpieces.

Revival of the Bagpipes. And through the persistence of the league the old Irish bagpipe has come into its own again. It disappeared from Irish dress except in a few remote districts in the west until its reappearance at the Folsom brought it again into popular favor. The women are taking up the study of the bagpipe as well as of the harp, and a colleen with the drones over her shoulder makes a delightful picture.

MILLION BOOK LIBRARY LATEST ADDITION TO AMERICA'S WONDERS

HALF THE FRONT OF THE NEW YORK PUBLIC LIBRARY, LOOKING DOWN FIFTH AVENUE FROM THE CORNER OF FORTY-SECOND STREET.

ON Tuesday, May 23, the magnificent New York Public Library, built at a cost of $7,000,000 and containing more than 1,000,000 books, will be opened to the public.

At the ceremony will be President Taft, Governor Dix, Mayor Gaynor and so many other men of mental prominence that it is impossible for space reasons to give even a partial list of them.

The great marble pile on Fifth avenue, covering the frontage from Fortieth to Forty-second street, has already become one of the sights of the metropolis. Its architectural beauty would make it a feature even of the great art centers abroad.

Mayor Seth Low laid the cornerstone on Nov. 10, 1902, after three years had been spent in removing the old Egyptian reservoir that had been a landmark for our grandfathers. The stone weighs eight tons and has beneath it a leaden box containing newspapers of current date from all over the world.

When Samuel J. Tilden died in 1886 the project to unite the Astor and Lenox libraries on one foundation became ready for fulfillment through the fortune he left to the city for educational purposes. It took nine years to settle the legal complications arising over the will.

Several of the Carnegie circulating libraries were associated with the Lenox and Astor in the new foundation, which was incorporated as the New York Public Library. The city agreed to provide a site for the institution and put up a building on condition that a circulating library should be part of the foundation and that the library should be open evenings, Sundays and holidays.

With these conditions accepted the terms of the open competition among architects were announced, and from the designs offered the best six were to be accepted. This competition was won by Carrere & Hastings on Nov. 11, 1897.

In the meantime the site of the old reservoir had been secured, and in June, 1898, the work of removing this structure was begun. The foundations on which the present library stands were started in the spring of that year.

Some statistics of the New York Public Library are necessary to a conception of the great scale on which the building has been erected. It is 330 feet long on Fifth avenue and 210 feet deep from Fifth avenue. Leaving out the courtyard on the Fortieth street side of the building, it extends over an area of 115,000 feet.

The reading room, on the Bryant park side of the building, is the largest apartment of the kind in the world. It is 295 feet long, 77 feet wide and 59 feet high. Beneath this reading room is the main stack room, divided into seven stories. The stack room is fitted with sixty-three miles of shelves, capable of holding 2,700,000 volumes. As other rooms for books are capable of holding about 800,000 volumes, the library may house as many as 3,500,000 books.

In addition to the main reading room there are 200 smaller rooms meant for various purposes. As a home for the valuable books it contains the new building is naturally fireproof. The bookshelves are of bronze, and this material and marble practically make up the whole building. There is 376,000 cubic feet of marble in the library, and wood is used only in the wainscoting of certain rooms.

The history of the New York Public Library is epitomized in the inscriptions that occupy the three spaces on the attic. On the left in the square space are the words, "The Astor Library, founded by John Jacob Astor for the advancement of useful knowledge, 1848." On the center space is the inscription, "The Lenox Library, founded by James Lenox, dedicated to history, literature and the fine arts." On the right plaque is the inscription, "The Tilden trust, founded by Samuel Jones Tilden to serve the interests of science and popular education, 1893."

Behind the blind top story of the library is a series of art galleries lighted from the top. The ceiling over the staircase has been decorated with an elaborate painting by James Finn. In these galleries will be housed the famous Stuart collection of paintings, which has been kept in the Lenox library. It includes canvases by Gainsborough, Landseer, Turner, Reynolds, Corot, Innes, Copley and other great masters.

As just one final figure to fix the size and worth of this great library in one's mind it may be set down that the circulating department is prepared to loan 25,000,000 volumes per year.

Maderos, Mexico's Proudest Family, Divided Over the Insurrection

ONE can hardly think of Mexico these days, especially if he pronounces it the Spanish way, "May-hee-ko," without his mind instantly jumping to its all-or-none Madero. Francisco Ignacio de that ilk is the center of the storm cloud that threatens the Diaz dynasty, and the majority of his relatives may be said to compose its circumference.

Counting the Madero family from the late Evaristo, the insurgent's grandfather, down to the grandchildren of the insurgent leader's brothers, the sum total is popularly believed to be 1,000. But in the affair of the present insurrection it is a case of a house divided against itself, for Francisco senior and five sons, Emilio, Gabriel, Julio, Evaristo and Carlos, vigorously upheld the Diaz regime. The brothers upholding Francisco are Gustavo, Alfonso and Raul, and the blood relatives include Aguirre Benavides, Jose Vasconcelos, Pinar Suarez, Roque Estrada and Pedro Antonio Santos, all of whom may be seen in the accompanying picture.

The family of Madero is of Portuguese extraction, and its many members are, justly or unjustly, proud of the fact that no one of the name has ever broken his or her word. It is enormously wealthy, old Evaristo's will alone disposing of about $20,000,000, and a majority of the second and third generations are millionaires.

All are highly educated, nearly every one holding degrees from colleges in the United States and Europe, and the members of the revolutionist faction are far from being the ragtag and bobtail sort of creatures that usually figure in Latin American rebellions.

The interests of the Maderos are principally agricultural, but they are also heavy owners of lead and silver mining properties. In the smelting industry they control the large Torreon smelters. They are also engaged in banking. Ernesto Madero, an uncle of the insurrectionist leaders, being the president of the Banco de Nuevo Leon in Monterrey.

The Madero hacienda—a large property embracing a number of ranches—in the northern part of the state of Coahuila, constitutes in many respects a remarkable institution. It embraces an area about fifty miles wide and 200 miles long. This property is devoted largely to grazing, and on it vast herds of cattle are raised. The stock consists chiefly of horned cattle and sheep.

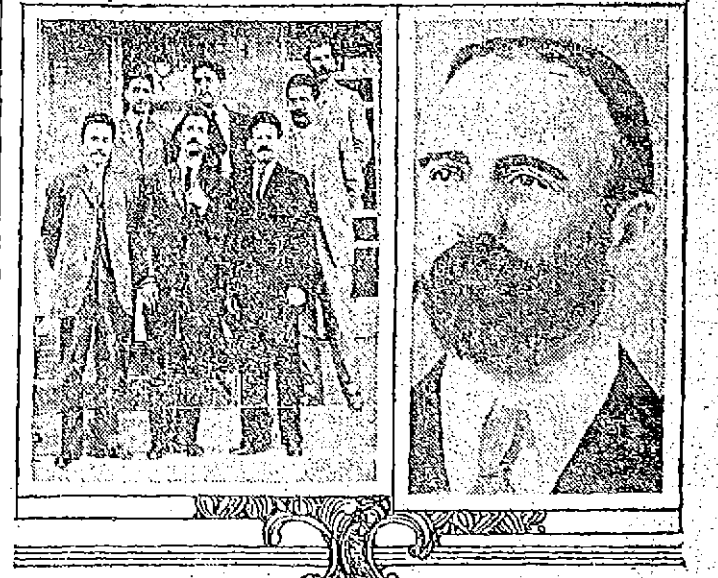

Certain members of the family are large wheat growers. The Maderos have extensive vineyards, in fact the largest in Mexico. They have in the town of Parras, not far from the line of the Mexican International railway, which is now a part of the National railways system of Mexico, flour, wine and cotton factories. A highly modernized flour mill converts the wheat they raise into flour for export and domestic purposes. For making wine and liquors of their grapes they have an enormous establishment.

Their cotton mill—the Maderos also own large cotton plantations—is also a modern affair where prints are made on a large scale, as well as the raw cotton being prepared, spun and woven.

and where the whole year around some of the family is to be found. Their winter homes are mostly in Monterrey, although Francisco Madero has a palatial residence in the City of Mexico. It is at Parras where the most lavish hospitality is extended to even the transient guest. The most ideal life is led at this beautiful hacienda. Not a Sunday passes but there is a riding party ending with a picnic in some most wonderful mountain gorge, or a coach and four will carry the beautiful dark eyed señoritas and the gay young seniors off to Monterrey or Saltillo to attend a dance or fete.

The venerable grandfather used to look upon all this reveling with leniency, but "early to rise" was a habit of his life, and he insisted upon breakfast at 6:30 o'clock every morning. One young man, speaking of the hospitality of the Maderos, said: "My father had some business dealings with the governor, and he asked me to call and pay my respects to the family. After a short talk with the old gentleman he said, 'Where are you stopping?' "I named my hotel. " 'Isn't my house good enough for you?' he asked. When I returned to the hotel I was told that two Mexicans had carried my trunk away and paid my bill. I went to spend an hour and tarried two weeks."

buildings of the pauper department, and most people would thereby be led to suppose that it was part and parcel of those buildings. Then the general public might have some qualms in riding past there in the electric cars. The owners of property on the opposite side of the street are protesting against that location and it is better to understand now whether the city would be liable for damages by placing such a hospital so close to the public street and so close to private residences that nobody would care to reside in the vicinity and that in consequence private property would thereby be reduced in value.

GENERAL AMES

Attended Reunion of West Point Men

NEW YORK, May 8.—Seven of ten surviving members of the West Point class of '61, the first to be graduated by the military academy during the civil war, held a reunion last night on the anniversary of their graduation.

HAPPY REUNION

A happy reunion of relatives took place today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Larose, 31 Beaulieu street, the occasion being the marriage of the latter couple's two sons, Alphonse and Joseph, Jr.

Alphonse Larose and Miss Alvina Paris were married at a nuptial mass celebrated at 7 o'clock at St. Jean Baptiste church, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Fr. Ouellette, O. M. I. The witnesses were Messrs. Joseph Larose, Sr., and Alphonse Paris.

While this wedding was being performed, a brother of the groom, Joseph Larose, Jr., and Miss Eveline Beaudette were being married in Manchester, N. H. The nuptial knot being tied at a mass celebrated at St. Augustin's church by Rev. Fr. Chevallier.

The witnesses were Mr. Elphège Beaudette of this city and Mr. Geoffrey Beaudette of Manchester. Immediately after the ceremony the couple and their witnesses left for this city arriving here in time to partake of a wedding breakfast served at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Paris, 34 Lakeview avenue, parents of Mrs. Alphonse Larose. The two happy couples then repaired to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Larose, Sr., where a reception was held in the afternoon, to be continued this evening. Tomorrow evening the couples will be tendered another reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Desrosiers, 75 Austin street. The two couples will make their home at 31 Beaulieu street.

POPULAR OFFICER ASSAULT CHARGE

Patrolman J. H. McKay Man Arrested for Lawrence Police

The many friends of Police Officer John H. McKay, one of the most popular members of the local police department will be deeply pained to learn of his death which occurred yesterday at his home, 130 Bartlett street. Deceased while not feeling well of late had been able to perform his duty as an officer up to within a week and was able to be about within a few days. Stomach trouble was the cause of death.

Officer McKay was 49 years of age and had been a member of the police force since 1884. No man in the department commanded higher respect from his fellow officers than did the deceased. He was the soul of kindness, quiet, modest and retiring, but pleasant and genial under all circumstances. He was scrupulously faithful in the performance of his duties and possessed of sound judgment at all times. He is survived by his wife, Belle, four children, Anna, James, John and Gertrude; his mother Elizabeth; one brother, Thomas F., the well known baker, and three sisters, Elizabeth, Catherine B. McKay and Mrs. Michael Sullivan. Funeral notice later.

Tony Silva was arrested in this city last night by Inspector McCloughry for the Lawrence police who wanted him for alleged assault with a knife. According to information received in this city, Silva figured in a stabbing affray and after using the knife, boarded a car for Lowell. The Lowell police were immediately notified and the inspectors were ordered to keep tabs on the Lawrence cops. An inspection of the car on which it was thought that Silva would come to this city failed to locate him as a passenger who it arrived in Merrimack square, but the inspector thinking that Silva might have left the car before it reached the square started over Bridge street and was just turning into First street when he ran across a person who answered the description of the man wanted by the Lawrence police.

Silva was taken to the police station where he denied his identity, but when searched, a knife which was covered with blood was found concealed in his trousers' leg. After the knife was found he admitted that he was the man who was wanted in Lawrence. Word was telephoned to Lawrence and an inspector came to this city and took him into custody.
